Give Glamour To Drab Corners

Room corners commonly are drab and uninteresting, but there is no need for this lack of glamor. Brightening that corner can be fun, and the effect amazing.

A bit of face-lifting of an unusual sort is first in order. The objective is to give the neglected corner a new and interesting look and then to put the corner to work. This is done by:

Installing a "working wall" of perforated panels at the corner; or on one wing of the corner; putting this unusual wall of many holes to work with metal brackets which fit any place, at one-inch intervals. The brackets hold such interesting objects as favorite books, artistic bric-a-bac, some handsome planters, or even a wall-hung telephone stand or coffee table. Pictures and portraits are additional ideas for the artistic homemaker.

This interesting new combination of hooks and holes can be put up by anyone who can handle ordinary tools, Both the panels and matching fixtures are available at lumber yards.

Furring strips that fit between the vertical rows of holes should be attached to the wall at intervals of 16 inches—right into the wall studs. The perforated panels then can be glued and nailed to the wood strips. These panels may be painted like any hardboard, using an undercoater and one or two finish coats of paint, enamel or lacquer.

Save By Caulking

Careful caulking of a house pays big returns on a modest investment. Not only will caulking seal out fuel-robbing drafts, it will seal out moisture that is harmful to both wood and paint.

Before launching your exterior painting job, check up on trouble spots that may need caulking — cracks around window and door frames, balustrades, butt joints of wood and stone on porches, butt joints of siding and corner boards.

Daniel Reed Home On River Acres Drive

Since April, the Daniel Reed family have been living in this light brown wood frame house with white trim. It has six rooms plus bath and a half and is decorated in contemporary style.

The Daniel Reed home, at 1004 River Acres Drive, features a step-down living room with a large picture window looking out onto the back yard, instead of the street. All of the ceilings in the house are studio ceilings following the natural slant of the roof.

The light brown wood frame home, with white trim, stands on a lot 112 feet wide by 175 feet long. It was begun last October and the family moved into it this April.

The home includes a living room, kitchen, dinette, three bedrooms ,bath and a half, recreation room, utility space and garage. It has six closets plus several large cabinets with louvered doors. There is an attic but no basement. Heating is oil automatic.

The garage was originally designed to hold two cars but the Reed family felt that their children, Ann, 10 and Tommy, 8, needed a special place to play, so converted part of it into a recreation room. Its' walls are light gypsum wood.

All of the inside decorating, in contemporary style, was done by the owners. The unique entranceway has a natural slate floor. A planter, which is lit from above, shows through the narrow, full-length window in front.

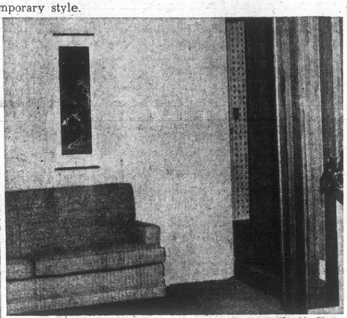
The living room, down a step from the rest of the house, has one wall paneled in Philippine mahogany. The fireplace is done in buff tekoe sandstone. Wall decorations include Japanese rice paper scrolls in turquoise, gold and black and white plaster-of-paris plaques with primitive designs done in shades of brown. The carpeting is tan cotton.

The master bedroom has a gray cotton carpet, white spread and robins-egg blue walls. The dust ruffle, chair cover and curtains are all done in the same small block design of gold, gray, blue-green and black. A large mirror has a gold scroll frame.

Tommy's room is done in a seaside theme. The wallpaper has a green background with a harbor scene in shades of gray, white and red. A fishnet drape on the window with flys and lures fastened to it adds atmosphere, as does the large starfish on the night stand and the shells and model duck on the table. The bedspread is in gray and the dark red carpet matches the touch of red in the wallpaper.

Ann's room is charmingly feminine. The twin beds have pink spreads with a white dust ruffle. One wall is done in a light pink background with tiny ballet girls dancing across it. The drapes are white and the rug is a pink shade.

Stained birch cupboards, with orange cupboard tops and built-in stove and oven are featured in the kitchen. The walls are in aqua with one of the dinette walls papered in an antique grill work pattern.



Tecumseh Herald Photos

The living room, down a step from the rest of the house, features one wall paneled in Philippine mahogany and a planter over the buff sandstone fireplace. Japanese-rice paper scrolls hang on another wall.

The brown tile floor in the bathroom has orange, tan and white streaks through it carrying blending with the brown cabinets with an orange top. The smaller bathroom is done in yellow.

The house, 24 feet wide by 75 feet long, was built by Haeussler Contracting with the lumber and materials furnished by R. S. Moore & Son.

Unplug Your Own Drains!

Of all the occasional inconveniences to which homes are subjected, a clogged drain line is one of the most common and most irritating.

In the case of a complete stoppage, the home owner will be well-advised to call for the services of a specialist, because the repair job involves both special skills and tools.

But if the drain has merely slowed down in its rate of flow and is not entirely stopped up, repair is still within the do-it-yourself realm of possibility — providing certain safeguards are observed.

Almost all types of drain pipe chemicals are designed to generate considerable heat when mixed with water. This heat creates a boiling action which melts the grease and scours out the drain pipe.

Chemicals of this sort—available on the market—are effective as long as the stoppage is caused by grease or other material which can be attacked by the chemical and the heat. These solvents are useless when used against metal objects, rags, or other solid items.

There is another point to remember in connection with the use of such solvents. To be effective, the solvent must be able to reach the point of stoppage before the reaction and the accompanying heat has been lost.

If the drain has become completely clogged, it is not advisable to use a chemical. It will not be effective and is dangerous when a motor-driven "snake" is used — as it probably will have to be. A person may suffer serious burns to the skin and eyes even after the chemical has been dormant for hours.

Ranch-Type House Most Popular

More and more split-level homes will be built this year, but the ranch-type house is expected to retain its No. 1 popularity spot. The new homes will have more insulation to make for more comfortable and economical livability.

Quality materials will be exploited more fully in the new construction. Finally, homes will be bigger, but built on smaller house lots.

Use Enamel Outdoors

Exterior enamel is the type of non-chalking finish to use for both metal and wood porch and garden furniture. Be sure to use a proper primer on both metal and wood surfaces before the finishing coat is applied.

WHY PROGRAMS FAILED

Secretary of Agriculture Benson points out that over a period of 25 years we have spent something like $12 billion on the federal farm-aid program. He then says, "These costs undoubtedly would be borne willingly if the program solved the problems, but the problems have not been solved." Furthermore, he continues, all that spending has made "little or no contribution to the problem of low-income farmers . . ."

The Wall Street Journal, in a lengthy editorial based on the Secretary's statement, sums up the varied reasons why federal intervention in agriculture has been a failure. The most basic of those reasons, in its view, ". . . is the assumption of farm legislators and administrators over the years that they could defy, indefinitely and with impunity, the laws of the market place." The classic example of this was the continuation of rigid 90 per cent of parity price supports for basic crops long after the emergency conditions brought on by World War II had passed, with the vast surpluses that resulted. Summing up, the Journal says, ". . . the goal must be a gradual return to a free market in agriculture. No other conclusion, indeed, is possible."

Even in this period of arbitrary and unrealistic price supports for the basic field crops, other major crops have moved in the free market to the advantage of all concerned. The outstanding example is livestock. There have been seasons and years when livestock prices were lower than producers liked—just as there have been seasons and years when meat prices were higher than consumers thought reasonable. But the prices, whether high or low, were determined by the natural law of supply and demand—not by fallible human beings. The meat moved into the channels of consumption and was eaten—instead of moving into storage. And the meat industry is on a sound and healthy basis.

QUANTITY AND QUALITY

More than two hundred years ago Thomas Fuller remarked that to sell cheaper means that either quality or service must be cut—usually both. Of course, this principle was laid down before mass production and its partner mass distribution, existed, and these two forces have changed matters enormously.

Another statement by the same man however is as completely true today as it was then: "A fair profit must be made or one does not last long."

The modern retailer, chain and independent, has brought down prices by trading in greater volume. By this means goods can be sold cheaper and still be of quality. By the same means the standard of service can remain excellent and a "fair profit" can be made. Thomas Fuller and the retailers of his day would have considered the percentage of profit earned under modern merchandising methods fantastically small.

Mass merchandising has out-moded the old theory that in order to sell cheaper, quality or service must be cut.

Is There a Cure for Diabetes?

There is no cure for diabetes.
Ever since diabetes was discovered about 1552 B.C., some 200 years before the birth of King Tut, charlatans have claimed they had a "cure." Beware of all such claims. In 1921, however, a dependable treatment, although not a cure, was developed for diabetes. This preparation is Insulin.

Your physician is thoroughly familiar with this product and how it is employed to control diabetes. If he finds Insulin necessary in your case, we can supply it in exactly the right strength.

"We've decided to quit commuting from Monroe to here every day," Mr. Merrill said. "We've got our place there sold. So show us a good value in a nice 3 bedroom house."

"We'll be glad to help you find a good buy," I replied.

"Fine," Mr. Merrill said, "but perhaps I should mention our buying situation. We have $1,600 in cash, plus a $1,200 contract for deed which we are carrying back on our place in Monroe. In addition, I make fairly good money and could make large monthly payments."

"That should work," I said reassuringly.

Later that day, the Merrills decided a home in Indian Acres filled the bill.

We explained their proposal to the owners. They agreed to accept the contract on the Monroe property plus the $1,600 down payment, provided a new loan could be secured for the remaining balance so that they would receive the remainder in cash. This was done to the satisfaction of all concerned.

If you want to buy a home, please come in and talk over your "buying situation." The chances are good we can help you too!

NEWS OF THE FARM

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

"Intensification" is one of the most practical ways for a small farmer with a good labor supply to increase his income, according to Mr. Ingerson.

This idea may sound complicated, he says, but it's really not hard to understand. It means to do things which use more labor but bring a higher gross income per acre.

Adding dairy or poultry enterprises is a good way to intensify with livestock, according to farm economists at Michigan State University. These enterprises provide a market for a lot of family labor and use it year around. They bring a high return per dollar's worth of deed used.

This move may take additional capital and require changes in the cropping program to provide the needed feed. However, many Michigan farmers have found it to be the most practical solution to their small-farm income problem.

Another way to intensify is to produce high-value crops such as tomatoes, sugar beets, beans, truck crops, strawberries and other small fruits and berries. These crops, like dairy and poultry, use additional labor and capital to produce high returns per acre. Farmers who use this plan should be careful to pick a crop with a good available market, says Ingerson.

Marketing offers a third way for small farmers to intensify. By using family labor to carry out some of the marketing functions usually given to a middleman they can increase income. For example, tomatoes can be sold in four- or eight-pound baskets rather than by the ton and eggs can be packed and sold in one dozen cartons if markets are available.

A farmer can do marketing jobs such as grading, packing and selling in one of three ways. One possibility is to work with other farmers and do it cooperatively. Another is to do a careful job of grading and packing and then turn the selling over to someone else. The third way is for the individual farmer to do the whole marketing job himself with a delivery route or roadside stand.

With any one of these methods a farmer can increase his income because he earns part of the return usually given to a middleman. However, it costs him extra work and takes good business management.

Moll Family Own Mystery Farm

The owners of last week's Mystery Farm, located at 3308 Billmyer Road, Holloway, were Mrs. Elizabeth Moll and her son, Earl. The Moll's bought the farm eight years ago from Fred Blouch. They had previously been renting in that vicinity.

The Moll's are engaged in general farming, including raising beans, corn, hay, and some cattle, hogs, and chickens. A recent improvement was the building of a wood silo.

Mrs. Moll was married to Christ Moll in 1911. She has been a widow for the past 23 years. In addition to Earl, she has three other sons, Lloyd, of Adrian; LaVern, of Holloway; and Ray, of Clayton; and two daughters, Bernice, of Holloway; and Mrs. Viola Pancake, of Convoy, Ohio.

Mrs. Carl Gritzmaker, of Holloway, first identified the farm. She was given a two year subscription to the Tecumseh Herald. The Moll's were given an aerial photograph of the farm and a two year subscription to the Herald from Hayden Mills, Inc., the sponsor of this feature.

Firm Fined $300 For Bad Milk

Arrested for selling milk that did not meet requirements of Michigan's dairy laws, a Duluth, Minn., firm recently was fined $100 each on three different charges when arraigned in Ironwood before Municipal Justice Charles Keeton.

Judge Keeton refused the firm the right to sell milk in Ironwood, and F. M. Skiver, chief of the dairy division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture said the Minnesota dairy would not be permitted to sell its products anywhere in the state until approved by the Department.

The firm is the Foremost Dairies, Inc., of Duluth, Minn., complaint against whom was signed by Alton Bennett, of L'Anse, dairy inspector for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Two of the cases before Judge Keeton involved milk testing less than the 3.5 percent butterfat content required by Michigan law. One sample contained milk that tested 3.1 percent butterfat. The other sample was milk of 3 percent butterfat content.

The third case against the Minnesota firm involved milk in which the bacteria count was in excess of one million per milliliter. Milk sold in this state must contain fewer than 50,000 bacteria per milliliter.

Mr. Skiver said twice within the year the Minnesota firm has been fined for sale of milk containing a lower percentage of butterfat than Michigan requires.

Excess Nitrate Trouble Source For Livestock

Excess nitrate in silage or silage plus alfalfa can cause a drop in milk production, abortion or death in cattle depending on their condition and the amount of excess, the American Veterinary Medical Association warned today.

Sources of excess nitrate include dry cornstalks, silage made from drought-stricken corn, sweet potato vines, and fertilizer sacks or other agricultural chemicals left where animals can reach them.

Veterinary authorities say that any amount of nitrate over 1.5 per cent in the total ration is a potential cause of trouble in livestock. Concentrations above this amount can decrease milk production as much as 30 per cent, and cause pregnant cows to abort. At concentrations above 1.5 per cent in the ration, deaths can occur in adult animals.

If the amount of nitrate consumed is not over 1.5 per cent most cattle will respond to medical treatment and extra energy rations, but they must be handled quietly, the Association said.

Veterinary diagnosis should be used to determine whether nitrate poisoning is the chief cause of production loss or whether other factors are involved.

Dwarf Trees Are Easy To Take Care Of

Dwarf fruit trees are a godsend to the home gardener who usually cannot give the care familiar trees need.

Dwarf trees are produced by grafting a bud-bearing wood from a productive tree variety onto a special root which slows growth rate of the above-ground part of the tree, according to Donald Zeiger, Michigan State University horticulture specialist.

The part of the tree below ground, called the rootstock, is often of a variety called Malling 9, Selected in England, this rootstock has dwarf characteristics. If Malling 9 trees are left to mature, they reach a height of 6-8 feet.

Zeiger reports that dwarf trees do not, in general, require special cultural practices. However, you must allow for the difference in tree size. In pruning, for instance, less wood is removed.

With dwarf fruit trees, especially those on Malling 9, rootstock, be sure to support the grafted plant with a stake. Otherwise, the tree may break at the grafting point.

When planting, be sure the grafted point is about two inches above the soil line, Zeiger warns. If the top part is surrounded by soil, it may take root. Then, you will have a full sized tree on your hands.

Ford wins the battle of the builds

Ford shares them only with a select number of America's most expensive cars. But you get them at low Ford prices.

Large Crowd Attended Children's Day

Saturday was children's day at the Jaycee's annual Homecoming. The day started with contests at the athletic field. At noon, rides at the carnival went on half rate for children and a large crowd of children gathered for them and to see Sage Brush Shorty, who arrived at 3:15. The television personality entertained the youngsters with his magic and ventriloquist acts. He also gave away pictures and talked to all the children before he left. (above) Prizes were given away to the winners of the contest held earlier at the Athletic Field. Bicycles were given away to Fred Kashor and Debra Shelton. Saturday was the biggest day of the 5 day affair.

The Jaycees turned out in mass to work on the Homecoming with many men working all 5 nights under the direction of chairman Bob Breniff. The show opened on Tuesday with Don Aebersold in charge. Don and his helpers: Don Brazee, Dick Beemer, Don Withrow, Dick Kahle, Jack Schutt, Charles Aebersold, Frank Humble, Herb Simmonds and Pete D/rmyer helped get the show off to a good start.

The crowd was larger Wednesday night than the first night and turned out to be second only to Saturday. Preston Caswell was in charge and again many of the Jaycees turned out to work, including Dave Faling, Phil Belleville, Tom Corkery, Bud Morley, John Hamilton, Merlyn Downing, Bob Wallace, Bob Laidlaw, Dermont Poley, Dwight Helms and Bill Davenport. There were many more who worked without even being scheduled. The dunk tank was very busy with Vic Lawson getting most of the dunking. Another popular attraction was wrecking the cars set up in the Jaycee booth with sledge hammers, 3 blows for a quarter.

Rain caused Thursday evening to be unsucessful. Jack Schutt was in charge with Dave Faling, Ray Shelton, Art Schwartz, John Robinson, Dave Ousterhout, Steve Illeck, Bob Murray, Jack Osburn and Mac McClusky helping, to mention only a few.

The Jaycees had the welcome help of Pat and Shirley Gurtzweiler, Diane Fox, Carol Spangler, Barbara Creswell and Joyce Wilbar in the dunk tank.

Friday started out to be a big day but rain soon dampened the hopes. Bill Pace was in charge with Jack Trudeau, Cal Zorn, Lee Brancheau, Bill Snook, Merlyn Downing, Frank Humble and Jack Puffer helping.

It would be easy to recall many Jaycee men who helped one or more days of the affair. Chairman Bob Breniff expressed his thanks to all who helped put over the largest project ever attempted by the local organization. All profits will go for worthwhile local projects.

William Bruce Addressed Rotary

There was a good attendance at the Rotary Club meeting, Tuesday evening with president Virgil Tucker presiding.

Program chairman, Carlos Jones, presented William Bruce, a Rotary member, who told about wire and rod making in the steel mills and his experience in general in the profession over several years before coming to Tecumseh. His talk was educational and interesting. Next week's program will be in charge of John Zeigler, local attorney.

Annual Band Festival Plans Taking Shape

Plans are under way to make this fall's Band Festival, held in Tecumseh on the evennig of October 1st, the greatest of them all.

The theme, "You Are There," taken from the television program of that name, gives the individual bands a wide variety of ideas with which to make their shows colorful, individual and attractive.

For instance: The Adrian High School Band will take the title, "Santa Claus Workshop." It is easy to see that a highly trained, live group of young musicians, can do some very original things with a dynamic theme such as this.

The varous titles for the event will be published as the bands prepare their programs. The Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring the event.

Contestants Can See Free Show

Everyone entering the model plane contest under the co-sponsorship of the Strand Theatre and Hite's Hardware, will be admitted free to the movie on Friday or Saturday, July 19 and 20.

United States Air Force ace acrobatic fliers, called "Thunderbirds," will appear in a 30-minute color film, Friday and Saturday, showing their outstanding flying skill. Their regular flying formation is a close diamond in which they fly only a few feet apart. They then break from that into acrobatic rolls, climbs and at times, even paint designs in the sky with special colored vapor trails.

Flying jet F-100's, one of the latest of the supersonic jets, the Thunderbirds will demonstrate the design which made them famous, the roll-out from the diamond into a clover formation. The film is a presentation of the U. S. Air Force, in co-operation with the Strand Theatre program.

Also showing will be the feature attraction, "Spirit of St. Louis," starring James Stewart as Charles A. Lindbergh. The story

Rain Hampering Completion Of New Construction

City Manager Nelson reported to the City Council this week that he has been battling the weather the last few weeks in hope of getting some new construction done. The Ayling Co. has finished all of the blacktopping.

The city is working on curb and gutter in Herrick Park as well as installing storm sewer on Pottawatamie between Adrian St. and Democratic. It is necessary to install three catch basins and lower the intersection eighteen inches in order to correct the bad condition at the intersection of Pottawatamie and Democratic. The city has tile on hand to install storm sewer in the parking lot off Ottawa St. Plans at the present time are to seal coat it this year to put it in condition to blacktop next year. The city also plans to install a a catch basin on the lot off Pearl Street and seal coat it.

The schedule called for seal coating work to start on Shawnee, Maumee and Sunset today as well as completing Russell Road and Cummins Street.

It is hoped taht bids will be Blood Road bridge last week. Work started on repairing it this week. Rogers Highway is in bad condition. Since it is a federal aid road, the City Manager is trying to obtain federal help in paying for the resurfacing.

tI is hoped that bids will be opened for the new bridge on North Evans St. yet this month.

The new water tower should be in operation before the month is over. Men from Hammond Iron Works have been here repairing the leaks and it is being painted.

HENRY'S PEPPERMINT STICK

Few other trade symbols generate more nostalgia in the minds of men than does the captivating, colorful barber pole. The June-August issue of "While You Wait" says that the familiar red and white stripes have been beckoning to men back as far as the sixteenth century, since the days when the barber was alho the surgeon and dentist as well as the hair cutter and beard shaver.

Blood-letting, or "cupping" and "bleeding," as it was called, was one of the major preoccupations of the people of this era compelled to cure its illness without the benefits of modern medical science. The barber pole with its red and white stripes goes back to the time when a white bandage, striped with the blood of the patient, hung out of the barber-surgeon's window to attract the passerby who might be in the market for a little blood-letting himself.

It was the edict of Henry the Eighth of England that resulted in the use of the red and white stripes to formally identify the qualified barber-surgeons. He forced those who killed more than they cured out of the practice of surgery and commanded them to stick to their shears for barbering only. The Master Barber-Surgeon Guild arose from the ranks of the qualified and in fact the fathers of modern surgery.

On these summer days the community swimming pool is one of the best places for Tecumseh children to cool off. Under the direction of Bill Benham of Ridgeway, they practice the breathe-and-exhale exercise which is a preliminary to learning the basic crawl stroke.

Lessons are now being given by swimming instructor Vic Lawson, assisted by Maureen Boltz and Benham. Beginning and intermediate classes began on June 17 and will continue for a six-week period, ending August 1. Youngsters receive an hour and a half of lessons each week

Open swimming is held from 2-5 p.m. and 6:30-9:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday. Lessons are given from 9-12 a.m. Monday through Friday. Red Cross Life Saving lessons were given earlier in the summer with six senior and twenty junior certificates being awarded.

Soldier Honored

ROBERT DINSE

A Tecumseh soldier has been honored by German papers for helping in a rescue, Memorial Day, along with two friends on the banks of the Main River in Kitzingen, Germany.

Accompanied by Sp/3 Derrell Jensen and Pfc. Jimmy Loder, Robert Dinse was sunning in the warm sunshine. Down the bank was a party of holiday celebraters. Suddenly the soldiers saw one of the men shoulder deep in the rushing water. After seeing the plight of the German, the soldiers jumped into the water to save him. For 20 minutes the trio worked over the unconscious man.

The three were given a 3 day pass and recommended to Washington for Soldiers' Medals.

Dinse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dinse of Tecumseh. His family expects his return to the states in December.

Electronic Cooking Drew Crowd

M. G. Pye, exhibit and display representative for Hotpoint Company, demonstrates the use of the new electronic cooking center to E. J. Ormsby of Adrian; Carl Barnes, of the Tecumseh Police Department and Orrie Gilbert, superintendent of Herrick Memorial Hospital.

The display truck, under the local sponsorship of the Tecumseh Electric Company, appeared at the Homecoming Carnival July 10 and 11 and was parked on S. Evans St. all day Thursday. It created a wide amount of interest among the Tecumseh people, with many of them bringing hams, roasts, or hot dogs to be cooked in only a fraction of the time they would require on a regular range.

The Electronic Center frys bacon in 90 seconds, bakes a potato in four minutes and raises a cupcake in 25 seconds. A roast chicken, ordinarily taking three and a half hours to do completely, is finished in 35 seconds. A five-pound beef roast takes 20 minutes.

China, glass, and paper can be put into the Electronic Center without fear, for only the food gets hot. Frozen foods can be cooked in their containers with no messy pots or pans to clean. The food absorbs energy radiated by the magnetron tube and offers a a resistance which cooks the food evnely and thoroughly. A companion oven broils steaks, makes angel food cake and souffles and browns meats in only a few minutes.

Nifty Dish Ready in a Jiffy

Summer entertaining is a "cinch" when Crab Meat au Gratin is on the menu. An easy version of this distinguished dish—made with canned crab meat and packaged mashed potatoes—takes only minutes to prepare. Fun to make and a joy to eat.

Crab Meat au Gratin

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons sherry
½ cup grated mild American or Cheddar cheese
1 can (6½ ounces) crab meat drained
1 package packaged mashed potatoes
2 cups boiling water
¾ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons butter

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add flour and seasonings and stir until well blended. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil and simmer 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add sherry and half the grated cheese, stirring until cheese is melted. Add crab meat and heat thoroughly. Pour into four individual casseroles or sea shells, or a 1-quart casserole.

Add packaged mashed potatoes to boiling water. Remove from heat. Do not cook. Quickly press potatoes into water with table fork to moisten evenly. Add salt and butter. Whip with fork for about a minute.

Top crab mixture with potatoes and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Broil about 5 minutes, or until cheese is melted and golden brown. Makes 4 servings.

Sunday Christian Science Service

The ever-availability to humanity of God, the source of all true life and intelligence, will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Life" will include the following from Psalms (16:1,-11): "Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust . . . Thou wilt shew me the path of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following

The Golden Text is from Romans (6:23): "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

(215:12): "Whatever is governed by God, is never for an instant deprived of the light and might of intelligence and Life."

Rev. Bergman Spoke To Kiwanis

Ray Ernst presided at the July 3 meeting of the Kiwanis club in the absence of president Fred Hadley. Dr. George Burkhard of Tecumseh and Rev. Philip Gregory of Brooklyn were guests of the club.

Dr. Richard Coak introduced Rev. Robert Bergman who is working on the development of a United Lutheran Church in Tecumseh and who gave an interesting talk on his mission development work and experiences. Rev. Bergman has been taking a survey from door-to-door here to find Lutheran people and others interested in a United Lutheran Church. He reports a lot of interest in the forming of the new church. They will start holding services in the near future.

Laurabell Meier Passed Away Monday Morning

Laurabell Meier passed away at eight o'clock Monday morning in Herrick Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for four weeks. She had been in failing health for the past two years.

Mrs. Meier was born in Tecumseh Township, August 21, 1921 the daughter of Roscoe and Frances Brooks Hewlett. Her home was at 115 W. Shawnee St. in Tecumseh and she lived her entire life in this area. She graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1939 and from the Toledo Hospital School of Nursing in 1942. She was active as a den mother in the Cub Scout program, a member of the Presbyterian church and a member of the Michigan Nurses Association.

She is survived by her husband, Otto; two sons, Larry and Robert; one daughter, Kathryn, all at home; also her parents; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Reed and Mrs. Martha Baldwin; one brother, John Hewlett, all of Tecumseh, and several aunts and uncles.

The body was at the Green Funeral Home until Wedensday at 12:30 p.m. Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church with the Rev. George Walworth officiating and burial was in Brookside cemetery. The family suggested that donations be made to the Cancer Fund.

The bearers were Allan Brooks of Clinton, Harold and Russell Gove, Duaine and Robert Brooks of Tecumseh and Ned Harrington of Livonia. Honorary bearers were Robert Smith, Dan Reed, Earl Baldwin, John Hewlett, Al Meyers, Richard Graff, all of Tecumseh and Loren Campbell of Howell, Raymond Earls of New York State, Jack Lancaster of Clinton and Clifford Hills of Granada Hills, California.

WHAT TO DO WHEN BREATHING STOPS

(1) Mother, using middle finger of one hand, clears child's mouth of any foreign matter. With same finger, she holds the tongue forward.

(2) Mother places child in a face-down, head-down, position, and pats him firmly on the back with the free hand, to help dislodge any foreign object in the air passage.

(3) The child is placed on his back, and the mother, using middle fingers of both hands, lifts the lower jaw from beneath and behind so that it "juts out."

(4) With one hand only, the jaw is held in this jutting-out position.

(5) The mother, covering the child's mouth and nose with her mouth, breathes into the child with a smooth, steady action. The free hand applies continuous moderate pressure to the child's abdomen, between navel and ribs, to prevent the stomach from being filled with air.

Field and Stream

Modern fire-fighting methods hold down losses in Michigan forests, but public cooperation is the most important factor in fire prevention.

Mechanized equipment and an up-to-date communications network permit Conservation Department fire fighters to detect and suppress fire rapidly, saving valuable timber and wildlife. This quick-action force, valuable as it is, can only control fires—it is up to the public to prevent fires.

A combination of public cooperation and advances in fire control techniques reduced Michigan's annual forest fire loss to an all-time record low of 3420 acres during 1956. In contract, the damage total in 1908 was 2,300,000 acres.

Much of the credit for this accomplishment goes to the Conservation Department's forest fire experiment station at Roscommon. The station, only one of its kind in the world, has been responsible for the design, development and construction of equipment capable of handling fires under the toughest conditions.

Another big item in Michigan's efficient fire control program is the communications system which employs more than 600 mobile, portable, trailer-mounted and fixed radio stations. These stations relay needed information on the location, size and type of fire so that the necessary men and machines can be dispatched to the scene.

Fire lookouts, towermen and observers in airplanes also play important roles in the fire suppression campaign, through rapid detection and reporting of fires.

All of this fire control work, however, needs a helping hand from the individual citizen. Campers, hunters, fishermen, hikers, landowners and others can do their part by following fire safety rules in wooded areas. Careless use of fire can result in loss of property and life.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD SPORTS

Attendance Up To 2000 During Program Last Week

Approximately 2000 participated in the Recreation program on the various playgrounds last week. All of the games in the Peewee Softball (red division), Junior Softball and Senior Softball Leagues were rained out Monday, July 8th.

In the Minor Junior League, Central No. 2 defeated Herrick Park Tuesday by the score of 9 to 3. They swept to victory behind the steady pitching of Mike Rice and the timely hitting of Dick Hadsell. The Central No. 1 and Tecumseh Acres game was forfeited by Central No. 1 due to the lack of players.

Tecumseh Acres defeated Herrick Park in a makeup game Wednesday in the Minor Junior League. The 4 to 3 win was considered the best team victory of the season.

On Thursday, in the Minor Junior League, Tecumseh Acres defeated Central No. 2 in a close 9 to 8 game. Everybody on the team hit well. Mike Whelan fired a 5 hitter.

Herrick Park defeated Central No. 1 8 to 0 in a Minor League game Thursday. The victory can largely be attributed to Randy Fergus who pitched a two hitter and also hit 3 for 3. Another outstanding performance was given by Dave Dziachan who made many fine defensive plays as well as hitting 3 for 3 at the plate.

In the Minor League makeup game Friday, Central No. 1 defeated Central No. 2 by the score of 14 to 4. Both teams were trying for 3rd place. Heflin pitched 2 innings and allowed no runs. Richardson allowed 3 runs in the last 3 innings. The hitting was led by McEnroe who hit 3 for 4.

In the Peewee (blue division) Softball League, Tecumseh Acres won a close one from Central No. 2 by the score of 3 to 2. Durkee and Bates led in the hitting department. Pitcher Lee Lemerand allowed only 3 hits.

In the Girls' Softball game Friday, the Central team, led by Tucker and Kunkle, defeated Tecumseh Acres 10 to 3.

In the Junior Softball League, Herrick Park forfeited to Central Wednesday due to the lack of players.

In the Major League, last Wednesday, the Exchange Club team defeated the Jaycees 12 to 5 behind the able pitching of Andy Risner. It was a very close game until the 5th inning when the Exchange team put on a 7 run rally. Tim Fero led the hitting with 2 for 3 including a triple. Squires was the losing pitcher and there was some excellent fielding by R. Baxter of the Jaycees.

The Kiwanis team defeated the Jaycees 6 to 5 Tuesday in a makeup game. Gary Lee pitched for the Kiwanis team and Lucas pitched for the Jaycees.

On Thursday, the Jaycees slipped by the Rotary team 5 to 3 behind the pitching of Greg Rosancrans who struck out 10 men in 5 innings. Baxter, Brion and Hebb were the top hitters for the Jaycees. The game was called because of rain.

The Kiwanis team defeated the Exchange team 6 to 5 Thursday. They scored 4 runs in the first inning. Gary Lee had 2 for 3 for the winners. Dan Greene was the winning pitcher.

On Friday, the Exchange team defeated the Jaycees 7 to 6 behind the pitching of Jeff Osburn. In the opinion of many, it was one of the best games played so far this year. Fielding was excellent on both teams. Ron Baxter was the losing pitcher.

The pitching has greatly improved since the beginning of the season in the Major League. Some of the outstanding boys are Ron Baxter, Max Quinn, Jim Brown, Kent Lucas, Craig Rosacrans, Dennis Beemer and Don Sniffen.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away: behold, all things are become new.—(II Corinthians 5, 17.)

To be given the opportunity of beginning life all over again, cleansed of wrong—of consigning the past to the past and of being, in all truth, born again — that is God's wonderful gift to those who accept Jesus Christ as His Son, our Savior and Redeemer.

Sumpless Pump Discharges Water From Basement

Details of a radical new method for discharging water from basements in areas where septic tanks are used has been revealed.

This new device, known as a sumpless pump, discharges basement seepage and laundry water without the use of the customary sump hole.

The pump operates from a closed plumbing system and all mechanical parts are located above the floor level. The old problem of an open sump hole that sometimes produced unpleasant odors and needed frequent cleaning is completely eliminated by this new system.

The pump is placed through a standard basement cleanout opening which is connected to the seepage lines. The unit is designed so that it can be installed in a new home or an existing home that is equipped with the conventional sump pump system.

The possibility of mechanical failure of the pump is extremely rare, and should such a thing occur, it can be remedied easily because the entire pumping mechanism is located above the floor.

When city sewers become available, in areas where the pump is installed, it becomes a simple matter to connect the home sewer line to the city sewer system. With an old style sump pump this could not be done without undertaking extensive and costly plumbing changes, and then many times the home owner was still left with the sump pump to contend with for the life of the home.

Fencing Saves Screen

The screen in a screen door won't be bulged out by children pushing against it if a piece of fencing with half-inch-square holes is tacked over the lower inside area of the screen.

Anyone who proposes to do good must not expect people to roll stones out of his way, but must accept his lot calmly if they even roll a few more upon it.

—Albert Schweitzer

Electrical Comforts At Their Best

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sager moved into their new home on Park Street on April 7, 1957. Construction of the house was begun in the summer of the previous year.

The Ralph Sager home, at 207 Park Street, was built with an emphasis on electrical efficiency. It includes heating by electrical panels in the wall, recessed lights, electrical stripping and all built-in utilities in the kitchen. The Sager's are partners at Tecumseh Electric with George Derby.

Each room features an adjustable thermostat which allows a variation of warmth throughout the house if it is desired. The recessed lights may also be adjusted, from dim for evening dining purposes to bright for reading. Electrical stripping, in the baseboards of all of the rooms except the kitchen and bathroom, makes it convenient for the Sager's to place an outlet at any point around the room and have a flowing current.

The house, in light green siding with white trim, measures 24 feet wide by 75 feet long. An attractive sandstone chimney adds decoration to the front. Included in the building are a living room, dining area, kitchen, two bedrooms, bathroom, four closets and two-car garage. There is space for a cold storage room in the basement, and the Sager's plan to work on their recreation room and utility room this winter.

Oak hardwood floors are found throughout the home. The light in each of the large closets automatically turns on when the door is opened. The kitchen and bathroom both have sliding doors to conserve space.

The kitchen features birch cabinets and a built-in stove, oven, refrigerator and dish washer, all in pale pink. The floor is covered with gray tile and the perky curtains in a pink and gray design on a white background add bright accents.

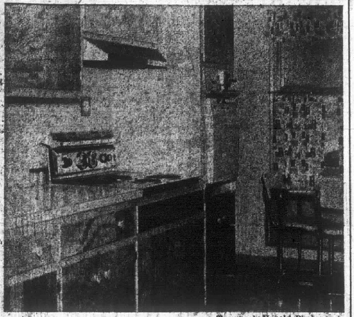
Both the living room and dining area have gray-green walls and white ceilings. A block glass wall, with knick-knacks artistically arranged on it, divides the two.

The living room is decorated with oyster boucle draperies and a gray carpet. The davenport and one chair are done in a coral shade, while another chair was covered with a tweed material by Mr. and Mrs. Sager. The fireplace is light sandstone. Special interest is found in the minature brass companion fireside set and the Toby jug on the mantel which were sent from England by Mrs. Sager's parents.

There are two bedrooms in the home. The master bedroom is done primarily in gray and yellow, with bright drapes in a yellow, red and olive green pattern on a white background. The smaller bedroom features a turquoise theme. Both have large, built-in wardrobes with sliding doors.

The large bathroom is striking in black and white colors. A unique feature is the corner tub, planned that way to conserve space. Birch cabinets with a black and white formica top, below a long mirror, run the length of one wall. The floor is done in ceramic tile in white with a black design.

The house was built by Leland G. Fogelsong on a lot 150 feet long by 105 feet wide. The Sager's did all of their own electrical work and painting and finished the woodwork.



Tecumseh Herald Photos

In the modern, all-electric kitchen, complete with built-in stove, oven, refrigerator and dish washer, Mrs. Sager can do her cooking and baking with a minimum of effort. Mr. Sager, co-owner of Tecumseh Electric, did all of the electrical work himself.

Roof Color Choice Is Important To Exterior Design

Color can nestle a home into the landscape or make it stick out like an eye patch. Color can minimize old-fashioned features, emphasize the good features, make a high home hug the ground or make a small home look larger.

A growing understanding of these facts has coined the phrase "exterior decorating," and has prompted roofing manufacturers to do something about increasing this understanding.

According to the shingle color experts, you should "exterior decorate" the house downward from the roof, just as the advice for interiors has been directed for years at starting any room with a rug and decorating upwards.

Roof colors themselves have been coming out of the dingy category in recent years. Dazzling new whites and pale pastels have emerged and proved fabulously successful, partly due to the recently-developed fact that light colors reflect heat whereas dark colors do not.

Builder Proposes Tax Relief For Homeowner

A Birmingham builder, has suggested a new program of income tax relief for homeowners which has been attracting considerable attention in the industry.

His proposal, outlined in the current issue of the American Builder magazine, would let taxpayers deduct for depreciation in value of their homes and deduct all or part of their local real estate taxes from their income tax (not their incomes).

The article points out that if a builder maintains ownership of a new home and rents it, he can take a 5 per cent depreciation allowance. A homeowner should have the same break, he said.

Taxes paid to foreign governments can be credited against U.S. income tax, he adds, so a homeowner should be entitled to similar consideration on real estate taxes.

If enacted, the proposal would provide a raise in take home pay as soon as one bought a house, enabling thousands to enjoy home ownership who cannot now afford to do so.

Ventilating Saves Moisture Damage

Unless your bathroom has some means of ventilation, you probably notice, after a shower, that the window and mirror are clouded with steam.

That's a warning to open the window; just a little and for only a few minutes will be sufficient. If you don't open the window, the moisture will be forced to find its own way out. As it penetrates the walls, it can cause damage to the materials with which the house was built and may cause the paint outside to blister.

A TEMPORARY PROBLEM

Early in the 19th century, the British economist Malthus published his famous "Essay on Population." It developed what became known as the Malthusian theory, which held that world population would outgrow the world's food supply, with consequent famine and starvation. In the light of the scientific knowledge and farming practices of that era, this theory seemed as sound as it was somber.

But since then there have been revolutionary changes in the arts of agriculture. Such innovations as better seeds and fertilizers and, above all, mechanization which gives one man the productive power that it took many men to provide in other days, have created a situation which would have seemed unbelievable to Malthus. Technology is minimizing the threat of eventual starvation which has concerned many ever since Malthus expounded his gloomly theory.

In fact, the farmer's new tools and techniques have helped to bring about the agricultural surplus problem and it is a vexing problem indeed. This may be extremely discouraging to those who seek to control production, but in the long-range view, it is encouraging for humanity generally. Population in this country and the world is soaring. Our own acreage of farm land is virtually fixed. So there is every reason to believe that the surplus is a temporary phenomena, and that in years to come we will need all the productive power our farmers can summon to satisfy the appetites of ourselves and of others.

The future of mechanized agriculture and of the efficient family-size farm which mechanization has done so much to strengthen is bright.

Realty Views

"This may sound strange to you," said John Maxton, "but we don't know the first thing about selling our home. I told my wife when we received word of our transfer, 'Kohler Real Estate got us into this home. Now we'll let them get us out'."

"Fine," I replied with a smile. "We really don't expect you to know all the answers. We will be glad to handle the sale for you."

"How do you go about it?" Mr. Maxton asked. "I honestly don't know straight up from straight down when it comes to selling property."

"The first step is to fill in and sign the Listing Agreement. That necessitates setting a price acceptable to you."

"Sounds logical," John admitted. "How does $15,000 seem to you?"

"About right," I said. "And, since the price is fair it shouldn't take too long to sell."

"Will we get cash for our equity?" John asked.

"Possibly," I replied. "Although it is also possible that the buyer may not have that much. If you keep an open mind on the matter, we'll work it out as best we can."

"Okay," John said, "go ahead."

Luckily, within a few weeks a buyer with enough cash appeared. A sale speedily followed.

May we handle all the details of selling your property too?

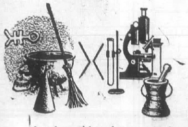
Magic vs. Medicine



This conflict is ageless. Man has always been intrigued by the mysterious. The successes of the sorcerer were proclaimed and his failures minimized. With the knowledge that he is to die, man has attempted to conceal this fatalistic viewpoint by encouraging the sorcerer of the past and the charlatan of today.

Only your physician can provide efficient and effective assistance in time of illness. Likewise, you can do no better than to bring your prescription to us for prompt, professional service.

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

OATS AS SILAGE

Oat harvest time is nearly here if you want to get the most feed value out of your crop and boost income with more livestock, says L. G. Hall, Lenawee county agricultural agent.

By harvesting oats as silage instead of waiting for it to ripen for grain, a farmer can produie nearly twice as much feed nutrients per acre. An oat crop that would yield 35 bushels per acre of grain will produce four to five tons of top quality silage.

Some farmers, who are short of forage, have tried to make use of oats by pasturing it; however, making silage from the crop will yield far more. When cows graze oats they eat only the heads and much of the crop is trampled.

The best time to harvest oats as silage is when it is in the late milk and early dough stage. At this point it will produce feed about equal in value to corn silage.

Hall warns that it can be tricky to hit oats at just the right stage. In some years the best harvest time for silage lasts only two to three days. So be ready to move fast once the crop is ready to start.

If you're using a bunker or trench silo start a little earlier than you would for an upright silo in order to have more moisture available. Packing oats may be a little harder than other crops. The hollow stems of this grain crop need to be crushed to get a good pack.

GOOD EGGS

Frequent gathering and prompt cooling can stretch out the "good quality life" of eggs.

The first few hours in the life of an egg are critical in maintaining good quality, points out C. C. Ingerson, Assoc. county agricultpural agent. If not properly cared for during this time, the quality life of the egg is shortened considerably.

It takes 18 days, on the average, for the egg to make the trip from hen to kitchen. If the egg is to reach the kitchen in quality condition that the consumer likes, the producer must exercise proper care in gathering and cooling.

In hot weather, producers should gather eggs often in the morning, as many as three or four times. Frequent gathering this time of day is especially important because 75 per cent of eggs are laid by noon. Another point in favor of frequent gathering is that so long as eggs remain in the nest, they may be subjected to temperatures ranging from 90 to 103 degrees, especially if other hens come into the nest to lay. Three or four hours of this temperature results in permanent injury to the egg's interior and thus lowers quality.

It is recommended using wire baskets for gathering because they allow maximum movement of air between the eggs. Fill them only two-thirds full and put them in a moist cooling room immediately. Cooling room temperatures should be 55 to 60 degrees.

Two other tips to help maintain egg quality are: keep empty egg case flats and fillers in the cooling room, too; and wait until tomorrow to put today's eggs in the case.

Gather eggs frequently. So long as the egg remains in the nest, it may be subjected to temperatures as high as 90 to 103 degrees, especially if other hens come into the nest to lay.

Last Week's Mystery Farm Near Holloway

Last week's Mystery Farm was identified as the A. Dusseau Farm at the corner of Holloway and Blissfield Roads. The Dusseau family lives in Erie, Ohio.

In recent years, the barn and some of the other buildings have been remodeled and some of the land has been tiled.

Cherry Crop Is 3% Larger

This year's prices for Michigan red cherries will be influenced by a crop 30 per cent larger than last year and a substantially smaller carryover of frozen and canned cherries.

The estimate of Michigan production for this year is 71,000 tons and national production is 130,330 tons. Both are up 30 per cent from 1956 when there was a below-average crop, but about par with the average output of the last ten years. At the same time, carryover of frozen and canned cherries is expected to be only 2/3 as large as it was a year ago.

Both production estimates and carryover affect price, according to John Ferris, farm economist at Michigan State University. He says large crops and large carryovers tend to depress prices while small crops and small carryovers allow them to strengthen.

Carryover is only a small part of the total supply. However, it has considerable impact on price, says Ferris and could have a strengthening affect this year.

Ventilate Silo To Rid 'Silo Gas'

Be alert for silo gas, cautions Richard Pfister, farm safety specialist at Michigan State University. It can be deadly!

For the first 10 to 14 days after filling, run the blower to ventilate the silo before you enter it. Leave the chute door open at the top level of silage to prevent accumulation of gas. Where the silo is attached to the barn, provide some sort of extra ventilation at the base of the silo chute.

New Member Of Association

R. J. Sherman, Tecumseh, Michigan, has been accepted as a member of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America by action of the Board of Directors at their recent meeting in Indianapolis, Indiana.

The Association is the world's largest dairy cattle breeders' registry organization, with nearly 48,000 members throughout the nation.

Meat-Type Hog Program Makes Step Forward

Meat-type hogs, producers of pork cuts that consumers want, may be appearing on more Michigan farms as a result of an encouraging experiment in selling meat-type hogs at auction.

According to Ed Miller, extension swine specialist at Michigan State University, selling hogs on a meat-type graded basis at the St. Louis market in Gratiot county has brought farmers a premium above the market price. In the first two months of operation, graded meat-type animals brought an average of 83 cents per hundred pounds more than ungraded hogs for 83 different consignors.

These results are key steps in encouraging meat-type hog production in the state, according to Miller. One of the stumbling blocks in the campaign to shift to meat-type animals from fat hogs has been the farmer's reluctance to grow these leaner hogs unless he was sure that it would pay off in the market place. Miller says the sale figures should help remove that doubt.

The high number of bushels per acre was 45 with the low amount being 15-20 bushels. The average was 25-30. Nelwin Bishop of 6328 Ridge Road had the highest overall acreage yield with 1,200 bushels from 30 acres, according to John Sisson, production manager.

Trucks and wagons were sometimes lined up to Evans Street last week as farmers from the surrounding area brought their wheat in to unload at the mill. Approximately 7,000 bushels per day came in. All of the wheat will be ground into four at the mill.

New Edsel Dealership In Tecumseh

Eldon D. Colthurst, partner in Tecumseh Equipment Co. signs an agreement to sell and service the new Edsel medium price car line, to be introduced early this fall. Ready to affix his signature to the agreement is Albert W. Metz (right), partner with Colthurst in the new Edsel dealership. Witnessing the signing is Harley F. Riley (standing), Detroit district sales manager of the Edsel Division of Ford Motor Company.

Colthurst and Merz said they would continue to handle International Harvester farm equipment and trucks, in addition to the new Edsel car line, at their dealership, 2485 Monroe Road. They have been in business in Tecumseh for eight years.

The Edsel showroom, they said, will occupy 900 square feet and the service area, containing the latest automotive equipment, will cover 2,880 square feet. Merz will continue to handle sales and Colthurst will be responsible for service.

Ford Motor Company has invested $250,000,000 to produce the new Edsel. The four series — Ranger, Pacer, Corsair, and Citation — will be marketed initially by an organization of some 1,200 to 1,500 dealers. Eventually, there will be between 2,500 and 3,000 dealers.

Included in the 18 models are two convertibles, one in the Pacer series and the other in the Citation, plus a full line of two and four-door sedans and hardtops and a line of five station wogans.

Production started Monday, July 15, at four assembly plants — Somerville, Mass.; Mahwah, N. J.; Louisville, Ky. and San Jose, Calif. Two other assembly plants — Wayne, Mich., and Los Angeles — will begin building Edsels at a later date.

Year's Progress Report Made On Health Study

The first year's progress report has been issued on the Health Study being done in Tecumseh by the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

After the project was discussed with a large number of people in Tecumseh and it was uniformly received with interest and frequent enthusiasm, Tecumseh was chosen as the site. The next step was to obtain the necessary funds. Since the cost of obtaining the large amount of information desired would be very expensive, far exceeding the amount of money available from the University, an application was made for funds to the National Institutes of Health. Word was received that the final decision concerning the grant will be made in November.

The natural community or trade area of Tecumseh was determined by means of customer lists obtained from local stores, membership lists from churches and the boundaries of utility service areas. Population and illness data are to be gathered this summer by interviewers.

A veterinarian has been employed on the project during the year to make detailed plans for the study of the animal populations of the community and their diseases, particularly those transmissable to man. Detailed plans of procedure in several other areas such as cardiovascular diseases, diabetes, nutrition, child health, maternal health and industrial hygiene are in various stages of completeness.

A large amount of information on the Tecumseh area has been collected from various published and unpublished sources, mainly from agricultural, health, social and economic agencies. There is enough information of this type on hand to form a very good picture of the general characteristics of the population and its environment.

The Virus Laboratory has begun monitoring the Tecumseh sewage system for intestinal viruses. The methods being used are new ones and are being tried out before the season for these infections arrives. Arrangements have been made with the physicians of the community to report any evidence of infections by such viruses as the polio groups.

Expectations for the coming year include the population and current illness census to be done this summer. If sufficient funds remain, further interviewing on disease history and occupational history will be done in the fall.

If the application to the National Institutes of Health is successful, a large staff will be sought and hired in December and physical examinations will be instituted, etc. If the application is unsuccessful, other sources of funds will be explored.

The special virus studies will be continued and adjusted to the occurence of diseases in the community during the summer and fall.

Shoppers Interviewed Concerning Tecumseh Shopping Center

This week, reporter Judy Begick from the Tecumseh Herald interviewed shoppers on main street in Tecumseh, asking them to give their views on whether they would like a shopping center in Tecumseh or not since several are proposed here at the present time. The shoppers interviewed were picked at random and the comments from each one appear below.

Mrs. Ken Marine, RFD, Tecumseh: Yes, I think it would be nice and more convenient.

John Ladd, 313½ Pottawatamie: I certainly wouldn't object. It would probably mean more selection.

Mrs. Fred Smith, 109½ W. Chicago: I'm for anything that will help the town. Shopping centers give better parking space.

Perry Younglove, Route 1, Britton: Shopping centers are the coming thing. All the larger towns are getting them. It will help hold business here.

Wilbur L. Klught, 5423 Centennial Road: I wish we had two, half a dozen — I don't care — anything to get more competition. You can't get any bargains here, but must go to Adrian, Monroe, or Toledo.

Mrs. Alice Johnson: I definitely approve of the idea. Now I have to go to

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Hawkins and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Tubbs. The Rev. Donald Bates, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, July 21, at 2:30 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was appropriately gowned in lace and tulle with a finger tip veil. She carried a white Bible and wore a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Hawkins of Britton, as matron of honor, who wore a gown of orchid nylon net over taffeta. Miss Judy Hawkins of Tecumseh and Miss Nancy Auch of Memphis, Michigan were bridesmaids, wearing gowns of nylon net over nile green and pink taffeta. Miss Nancy Hawkins, sister of the bride, was the flower girl wearing white pleated nylon. All the attendants wore hats and mitts to match their gowns and carried colonial bouquets of roses and stephanotis.

Mr. George Hawkins and Mr. Lavon Tubbs of Britton ushered the guests to their pews marked with bows. Mr. Harold Rhora of Britton acted as best man and Gary Judkins, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer, carrying the rings on a white satin pillow which the groom had formerly carried at his step sisters wedding. Mrs. Marjorie Greenfield was the soloist accompanied by Mr. Richard Lower at the organ. She sang the "Lords Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony. The refreshment table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked by flowers and lighted candelabra. ## Orville Laidlaws Celebrated Their 40th Anniversary

More than 100 friends and neighbors turned out Friday evening to help the Orville Laidlaws' celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary. Dinner was served in the St. Peters Parish House by the Daughters of St. Peters under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lela Thurlby.

Guests were seated at six long tables decorated with bouquets of white gladioluses and red Queen Annes lace appropriate for a ruby wedding anniversary. The windows of the Parish House held arrangements of red gladioluses and white Queen Annes lace. The buffet table was laid in silver with white candles in white candelabra and decorated with white gladioluses, red roses and Eucharistic lillies. The tiered wedding cake was surrounded with Eucharistic lillies and white carnations.

A "Good Neighbor" program was presented under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. H. Hanna with Mr. Charles Butler as master of ceremonies. He called on many of the former neighbors of the Laidlaws from the various places where they had made their home.

Mr. Laidlaw was born in Ludington, the son of David and Eleanor Laidlaw, and Mrs. Laidlaw was born near Brooklyn, Michigan, the daughter of William and Elona Raven. Later she moved with the family to East Lansing. Both the Laidlaws were graduates of Michigan State College and their marriage took place July 19, 1917 in the St. Pauls Episcopal Church in Lansing. Mrs. Laidlaw came to Tecumseh in 1918, while her husband was in the armed services and was the first Domestic Science and Art teacher in Tecumseh High School. Upon his discharge Mr. Laidlaw came to Tecumseh in 1919 as the first Agricultural teacher in the same school. With the exception of four years, when he taught in Ypsilanti, they have made their home in this city with Mr. Laidlaw the superintendent of schools for six years and District representative of Michigan School Service Inc. of Lansing for the past 26 years. Mrs. Laidlaw returned to teaching in 1932 and retired in 1947.

The Laidlaws have always been active in civic activities, belonging to many of the civic organizations as well as the school affairs. Many Tecumseh boys and girls remember that the stiffness of a good many dances and proms was relieved by the hearty laughter of the Laidlaws. Mr. Laidlaw is a charter member of the Rotary and the Underwood-Orr Post of the American Legion and Mrs. Laidlaw is a charter member of the Auxiliary as well as the organizing regent of the Abi-Evans Chapter of the D.A.R. Both are members and work in the St. Peters Episcopal Church, he as a member of the vestry and a Sunday School teacher and she a teacher as well as superintendent of the Sunday School several times. Mrs. Laidlaw was the organizing president of the Daughters of St. Peters and the Womens Auxiliary.

The Laidlaws have two sons, David, who is superintendent of Kennsington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Dr. Robert Laidlaw, a local dentist, as well as eight grandchildren.

The sons and their wives and a niece, Mrs. Harold Griggs of Jackson and her husband were in the receiving line. Mrs. Griggs, the former Aeysha Raven, was the flower girl at the original wedding. The guest book was in charge of two granddaughters, Janet Aeysha and Linda Laidlaw. The hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kelso, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Don Heesen and Mrs. Floyd Elliott. Mrs. Wyman Service had charge of the punch table and the cake was served by Mrs. Charles Mensing and Mrs. Griggs.

Other out of town guests besides the Griggs of Jackson were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Abbott of Dearborn, Mrs. Fred Morris of Lyons, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Berkhoff of Mt. Clemens, Mrs. Rilda Larsen of Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. David Laidlaw and daughters of Milford.

Crash Kills Father Of 4

A 34-year-old father of four children was killed shortly after midnight Tuesday when his car skidded off Occidental highway two miles south of here and hit a utility pole.

The victim was Cletus Nichols of 414 S. Adrian, Tecumseh. Sheriff's officers said he was dead on arrival at Herrick hospital where he was taken after the crash at 12:20 a.m.

Officers said Mr. Nichols missed a curve as he was traveling south. The car skidded 250 feet off the road and the victim was thrown 30 feet after the car crashed into the pole.

Corner Edward Braun of Adrian ruled his death accidental. It was Lenawee county's 13th traffic fatality of the year.

Mr. Nichols was born near Onsted and had been employed a number of years at the Tecumseh Products Co. He had left work about midnight and was believed headed for Adrian when the accident happened. He was driving alone.

The victim was a member of St. Elizabeth Catholic church here and was a World War II veteran. He also belonged to the American Legion, VFW, Eagles and Conservation league, all of Tecumseh.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols of near Onsted; his children, Donald, Ronald, Connie and Bonnie; two sisters, Mrs. Faith Cote of Tecumseh and Mrs. Thelma Henning of Britton. Mr. Nichols was divorced.

Services will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. in St. Elizabeth church, the Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery, Irish Hills. The Underwood-Orr post of the American Legion will conduct a service at the grave. The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Collins Funeral Home.

simple overnight accomodations with sleeping dorms, cooking facilities in a common kitchen and a rumpus room. Hostelers hike, bike, canoe, ride horseback or ski between hostels, under their own power. Joanne and Sarah have been getting in condition for their trip by biking to Saline without stopping and back the following day. The longest days bike trip on the itinerary will be 44 miles to Bill City, a town where movies are made.

An outstanding feature of the tour will be a 21 mile bike trip to Spearfish, South Dakota to see the Passion Play produced there. Other interesting days will be spent at the Indian Museum in Dinosaur Park, on a Burro ride to the summit of a mountain; in Deadwood to attend "The Trial of Jack McCall", at the graves of Wild Bill Hickock and Calamity Jane, Deadwood Dick's Cabin and the Broken Boot Gold Mine, Mount Rushmore, Mica and Feldspar Mines, Wind Cave and Hot Springs, the largest remaining herd of Buffalo, not fenced in and a Sioux Indian Pow Wow.

The girls have earned their own money to make this trip. The tour will be chaperoned and the hostels each have house parents whose business it is to answer questions and generally keep the company comfortable and happy.

Saline Valley Farms is the nearest Youth Hostel to the Tecumseh area and several Girl Scout activities have been held there by the local association with the girls meeting and thoroughly enjoying Mr. John Rule and his wife who are the houseparents there.

Shoppers Interviewed

Jackson, Ann Arbor, or Toledo to get good styles in clothes. It would also be very handy for quick things.

Mearl Dunteen,
111 W. Pottawatamie:
I am in favor of anything that will bring in competition. I can't buy anything. The parking situation at present is bad, too.

Mrs. Jennie Temple,
306 E. Pottawatamie:
It would be good for the people in that area. We do need more stores.

Ray Solar, Route No. 1, Tecumseh:
Yes, if the stores come down to Adrian prices. I don't buy anything here now.

Mrs. Anne Komon, Holloway:
I never thought about it. I buy all my things here. The clothes might be a little higher priced, but you don't see a dozen or so just like yours. They're good quality, too. The parking space here is getting bad, though. A shopping center should help that.

Mrs. Robert Ries, Ridgeway:
There is no question that the town needs more competition. I am definitely in favor.

Mrs. Nina Butler, 302 W. Paterson:
It all depends on the kind of service offered. It would be good to have more competition to bring the prices down — then I wouldn't have to go to Adrian.

Alfred Warner, 415 E. Kilbuck:
With a shopping center it would be easy to buy some of your things without coming way into town. The prices here are too high.

Mrs. Harold Brion,
3248 W. Russell Rd.:
People would shop in town if they could find what they wanted. We buy our groceries, drugs, and hardware — things like that here. It's clothes that are a problem. Tecumseh needs a store where you can get nice dry goods and clothes for the entire family, something large enough so that you will have more selection than just one or two in your size.

Editor's Corner . . .

BY PHIL BELLEVILLE

The phrase "Civil Rights," on first thought, is a very moralistic sounding combination of words that are inherently good in our "American System" of action and thought. However, like many other phrases of its kind, it may not be as clear cut a good when given closer examination. The problems arise when the "wrongs" from enforcing such rights are worse than the "wrongs" of not having such rights.

I am going to talk about our discrimination problem specifically. I think there are few intelligent people today that believe that equality is not a moralistic must. However, our country is divided along sectional lines concerning what is equality. One side puts forth that integration is equality way and that side has the opinion of the Supreme Court in its favor. The other side professes that integration is not the answer and that the races should be separate but equal. Now here is the major problem. We have the north and the south agreeing in theory that equality is a valid Civil Right but disagreeing on the fundamental ground of what constitutes equality.

I am of the opinion that the north cannot jam its opinion down the throat of the south and expect anything but bad results, regardless of the opinion of the Supreme Court. It can only foster a divided country and set integration back a decade or more. Human nature dictates that when a man is born and raised under a set of customs, opinions and way of life, he cannot cast them all out because he is told one day that, in the opinion of the Supreme Court, he is wrong.

Time is the essential here. Time alone will bring a satisfactory answer to the discrimination problem. The Negro has made greater strides in this country than he has in any other nation on earth. Give him time, and by all means give the south time, and equality through integration will one day be a fact.

However, try to force the south through injunctions, jury trial or what have you before it is ready to change its way of thinking and we will bring about a wrong that will over shadow discrimination. Our country will be divided and thus weakened, our way of life threatened as a result and the future look very insecure indeed. We must preserve our unity at all costs if we are to protect our way of life against Communist aggressors and any others that come along. Time will work out many of our other problems.

The machine will clear away rubble on each floor of the structure which is being demolished to make way for Union Carbide's new 52-story home office building. Expected to be completed in the early part of 1960, the new building will be the tallest on fast-changing Park Avenue.

Bob Breniff Speaks at Kiwanis Meeting

The Kiwanis Club meeting, Wednesday noon, was well attended. Plans were made to have an inter-club meeting with Onsted next Wednesday.

Bob Breniff was present and gave a talk on the City Recreation program and Little League Baseball program which is a success this year. However he stressed that there is a lack of interest from parents who fail to attend and show an interest in the children.

Mr. Breniff said the athletic field situation in Tecumseh is getting real serious and more space is needed, and it should be decided who is going to be responsible for the program. He believes that if a solution is not made soon, there will be no recreation program next year. He said a city the size of Tecumseh should have a ball diamond at every playground.

We may be as good as we please, if we please to be good.

Ottawa Carillon is an Unique Attraction

THE largest of the 53 bells in the carillon of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa weighs 22,400 pounds and is pitched to "E." The smallest of the bells, weighing 10 pounds, is pitched to "A", four and one-half octaves above.

Across the Parliament grounds from the famed Chateau Laurier, the carillon, originally installed in 1927, is one of the great tourist attractions of Canada's capital city.

Robert Donnell, Dominion Carilloneur since 1939, has made more than 2,000 arrangements for the bells, as well as composing. Since carillons differ in the number of bells, all music must be especially arranged. Playing the carillon is a feat of strength as well as skill. The keyboard is six feet long and consists of peg-like keys forced down by the fist, and foot pedals are used for sounding the bass. Expression is given to the music through the variation of touch, and guards must be worn to protect the carilloneur's hands.

Bombs Blameless In Bad Weather Scientist Says

Nuclear bomb explosions are not responsible for recent bad weather, and fallout from tests at the present rate is not a serious danger, a noted nuclear scientist has reported at Michigan State University.

Scientists "are not even in the same ballpark" when it comes to matching nature in energy production, said Dr. Ralph T. Overman, chairman of the special training division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Hurricanes in one second use up energy equal to five hydrogen bombs, and the only weather effect from a bomb test is strictly "local," or confined to the general test area, he stated.

Dr. Overman said atomic tests could continue at the present rate until the year 2011 and the increased hazard still would be "insignificant."

The average person, the scientist explained, has been exposed to about four roentgens of natural radiation by the time he is 30 years old and receives about three additional roentgens from such things as dental and medical X-rays.

Additional radiation from all bombs exploded so far amounts to only one-tenth of a roentgen, according to Dr. Overman. Continued bomb testing at the present rate would increase radiation from fallout to four times the present level by 1986 and to six times the present amount by the year 2011. "But the increased hazard still would be negligible," he declared.

In reference to the so-called "clean bomb," Dr. Overman said the fallout is due not to hydrogen type material but to surrounding materials such as the casing or the bomb tower.

PRIVATE SHOOTING PRESERVER

Conservation Department officials recently explained in detail why private shooting preserves will not be in operation in Michigan until 1958.

The Department pointed out that the legislative act which authorizes private shooting preserves is not effective until September 27, 90 days after the legislature adjourns and no action is possible until after that date.

The legislative act itself makes preserve regulations subject to specific legal procedures and codes which will require public hearings and approval by the state Attorney General.

Full compliance with the law would make it impossible for actual licensing of preserves to begin before December, at the earliest. Thus, the requirements, for all practical purposes, eliminate shooting preserves for 1957.

Because of this mandatory delay, no licensing will be done until 1958. This will provide time to set up the best possible regulations, based on experience in other states and to hold adequate hearings. Prospective operators also will need considerable time to make preparations after they know the detailed regulations. Department rules must provide controls to prevent abuse of the privilege of hunting during a season longer than the regular open season, the letter concludes.

MUST WEAR TAGS

Small game hunters will have to wear back tags at any time they are hunting wild birds or animals in Michigan, the Conservation Commission decided at its July 8-9 meeting at Higgins Lake.

Previously, Commission policy required a hunter to wear a back tag through December 31 in the upper and northern lower peninsulas and through January 31 in the southern lower peninsula.

Now, however, hunting for varmints, predators and other types of off-season targets fall under this rule.

Medical Society Making Study Of Health Insurance

There is no question that Michigan presently will have a revision of health insurance coverage to give greater protection of the average family's medical costs on a prepaid basis.

Just what form the extended benefits will take and how much they will cost will be influenced by what the public wants as expressed through the Michigan State Medical Society statewide study of medical-surgical coverage.

George C. Wilson, M.D., president of the Lenawee County Medical Society, said today that the survey questionnaires must be returned to the Michigan Health Council by July 31 in order to be considered.

The mail survey is being sent to a cross-section of the state's population and 60,000 people are being given an opportunity to express their views.

The medical profession is sponsoring the over-all study which includes a detailed personal interview survey, the public mail survey being conducted by the Michigan Health Council in cooperation with MSMS and a separate survey of doctor opinion.

"The doctors of medicine of Michigan feel that the people should be consulted regarding any extension of benefits in existing medical protection plans. They should be able to say what they want and how much they are willing to budget for the extra-cost items," the president of the local medical society said.

Since a vote can't be counted unless the "ballot" is sent to the Michigan Health Council by July 31, the medical society urges everyone receiving a survey form to return them promptly.

Explorer Post Elected Officers

Be Daring In Your Table Settings

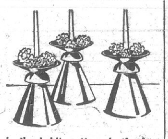
Once in a while we all get in a rut, even when it comes to entertaining. It's so easy to set a formal table with candlesticks flanking a low centerpiece. Next in the habit pattern is the best family crystal, china and linens.



If you've found yourself in just such a groove, why not try something daring next time you entertain. Try moving your dinner party to the living room with a dramatic buffet setting. Instead of the usual four candlesticks, try three grouped in an interesting arrangement at the back of the table. The candlesticks, too, can be unusual, like those of stainless steel illustrated here, with flowers floated at the bottom of the candles. Jet black candles and white carnations make a striking color scheme. To carry out the effect, stainless steel serving dishes and jet black cups and saucers, an ebony salad bowl, and stainless steel flatware complement the decorative props. Serve your main course in a modern crockery "beanpot"; hot snacks in a covered serving dish.

A simple and pleasing departure from tradition is to give your guests their choice of hot or iced coffee. Ice coffee does not have to be packed away with deck chairs and bathing suits at the end of summer. That's just another "rut."

These are just a few suggestions to start you on a new trend for gracious living with variety for spice. Best part of all is the ease with which it can be done. Even the cleanup job is simple, for stainless steel needs no polishing. Try it. Your guests will commend you for being a clever hostess.

Top hitters for the Jaycees were Baxter, Rosacrans and Hebb.

In a close game Thursday, the Rotary team slipped by the Exchange team 4 to 3. Jack Dick was the winning pitcher. Max Quinn had 3 for 3 at the plate.

Ned Rosacrans shows the form with which he made the first hole-in-one at the Tecumseh Country Club in four years on Wednesday, July 17. Using a five iron, Mr. Rosacrans downed his tee shot on the 150 yard sixth hole. (See Link Reports) This is the first hole-in-one he has had since he began playing golf as a teen-ager. His average for eighteen holes is in the low eighties. The last hole-in-one in Tecumseh was made by Art Geisenhaver five years ago, according to Pro Leo Bishop.

LINK REPORT . . . .

HOLE IN ONE

A once in a life time golf shot was made by Ned Rosacrans at Tecumseh C. C. (see picture). A dream of every golfer is to put an elusive golf ball in an obscure hole with implements ill adapted for the purpose. A hole in one was made here by Ned on the No. 6 hole using a No. 5 iron for 155 yards. Playing in the foursome with Ned were Charley Stevenson, Frank Rice and Wills Porter. Well done Ned but I'm afraid you had better get the oil can filled for I'm sure the boys will be wanting plenty of oil.

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

As we come into our heavy golfing season, we find the men and women sharpening up their game for the Mens and Ladies Club Championship which will start this Saturday. With many new members since last year, we will find our 1956 club champions, Frank Rice and Pauline Moore, looking forward to keener competition.

YOUNG GOLFERS

Some of our younger golfers worth watching this year are Paul Callahan, Max Smith Jr., J. Elliott and our regulars such as Charles Newell, 1956 runner-up, retired gentleman golfer Willis Porter who is hitting the ball very well and L. Callahan. Robert says he will give the boys a hard time. Keith Baily and Roger Linger are always a threat in any event. There are no comments from our champ, Frank Rice, for I'm sure he will give a good account of himself. He always does when the pressure is on.

STAG DAY

Paul Clauda is chairman assisted by Clarence Champanois, Dale Bowen and Dean Hamilton. A very large crowd is expected for this event. A number of very large prizes have already come in. All golfers must sign in at the pro shop for starting time.

MEMORIAL TOURNAMENT

One of our biggest golf events will be held Aug. 10th. The First Annual Frank K. Smith Memorial Tournament open to all our club members (male) and all guests by invitation only. Names must be sent in to Leo Bishop at the pro shop for starting time.

More on this event in next weeks paper.

STATE FINALS

Dave Lamkin, our caddy champion and George Forgacs Jr., assistant in the Pro Shop won 1st and 2nd in the Detroit Times Hearst golf tournament at Adrian C. C. July 15th and will travel to Detroit in the State Hearst tournament Aug. 1st. Lots of luck in this event boys.

STATE PRO-AMATUER

The State Pro-Amatuer is being held Sunday, July 28th at Battle Creek C. C., which will have the top golfers, Pro's and Amateur's throughout the state. Entered from the Tecumseh, the team of Leo Bishop and Val Spangler.

Homes Insulated With Styrofoam

Remember that foamy white plastic you use for decorations at Christmas? It's coming into use as an insulating material for homes now.

Michigan's own Dow Chemical Co., of Midland, developed Styrofoam years ago and is constantly finding new uses for it. (It is even being used in furniture.)

As an insulating material, it has been widely used in industrial and commercial buildings but is just beginning to be used in houses.

Engineers speak of thermal conductivity in terms of "K Factors." This is the measure of your insulation. A high K Factor means heat passes through the material readily.

For exampie, wood has a K Factor of 1. Glass is rated at 5 and aluminum scores 1392, say the engineers.

Plastics are the poor heat conductors. So is air, when not in motion. So if you combine air and plastics, you should have a low K Factor.

Dow engineers took a basic plastic, polystyrene, and blew it up to 40 times its original size—trapping millions of dead air cells.

The result was Styrofoam, an insulator with a K Factor of .25.

The material is easy to handle because it is light. It comes in "boards" that weigh only 2.4 ounces per board foot.

Plaster can be applied directly on it, with no lath necessary. And concrete floors can be laid directly on a bed of the plastic. The boards can be had in white or blue.

New Housing Act Expected To Spur Home Construction

New ground rules of home building, which control the industry for years to come, have been laid down in the new Housing Act of 1957 passed by the Congress recently.

For families of modest means in need of a new home, it appears to be a real "break."

While the new housing act will spur home building during the late summer and fall months and put 1,000,000 housing starts for 1957 within the realms of possibility, its chief effects will be felt next year.

For the home buying public, the outstanding feature of the new act is that down payments on houses financed by mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration are sharply cut.

The bill sets minimum down payments on a FHA-insured house at 3 per cent of the first $10,000, 15 per cent of the next $6,000 and 30 per cent the remainder. This was the House version of the bill. The Senate version was even more liberal.

The old act required 5 per cent down to the first $9,000 of appraised value plus 25 per cent of the remainder.

The new act, on signing of the bill by President Eisenhower, means that the minimum down payment on a $10,000 house would be reduced from the present $700 to $300.

On a $12,000 house the new minimum is $600, instead of $1,200 under the old act.

On a $15,000 house the down payment goes down to $1,050 (instead of $1,950).

On a $20,000 house the down payment is $2,400. (The minimum under the old act is $3,200).

(These down payments do not include closing costs).

Builders would not be required to cut down payments to the lower figures, but most probably will do so to meet competition.

These reductions in down payments greatly increase the number of potential home buyers, since there are many more people who can raise $600 cash than there are persons with $1,200, for example.

Prospective home buyers have been "squeezed out of the market" because they could not raise the down payment required under the old act.

On the other hand, mortgage money is still not overly plentiful, and this act will act as a brake on any immediate over-stimulation of the housing market.

However the increase in the FHA interest rate to 5 per cent has had a beneficial effect on the mortgage market.

Gum Plywood A Popular Paneling

Gum, a hardwood grown extensively in the southern United States, is winning popularity in other parts of the nation where it was little known before. In plywood form, it makes attractive wall paneling.

It has a rich figure pattern, and is available in both light and dark natural color tones. In utility roles, gum plywood is handy because it is free from grain raise, making it especially easy to paint.

Put Adequate Wiring In House

The cost of wiring a house to minimum standards is approximately two per cent of your house investment, while adequate wiring will cost approximately three per cent, says Better Homes & Gardens magazine.

The one per cent difference will be paid back to you many times in lower electric bills, better operation of appliances, and safety from fires caused by electric shorts.

Putty Combines Chalk And Oil

Putty is used to glaze wood or metal sash, or to fill nail holes and cracks in wood. High grade putty for wood sash is a stiff mixture of pure chalk whiting and linseed oil to which small amounts of thinner and dryer are sometimes added.

Some craftsmen add 5 or 10 per cent of paste white lead to putty to obtain a harder composition.

Protect Home Articles

Finger prints and other stains mar the appearance of household hardware such as drawer handles. Clean them and keep them attractive by applying a thinned coat of white shellac.

Check Porch Periodically To Prevent Rotting

Wooden stoops and porches tend to deteriorate quickly if there are pockets which hold water.

Check after a rain. If you see any puddles under the porch, you can usually raise the level under the puddle with a jack and shore up the floor.

Other places to check include the steps and porch columns; the latter often are an invitation to water to seep underneath. Caulk them up tight.

Check periodically to make sure the vent holes that air out the space under the porch are not plugged. Free movement of air will prevent rotting of porch floor and framing.

Properly Built Wood Buildings Will Not Decay

In an official report, the Forest Products Laboratory, U.S. Department of Agriculture, explodes an old myth about wood.

The report also makes it clear that the use of properly seasoned, "dry" lumber is important to permanence of construction.

"In the course of its work the Forest Products Laboratory continues to encounter various false ideas about wood," the agency declares.

"Fallacy No. 1 is that all wood in the course of time 'naturally' decays as a result of age. This just isn't so. Time or age itself has nothing to do with the decay of wood."

The report goes on to cite how properly build wood structures have survived centuries of use. For instance:

The White House, when remodeled in 1949, was found to contain sound Southern Pine timbers that had been in the place since 1816.

The Fairbank's house, a wood structure in Dedham, Mass., is standing structurally intact after three centuries.

Timbers several hundred years old have been recovered from the ruins of Indian pueblos in Arizona and New Mexico.

A part of a Roman emperor's houseboat was sound enough nearly 2,000 years later to be identified by the Forest Products Laboratory as wood and by species.

The next part of the report spotlights the value of proper lumber seasoning or drying:

"A good, dry, well-built frame house is in practically no danger from decay if just a few normal precautions are taken. Build on a well drained site and avoid construction that allows moisture to accumulate in joints or pockets; secure well seasoned lumber; do not allow the selected material to lie on the ground after it has been delivered on the job.

"Untreated lumber should not be allowed to come in contact with the soil or with foundations or walls which are liable to be damp; and should not be embedded in concrete or masonry without leaving ventilation around the ends of the timbers.

"Wood flooring, unless it has been chemically preserved, should never be laid directly on the soil or on concrete that is in contact with the soil. Remember that dry wood will not decay."

Such importance is attached to the seasoning or drying process that standard grading rules for Southern Pine lumber impose specific moisture content restrictions for light framing members used in residential construction. So when Southern Pine is grade-marked, the user is assured the lumber has been properly seasoned, as well as up to grade.

ECONOMIC FORECASTS

"Oh, for an electronic analyzer of cross currents, a precipitator of knowledge out of complexity!" This wish comes from the fact that there are opposed and contrary trends in the American economy today that make forecasting even in the near future a delicate and risky undertaking.

For instance, the U. S. Treasury has found it necessary to pay an interest rate approaching 4 per cent—and some treasury bonds are now quoted at 85 cents on the dollar. There has been a drop in factory worker's pay, because of a decline in hours worked weekly and the Federal Reserve Index of production slipped 4 points between December and May. Do such developments indicate that this is the beginning of the end of the long, long boom?

Some companies report major sales gains this year, and personal incomes have been rising. So another question arises: Is this a portent of a consumer-spending splurge later in the year?

This writer believes that the country is on the threshold of another upsurge in consumer spending; that the two-year drop in housing and automobile sales will come to an end this year and forerun a rise in 1958; that stocks are buoyed by business prospects.

Authorities also find plenty of cross currents and differences to debate about. For instance, in a recent talk before a meeting of the National Citizens Committee to Curb Inflation, Senator Byrd of Virginia said that "inflation is threatening our national life." The Senator, who is one of the strongest advocates of economy in Congress, blames inflationary forces principally on government fiscal policies. Yet on the same program, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, who was the top government economist in the Truman Administration, took another view. He said that inflation is primarily to be blamed on labor, business and the farmers, rather than government.

These confusions to one side, what can we expect in the coming business picture? Fortune, which has had a good record of forecasting in the past, has presented its idea of the outlook for the next 18 months. According to this, we will have another "best year ever" in 1957 and there will be a further upturn in 1958. Specifically, Fortune thinks personal incomes will increase by $15 billion a year, consumer spending will be up, home building will show gradual recovery, and that inventories, now shrinking, will expand again next year. It also anticipates that prices will continue to rise, but at a slower rate than in 1956, and that the budget will show a surplus.

It should be added that some other respected forecasters are not so certain. As the old carnival shell-and-pea game spielers used to say, "You pays your money and you takes your choice." That is true in principle of economic forecasts.

Realty Views

"I'm anxious to sell," Dick Gormain said, "We've built a new home and have no use for the old one."

We inspected the property — a pretty home in a nice district with carpeting, fireplace, and attractive yard.

"It appears to be a salable home," I said.

"I can carry both homes for awhile," Dick said. "But I would like cash for my equity."

"We'll do our best," I replied.

Unfortunately, the house didn't sell during the 60 day listing period. Occasionally, no matter how appealing the home, or how hard we try, the right buyer for a specific home doesn't appear.

Dick came in. "I'm discouraged. What do you suggest?"

"Just time and patience, Dick. Sometimes in similar circumstances owners lose confidence, either in us or in their property. In the first case, they may list it elsewhere, usually with no benefit to themselves. Or, they slash the price which brings no rush of buyers. Price appeal, in such cases, is not nearly as important as the mere appearance of a single, strong, interested buyer. So, cheer up. We'll sell it for you."

And, within 30 days thereafter, we did.

May we ADVISE YOU on your home selling problem?

Sunday Christian Science Service

Today's need of the spiritual sense of truth will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon on "Truth" will include the following from Psalms (145:18): "The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (272:3-5): "The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before Truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving, and meek."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (98:1,3): "O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he hath done marvellous things: . . . He hath remembered his mercy and his truth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God."

NEWS OF THE FARM

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

Pasture systems such as green chopping, strip grazing and storage feeding can pay off for Lenawee county farmers by making it possible for them to carry more cows per acre. But it takes careful planning to pick the right system, says Assoc. county agricultural agent C. C. Ingerson.

Strip grazing can add 15 to 25 per cent to the carrying capacity of a well managed pasture. This system works well on almost every farm because it takes very little extra labor or equipment.

The system of chopping and hauling green forage to cows daily will increase pasture output by 25 to 35 per cent but it requires the largest investment and the most labor. It may take a 30-cow herd to cover the extra cost of green chopping and still leave a profit. This system could be profitable with a smaller 20-cow herd if they are high producers, 10,000 pounds of milk per year or more.

Another system called storage feeding can add 20 to 30 per cent to the number of cows a pasture will handle. With this system most of the pasture crop is harvested as silage and used to feed cows in dry lot or to supplement other pasture.

Ingerson says this storage or silage feeding system is one a farmer could still make good use of this year. Grass silage put up now when forage is plentiful will come in mighty handy later in the season when pastures start getting short.

Both the storage feeding and the green chopping pasture systems work out well where the pasture fields are a long way from the buildings or where cows need to cross a busy highway.

Agent Ingerson adds, "Now that the pasture season is in full swing may be a good time to see how these systems are working out on your neighbors farms. Then you can plan how one of them could fit into your operation."

May Pay To Store Wheat Short Period

Michigan farmers may gain by storing wheat for a limited time after harvest but whenever it is possible to realize the equivalent of the support price, the wheat should be moved.

This is the report made by Dale Hathaway, farm economist at Michigan State University. For most eligible farmers, it should prove profitable to put their wheat under loan, he says.

Hathaway partially based his report on improved wheat crop prospects in the great plain area as a result of much needed rain. The winter wheat crop now promises to approach that of last year, despite nearly a one-fifth reduction in planted acreage due to drouth and the soil bank program. As a result, this year's crop will be more than enough to provide for normal domestic use and commercial exports. Therefore, the support program will again be an important factor in the market.

Hathaway says that in previous years when this has been the case, the market price has been substantially below the support price during and immediately following harvest. Thus, it has paid many farmers to store wheat, at least for a few months, until the market price approaches the support level at the farm.

The current uncertainty about the acreage reserve part of the soil bank and the announced lower support price for 1958 wheat crop also figure in Hathaway's report. Both of these suggest that wheat prices will probably be lower for the 1958 crop.

Mystery Farm Owned By John Marks

James Creger of 314 Park St., Tecumseh, was the first person to identify the Mystery Farm last week as the John Marks farm, 2¼ miles east of Holloway. This was the second time this year that Mr. Creger has won. Elmer Marks is living on the farm now.

John Marks, of Blissfield, purchased the farm in 1950 from William Stozler. Recent changes on the 80 acre farm include cutting down woods to make work land, painting, and fields were made to run the full depth of the farm by removing the fences and lanes.

The farm was called the old Brosomer farm since two generations of Brosomers owned it.

Elmer Marks and his wife, Carma, were married in 1952. They have three children: Dianne, Kathleen and Pauline. They belong to the North Blissfield Lutheran Church. Their weekends are spent at their cottage on Dewey Lake.

The farm has 40 head of Herefords. Crops raised include corn, wheat, soy beans and oats. They also have some hogs. This year they tried liquid fertilizer and found it very satisfactory.

The Marks' will receive an aerial photograph and a two year subscription to the Herald from Hayden Mills.

Hip Dislocation In Cattle Can Be Repaired

A preliminary report in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association indicate that certain injuries to the hip joint in cattle can be repaired surgically. The expense of the operation would limit its use to valuable animals. Many of these can be kept in service for breed betterment by the operation.

A high percentage of these dislocations in cows are the result of incoordination which occurs after calving due to pressure on the nerves during delivery, or due to milk fever. The ligament which normally holds the bones in place becomes torn and the lips of the bony socket may be broken.

Falling or slipping during service is the most frequent cause of such injuries to bulls.

A shuttle pin method for repair of similar fractures or misplacement in dogs preceded the method now being adapted for cattle, the report said.

Seven of ten cattle treated by the new surgical method were restored to usefulness in experiments with injured animals, according to the Journal article.

Ammonia Neds Help To Do Job

Some farmers are not getting the crop response from anhydrous ammonia that they did when they first started using it.

Crop yields may be high temporarily because of the reserve fertility that has been building up over the years but unless extra phosphorus and potassium are used with the extra nitrogen, response to anhydrous ammonia or any high rate of nitrogen fertilizer may not be as great as it was at first.

Shavings Top Nest Material In U.P. Tests

Shavings proved superior to straw, ground corncobs and oats as a nesting material in tests at Michigan State University's Upper Peninsula Experiment Station at Chatham.

For production of clean, unbroken and unchecked eggs, shavings came out on top in tests conducted by Floyd Hicks, district extension poultryman for the Upper Peninsula. Shavings were also a superior material from the standpoint of cost of materials and labor required.

Hicks set up the study to determine which of the materials readily available and relatively inexpensive in that area would help keep eggs clean after they were laid. Research has revealed that 99 per cent of all eggs are clean when laid.

On shavings, 94.2 per cent clean eggs were produced; on straw, 91.9 per cent; on oats, 90.6 per cent and on ground corncobs, 87.7 per cent.

Using shavings in the nests resulted in 1.6 per cent broken and checked eggs; straw, 2 per cent; oats, 1.6 per cent and ground corncobs, 1.5 per cent.

Although oats rated well in the production of clean, unbroken and unchecked eggs, they were more costly to maintain. Oats had be be replaced three times more often than the other materials.

As might be expected, the study also showed that the percentage of dirty eggs increased for all four types of nesting materials as the weather conditions became more humid in the spring.

No Over-Run Allowed On Wheat For 1958

The Lenawee County ASC Committee wishes to notify all wheat growers that they are required to stay within their allotment to the tenth of an acre and allowed no over-run. Those using the fifteen acre limitation must not over plant the fifteen acres. Any wheat planted above these limitations will be considered penalty wheat.

Winners Reported

William Shields and George Brablec, both of Britton, were co-winners in identifying the Mystery Farm two weeks ago. The winners were omitted from the story last week. They both received two year subscriptions from the Tecumseh Herald.

READ THIS STARTLING FACT

5 out of 10 smaller cars wear a Pontiac price tag —yet none gives you any of Pontiac's advantages

PONTIAC GIVES YOU UP TO 8.9% MORE SOLID CAR PER DOLLAR!

Whether you judge a power plant by engineering statistics or on-the-road performance, Pontiac's Strato-Streak V-8 stands head and shoulders above anything in the low-price field. Your Pontiac dealer will be happy to show you a complete facts-and-figures comparison—then an eye-opening test drive in traffic or out on the highway will supply all the heart-lifting proof you need that Pontiac has separated the men from the boys when it comes to performance!

Maybe it comes as a surprise to you that so much more car can be yours at the same price you've seen on the smaller cars. But there's the fact! And Pontiac is a wonderful investment, too! As you know, it has always commanded a top trade-in. So why not step out of the small-car class and into a Pontiac . . . there's nothing in your way. Your Pontiac dealer has the keys and an eye-opening offer waiting for you right now!

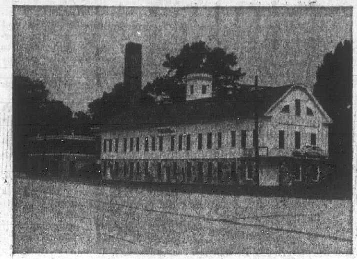
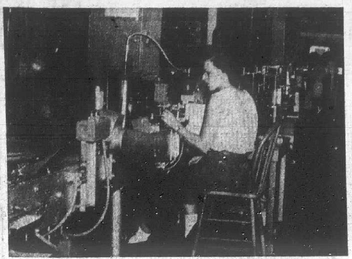
Talon, Inc. Is First Of Industrial Features



Tecumseh is the home of one of the only two packaging plants of Talon, Inc. in the United States. The company, which opened here on July 1, 1956, is located on Chicago Boulevard just east of town.

The "Talon" packaging process begins when the zippers are placed on the cardboard paper inserts by Evelyn Jeschke, Grace Willnow, and Goldie Zarnock (front to back) on one of the three assembly-line machines.



Next, the fasteners are boxed and inspected for flaws by Bernadine Graham. Storage is easy with the flat boxes, while putting only three zippers in each makes it convenient for merchants to purchase small amounts.

Tecumseh Herald Photos

J. A. Piazza, superintendent of the packaging division, and C. C. Smith, engineer for Talon, Inc., look on as Mary Karpo places the zippers in cardboard cartons prior to sending them to the shipping department.

The Tecumseh Herald has started the project of touring the various industrial plants in Tecumseh and doing picture features of them to appear in the Herald. Plans are to contact and to do features on all local industries that will co-operate.

It is hoped that this project will enlighten those of the Tecumseh area through a better understanding of the local economy. These features will not appear every week but will be spread out over a period of months. The first of the series, appearing this week, was done on the Talon Plant in Tecumseh.

"Talon" is a well-known name to anyone who makes or buys clothes in which a zipper is used. One of the two packaging plants of Talon, Inc. is located on Chicago Blvd., just outside the east city limits of Tecumseh.

The plant, which opened on July 1, 1956, has three assembly-line machines in operation 17 hours each week day. There are 50 people employed there, with women constituting 90% of the labor. Work is done in two shifts daily Monday through Friday. One shift is on duty from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., with the other relieving it from 3:30 to 12 a.m.

Let's follow a "Talon" zipper through the packaging process. First, the ends of the paper cardboard insert are bent and small slits are perforated so that the zipper may be laid in place. The information telling the color, length, and cost of the zipper is printed on and a little water soluble glue is added to hold the zipper upright in the container. Then the zipper is put into position on the insert. Its ends are folded, glued and held down for a few seconds to dry. In the next step, they are boxed and inspected. Three zippers are put into each box. Storage is easy with the flat boxes and the small amounts in each makes it convenient for merchants who do not wish to purchase a dozen of each make, size and color.

Now the box ends are bent down, the lids folded and glued and compressed for a few seconds. The same information as was previously put on the insert concerning size and color is now printed on each end of the box. In the final step, the boxes are put into cardboard cartons, 600 zippers going into each carton. These are then moved to the shipping department in the basement where they are labeled and sorted to go to the vendor's warehouse. All shipments are made to Donahue Sales Company, who are exclusive distributors of "Talon" packaged fasteners for the home sewing trade.

In addition to the shipping, the basement is also used to receive raw materials and for storage purposes. There is more storage space on the second floor, plus a room in which the employees can take their coffee break and relax. Snack may be purchased here and canteen service is available on the main floor. Employees are allowed two coffee breaks daily - - one on the first half of the shift and one on the last half.

Talon, Inc. has a total of 500 different combinations of color, type, and size zippers that are packaged, according to Mr. C. C. Smith, engineer of the packaging division. Twenty-five basic colors are used regulary, but occasionally as the trade demands, additions are made to these in order to satisfy a special customer demand. There are two types of metal used in the zippers, designated as size 2 and 4. The fasteners are available in 4-36 inch lengths, with a size at least every two inches. At the present time, the 7, 9, 11 and 12 inch lengths are running in the Tecumseh plant. However, this is periodically changed.

Talon, Inc. packages fasteners for all types of home sewing. The most popular items are skirt and jacket fasteners. Talon supplies its famous Magic Tab zipper for the skirt and placket applications. Trousers, jacket and slip cover fasteners are also packaged.

In the early nineties, a clever arrangements of hooks and eyes with a sliding clasp for automatically hooking and unhooking them was conceived. Then, in 1913, Gideon Sundback, employed by the Hookless Fastener Company, invented a basically new type fastener. The name, "Talon," taken from the powerful grasp of the eagle, was adopted for the zipper in 1928 and the company name was changed to Talon, Inc. in 1937. Fasteners in galoshes, marketed under the trade name, "Zipper," in 1923, first put the product in the world market. Now it is widely used in men's, women's and children's clothes, boots, shoes and leather goods.

Today, the company operates zipper manufacturing plants in Meadville, Pennsylvania; Cleveland, Georgia; Durant, Mississippi; Morton, Mississippi; Woodland, North Carolina and a Textile Division at Stanley, North Carolina, which manufactures tape for other plants. The home office, in Meadville, also includes a research plant, a mental component factory and manufacturers "Shu-Lok" for men's shoes. In addition, Talon, Inc. has two wholly owned foreign subsidiaries—Lightning Fastener Company, Limited, St. Catharines, Ontario, Canada, and Cierre Relampago, S. A. de C. V., Mexico, D. F. The combined annual output of zippers from these plants is more than sufficient to reach twice around the world. Flemington, New

NO COLORING HERE

The newspaper is the voice of the people. It is a mainstay for the right of free speech and the not so explicit right of complete information. The policy of this newspaper is to fully live up its responsibility regardless of where the chips may fall!

In this newspaper, every possible attempt is made to keep opinions of the publishers confined to the editorials. News in this newspaper will not be slanted. Every attempt will be made to present both sides of issues through parties directly involved, if possible. Advocation will be done through the editorials only.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

If the School, City and Recreation Board could settle their jurisdictional problems, a $1,000 increase in the recreation operation budget would give the children of Tecumseh a well rounded summer program providing the necessary volunteer help could be secured and facilities expanded. The budget is $4,000 now with the City giving 40%, the School 40% and the Community Fund 20%.

Approximately 400 boys and girls are playing in the various ball leagues this summer. Each one gets approximately 45 hours of recreation now during the summer program. This means that the cost is only 22c per child, per hour of recreation.

The present program is fine as far as it goes. It falls short in providing recreation for all age groups as well as giving enough recreation time to those under the program now. A well rounded program would provide recreation for all children from kindergarten through high school, both boys and girls. The only thing that is needed to accomplish this fact is more money, facilities to accommodate more children and volunteer help.

An extra $1,000 would operate such a program if 20 volunteer coaches and 4 women playground leaders could be secured to coach the ball teams, give tennis lessons, golf lessons, archery, handicraft, tell stories and all of the rest of a well rounded recreation program. I am sure people would volunteer if the money were made available to handle the extra children and facilities expanded.

Teen Club To Be Closed For Summer

It was decided that the Teen Club chould be closed until September, at the July Jaycee meeting, due to the small participation this summer. The Jaycees are going to take the initiative to organize a group from the other service clubs to work with the Teen Club.

Reports were heard from Max Smith on his trip to Boys' State and Explorer Scouts Dick Williams and Dave Hohenstein on the Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge. These boys were sponsored by the Jaycees.

Homecoming chairman, Bob Breniff, reported that the homecoming was a success despite the fact that the Jaycee tent was not allowed in the location agreed upon and that some concessions not agreed upon were brought in. Profits from the five day affair were approximately $1,000. Breniff was commended by the maembership for a fine job.

The Club voted to sponsor an archery shoot in the spring. They also voted to sponsor a circus this summer. The August meeting will be a barbecue held at the Jack Osburn home.

Grand Opening Will Be Friday And Saturday

The Watkins Shop is now located in its new quarters in the Palman Building and a grand opening will be held Friday and Saturday of this week.

The building has been remodeled and all new, modern blond fixtures have been installed, making the interior of the building very attractive.

New lines of merchandise have been added by the owner, Mrs. Marvin Watkins, who plans to carry items not carried in the past, giving shoppers a wider and better selection.

Roses will be given to the first 500 ladies visiting the store during the grand opening, plus many other free gifts.

Local Businessmen Were Interviewed This Week

Last week, the Herald interviewed shoppers at random and asked them to comment on whether they would like to have some of the proposed Tecumseh shopping centers materialize or not. Their comments, most of them advocating shopping centers for Tecumseh, were published. This week, an attempt was made to get a good cross section of Tecumseh businessmen and their comments on the same question. These comments appear below.

Claron Rex, Western Auto: I don't think the town is big enough for a shopping center. We do do need more parking space.

Ned Baldwin, Baldwin Hardware We have a lot of improving to do in town before we start on outlying districts. An expert came in to look over the situation and he said we have all the shopping center we need here. Of course, if that's what they want, I'll go along with it.

Harold Green, Green's Clothing: I think it's kind of silly to have the town so split up in different sections. We're definitely not big enough to support two or more business districts and that's what it would be. The parking problem can be taken care of here.

Lyle Des Ermia, Des Ermia's Furniture: No comment.

C. O. Butler, Butler Motor Sales: I don't think a shopping center would go over in a town this size. What we need is paved, well marked parking lots behind all four of the main blocks, with signs saying that they are free public parking. Now the merchants park on the main streets and take up spaces the customers could be using. If that keeps up, it'll drive the customers out of town. We also need a good, working Chamber of Commerce to get the businessmen organized and a good dry goods store.

Jack Osburn, Osburn Real Estate: I think it's wonderful! You can't stop progress. It's zoned commercial all the way out, so why not take advantage of it?

Jim Hicks, D & C Store: There is plenty of commercial zoning downtown. If new stores want to come in and help out the town, which they should, they should stay in the present business district. The parking problem needs to be improved. We should have a Chamber of Commerce to take care of that.

W. A. Wright, C. A. Wright & Son Drugs. No comment.

Roger Linger, Linger's Meat Market: The trouble is there is no cooperation between the marchants — some want to close Thursday afternoon, others stay open, one opens Friday night, another Saturday. They just don't work together. As far as parking goes, we have the space if the people will only use it. Here they have to be right in front of a store or they won't stop., but they'll go to a larger town and walk several blocks. The clothing situation is poor, especially for kids between 5 and 14.

John Cameron, Cameron Drug Store: I don't think we're big enough to start sprouting shopping centers yet. If the space back of the stores was properly marked out and policed, it would take care of a lot of the parking problem.

Dick Eggleston, Eggleston's Jewelry: I am not sure whether a shopping center woull be good for Tecumseh or not, but I do know there are several vacant stores down town that I would rather see filled first.

Projects Described

Future Farmers Busy During Summer Also

During the summer months the Tecumseh Future Farmers assisted by their advisor Paul Burns have been busy working on their group projects.

The pig chain is ready to change hands from Darrell Lowery and LeRoy Burleson to two new members decided upon at the next FFA meeting. The chapter will give a registered gilt to each of two boys to aid them to become established in raising registered stock. When the gilt has young, the boys will return two eight week old pigs to the chapter for other boys. At the present time, the chapter has two gilts to give to boys and two feeder pigs from this pig chain. The boys will feed the feeder pigs for market for experience.

Larry McVay has just completed feeding three feeder pigs for the chapter. All of the feed for these pigs was bought this time. Usually the boys mix their own feed, which they raise on their group projects. The boys showed a net profit of one dollar and seventy-five cents on the three pigs.

The broiler project is being continued by Bill LaCoe. At the present time, the mortality rate is about 4%. The chapter raises five hundred broilers per year. The chapter furnishes the house, feed and equipment. The student furnishes his labor, and bedding, for which he receives points on the point system. The boys will either sell the birds alive or dress them in the Agricultural Laboratory depending how busy they are with their own farm work. During the school year, the birds are always dressed and sold retail.

The Future Farmers have completed cultivating 7 acres of their soybeans and 7 acres of field corn. Mr. Austin Partridge, from Partridge Implement Company, combined two acres of wheat for the boys. The wheat yield was low this year due to the boys missing one round of drilling in the center of the field and the dry fall which we had last year. The wheat yielded 24 bushels per acre as compared to 34 last year.

The oats were combined by Fay Whelan and Linn Lewis of the Whelan Implement Company. The oats yielded approximately 65 bushels per acre as compared to 75 last year. The above photo shows them unloading oats from the combine to the FFA truck which is donated to the chapter by Schneider Bros. Garage. The Tecumseh Implement Company will also assist the boys by combining the 7 acres of soybeans this fall.

The FFA officers met several times this summer to plan next years program of work. They plan to complete this work on a recreational educational trip to Niagare Falls on the 6-7-8 of August. The boys going on the trip are: John Dewey, Wayne Lembrick, Jack Allen, LeRoy Burleson, Jerry Munger and Ron Roe. Mr. Burns will accompany the boys.

The chapter was also notified by the state office of vocational education that they are one of the outstanding chapters in the state and would be awarded a trip to Detroit. The trip is sponsored by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. The chapter also earned this honor in 1954 and in 1956 as well as this year.

"My Fair Lady" Blissfield Title

The Blissfield High School Band will take the title "My Fair Lady" at the annual Lenawee County Band Festival, held in Tecumseh, this fall. "My Fair Lady" is the title of a broadway production. The Blissfield Band always puts on a fine production and with this title, their show should be extremely interesting.

Duane Furbush Resigned From Pit

Mr. Duane Furbush who has been lifeguard at the "Pit" for the past 7 seasons has resigned effective August 2. He will continue his swimming classes in the mornings but will not be on duty at any other time.

Hawaiian Luan Held At Devils Lake Yacht Club

The big dipper turned into the southern cross last Saturday evening over Devils Lake Yacht Club as 200 members and guests enjoyed a Hawaiian Luan complete in every lovely Polynesian detail. Tropical warmth and star filled skies smiled on the guests as they came to the liana twined gates to be greeted by Commander and Mrs. Clarence Kunkle of Hudson who were in authentic Hawaiian attire. The ladies received orchids presented by Miss Sharon Zumstein and Miss Mary Frances Pampel dressed in grass skirts and leis. The grounds of the Club were transformed into a paradise of palm trees, vines and flowers with the center of interest a flower decked fountain which sprayed drops of liquid ruby into the air. Hawaiian punch and exotic canapes were served from garland tiers around the trees. The buffet was served with hollowed out pineapple and coconuts as serving bowls for such dishes as "teri yaki" and "lomi lomi."

Following the dinner, a floor show consisting of the "Head Liners", a group of dancers from Toledo, and three young ladies from Hawaii and Guam, who interpreted the Hawaiian hula and Guamaniam dances. Guests danced to the music of the Sky Larks.

Details of the party, which is an annual affair, were planned and executed by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zumstein assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Stubnitz, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell and Dr. and Mrs. Carence Kunkle.

Ceremony Held Friday

The boys were taken single file by Indian torchbearers down to the beach of Washington Lake to form a semi-circle around a prepared campfire. A ball of fire, "that came from the sky," ignited the campfire. The boys formed a complete circle. In the distance, across the lake, could be heard the beat of tom-toms. Six full dressed Indians in three canoes bearing torches paddled across the lake to the campsite.

The Indian chief and his council of aides then proceeded around the circle closely inspecting each scout as they passed each time around the circle, a scout was tapped out and he in turn joined the procession. Two boys were tapped out. There were Dennis Irelan of Troop 73 and Jerry Ireland of Post No. 87.

The requirements for a boy to be thus chosen are that he must be the best all around camper in his unit and have a minimum of 15 camping days.

These boys, by written vote, were elected by the boys in their units. Neither boy knew the outcome to the eection until Friday night's ceremony. They will be initiated next weekend at Camp Kanasatake.

Letters From Our Readers

Dear Editor:

I wish to register a protest about this "Christmas in July" business going on in Tecumseh. Christmas is commercial enough in December and doing it in July too is just about the last straw. I am not going to shop in Tecumseh again as long as the public address system in blaring out about "Christmas in July" and playing Christmas music.

I wish the merchants who are taking part in this would reconsider and give some thought to the real meaning of Christmas.

Sincerely,
Harry Snyder.

Dear Editor:

Several weeks ago you issued an invitation for letters from your readers. Here's mine.

I wonder what would happen
If everyone would have civic pride enough to cut or pull most of the weeds in his garden or lawn before they go to seed
If the temperature suited everyone at the same time
If all the hospital beds in the world were empty at the same time
If all tired people were rested at the same time
If all members of each church were present at the same worship service
If all people who give freely of time to assume leadership and accept its responsibilities weren't accused of "running things"
If all gripes about our community were "aired" at a public meeting called for that purpose and the service clubs and other organizations would volunteer to take assignments and remedy these conditions
If the earth stopped turning on its axis for twenty-four hours
If all of the people of Tecumseh took tranquilizer pills during the same twenty-four hours.
If people learned to discuss controversial subjects in a friendly manner.

This is the way that the lazy summer weather affects me. Guess I'll go pull a few weeds.

The Wonderer,
Ruth V. Rentschler,

Ground Broken For Hospital

Clarence Gilman, chairman of the Board of Trustees, turns over the first shovel of dirt for the beginning of the new $300,000 addition to Herrick Memorial Hospital, Thursday, July 25. Excavation began Monday, July 29.

Also present at the groundbreaking ceremony were: Mr. Krieghoff, general contractor, Mayor H. H. Hanna, Perry Satterthwaite, Glenn Kohler, Kenneth G. Herrick, Paul Hohenstein, and Chuck Hites, local manager of the Krieghoff Co. Board members not in the picture are Hal Kelso and Doctor Richard Dustin, hospital chief of staff, who was in surgery at the time.

With the hospital servicing the people from Clinton, Ridgeway, Britton, Macon, Manchester, Tipton and surrounding areas, as well as Tecumseh, it has outgrown its present capacity. The new addition will increase it from a 63 to an 85-bed hospital.

When this addition is completed, in May 1958, 22 more beds will be immediately available. Due to the limit on money, a skeleton second floor will be built now with the plumbing and electrical services roughed in. This floor will be finished as soon as more money is available and will then make Herrick Memorial a 100-bed hospital.

The only change in the hospital plans, previously covered in the May 16 issue of the Tecumseh Herald, is that the second floor will not be completed at the present time. The eventual plan is to have all O.B. patients on the second floor, with the first floor reserved for medical and surgical cases.

At the present time, there are 80 full-time and 33 part-time employees at the hospital, according to administrator Orrie Gilbert, There are 23 full-time and 21 part-time R.N.'s, and 11 active doctors on the medical staff. In addition. there are 22 associate staff physicians.

Bids on the hospital were awarded as follows: general contractor—Krieghoff-Lenawee Co., $167,740; electrical—Industrial Electric, $15,000 and mechanical—Young & Ost, $54,662. The kitchen, including refrigeration, will be put in by Rhodes Equipment of Ft. Wayne for $36,947.90. Kerscher Co. of Toledo will install the elevator from the basement to second floor at a cost of $14,435. The architect is Lewis J. Sarvis of Battle Creek.

Funds for the building were accumulated through the efforts of Mr. Gilbert and various outside sources who wish to remain anonymous. For the last two years the hospital has been running in the black, with the exception of a few months.

Wanted 4 Generations Of Veterans In Family

Are there four generations of living veterans of the American armed forces in your family?

If so, the Michigan State Fair would like to hear from that Michigan family, according to Donald L. Swanson, general manager.

In arranging this year's program for Veterans Day, to be held August 31, the State Fair management would like to honor such a family at a banquet to be cosponsored with the Consolidated War Veterans Councils of Michigan.

"We would like to point out that the four generations do not necessarily have to have seen active service," Swanson said.

So if you are a member of a for generation Michigan family of living veterans or know of someone who is, contact Harry Weberman, Veterans Day director, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3, Michigan.

Don't Water Lawn When It Is In Dormant Stage

"There's no use pouring fertilizer and water on your lawn when it's dormant," explains Hay Henstock, director of the Detroit Garden Center, located in Room 202, old City Hall.

He emphasizes that most grasses normally take a rest during late July and August. If yours turns a yellowish green color and stops growing during this time, it's nothing to worry about.

As to summer watering before that period arrives, Henstock has several suggestions to make.

Never water at night, he warns, or in late afternoon. You do not want your grass to be wet through the night.

Water instead during the day so it has a chance to dry. Watering early in the morning is ideal.

Don't sprinkle lightly and often as many people do but only when necessary and then soak well.

So far this year with all the rain that has fallen in this area, Henstock says that watering hasn't been a problem unless you have sandy soil which drains and dries out very rapidly.

Henstock says many people mow their grass too short. Bluegrasses and fescues should never be cut shorter than 1½ to 2 inches. Leave enough of the green blade so the plant can carry on it's life process of food production.

Continual feeding is also important to keep a lawn looking good. The early spring fertilization is dissipated all too soon. Nitrogen, the most important element for a beautiful green lawn not only passes off in solution in the soil but also into the air as a gas. Soon there is little nitrogen left.

For the average lawn, Henstock recommends four feedings of 10-6-4 lawn fertilizer a year, about 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet. He suggests using a holiday schedule as a reminder.

Put the first application on about April 1, either just before or after the ground has thawed out, again about May 30 (Memorial Day), next about July 4, skip the dormant period of August, and put on another application about September 1.

Barrier Guards Garage Rear Wall

One of the chief complaints heard today from homeowners is that older garages are too short for the new car.

Fortunately, in the average case there was about two feet of room to spare between the bumper of the old car and the rear wall of the garage, and another foot or two in the rear, which enables the average new car just to fit into the space.

However, this tight arrangement has usually caused the rear wall to receive repeated bumps, no matter how slightly, and gradually the wall has been slowly pushed away from the floor slab and in some cases seriously weakened.

To build out the front wall of a garage is quite an expensive matter. It involves rehanging the doors and changing the roof slope so that it falls properly to the new roof edge. In many instances the owner has built out a shed-like addition in the rear wall in order to obtain the additional footage required to accommodate the new car.

For the close-fitting car, a safety barrier is easy to devise. The car is run in until the bumper is within six or eight inches of the wall, and then a 2 by 4 is set on edge on the floor and wedged tightly against the front tires.

Measurements are then made and two short pieces of 2 by 4 are cut and nailed to the wall studs and the new barirer. The tires press down upon this barrier rather than push it forward.

In addition to this a 2 by 6 should be spiked into the wall at bumper height to distribute any occasional ram instead of having it confined to one or two of the studs.

More Than Ever

Northern Lights Associated With Activity On The Sun

If you missed the brilliant display of Northern Lights visible in Michigan and many other parts of the country on the night of June 30, you are likely to have another chance to see them during the rest of the year, according to Dr. James Stokley, associate professor at Michigan State University.

Displays of these lights, known to scientists as the aurora, have long been known to be associated with activity on the Sun, and this varies over a cycle of about 11 years, he pointed out. At present solar activity is at a maximum, so many more auroral displays are likely. As one feature of an active Sun, there are many sunspots, which are vast whirlwinds in the gaseous solar surface, often many times as big as the Earth, he said.

"The cause of the aurora is not fully understood," stated Dr. Stokley, "but it is believed that streams of electrified atomic particles are shot at us from the Sun, particularly from the spots. Some enter our atmosphere. As they hit atoms of oxygen and nitrogen at heights of 65 miles or more, they cause these gases to glow."

Such particles are affected by the magnetic field of the Earth; hence aurorae are mose frequent in the general region of the magnetic poles, both north and south, he said. In the northern hemisphere they occur most often above a line that runs along the north coast of Alaska, across the Yukon and the Northwest Territories of Canada, Hudson Bay and Labrador. Then the line goes over the North Atlantic, south of Greenland and Iceland. It skirts the north tip of Scandinavia and then goes over the Arctic Ocean just north of Europe and Siberia. Along this line, he said, the aurora is visible nearly every clear night.

Residents of Michigan and other northern states have considerably more opportunity to see auroral displays than people at similar latitudes in Europe, who are much farther from this line. Southern Michigan has ten times as many aurorae as northern Florida, where the frequency is about the same as in southern France, Dr. Stokley pointed out. Along the northern shore of Lake Superior they occur about three times as often as in southern Michigan, at about the same rate as in northern Scotland, he noted.

Aurorae have many different forms. A common one, he explained, is a pale green arch, low in the northern sky. This is really of glowing gases, about 65 miles high, which curves with the Earth's surface. Seen on edge from a more southerly point, it has the appearance of an arch. Sometimes such arches climb higher into the sky, and they may seem to pulsate. Another form is that of streamers, like searchlight beams, or of luminous curtains, which may appear to wave as if in the wind.

Many different colors have been observed in the aurora, but greenish-yellow predominates. Reds, blues and violets may also occur.

One of the major areas of study of the International Geophysical Year, now engaging the attention of thousands of scientists in many parts of the world, is concerned with the aurora and similar effects, he added. When fully analyzed, these observations, from Arctic and Antarctic observing posts, will doubtless give the answers to many puzzles now presented by the aurora, he believes. It was mainly because these effects are now at maximum, along with solar activity, he said, that the period from July 1, 1957 to December 31, 1958, was chosen for the Geophysical Year.

Gasoline Tax Refund Claims Are Due Now

Now is the time for farmers to file their gasoline tax refund. To receive a refund for the year ending June 30, 1957, claims must be filed on or before September 30, 1957.

Form 2240 must be used to apply for the refund. This form will be mailed to all farmers who filed for a gas tax refund in 1956. Those who have not filed a claim before can get Form 2240 from their county agricultural agent, or from the local internal revenue office.

Farmers can make claims for a refund on all gasoline bought and used on the farm. This includes gasoline used by custom operators or neighbors who helped with the planting, cultivating, or harvesting of any agricultural crop. No refund will be made for gasoline used off the farm, such as for transporting family or farm goods on the public highway. Any owner, tenant or operator of a farm can file for the refund.

The highway revenue act of 1956 raised the federal tax on gasoline from 2 to 3 cents per gallon. For this reason claims for gasoline bought during the past fiscal year should be figured at the rate of 3 cents per gallon.

The completed Form 2240 should be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue, Federal Building, Detroit 25, Michigan. Do not send invoices, bills or statements with the form, but keep them. Revenue agents may want to check records to make sure that the correct amount has been claimed.

Mr. Wooten was 80 years old and lived at his farm home southeast of Tecumseh. He was born in Adrian, Dec. 18, 1876, the son of Thomas and Rachel Engelhart Wooten. ## Adventist Conference To Be Held Aug. 8 - 17

The 89th annual camp meeting of the Michigan Conference of Seven-day Adventists will be held August 8-17 at Grand Ledge, Michigan.

It is an annual convocation of a majority of the members of the church in the state of Michigan to re-emphasize spiritual values and to renew consecration of members to their church vows. Some 3,000 to 4,000 persons are expected daily, with crowds in excess of 10,000 expected during weekends.

It is expected that most of the speakers will stress spiritual preparedness for the nuclear age. Adventists believe in the imminent return of Jesus Christ to this earth and this doctrine will receive much emphasis.

The early morning devotional service will be held at 6:30 a.m. daily. Other services follow at 9:00, 10:45, 2:30, 4:40 and an evening service at 7:30.

Sunday Christian Science Service

How the understanding of God's inexhaustible goodness enables man to meet everyday needs will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon on "Love."

Scriptural selections will include the following from Ezekiel (34:11, 14): "For thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I, even I, will both search my sheep, and seek them out . . . I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be: there shall they lie in a good fold, and in a fat pasture shall they feed upon the mountains of Israel."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (494:10): 'Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good."

Cub - Father Camp - Out Successful

Cubmaster Erwin Richardson reports that the first local Cub Scout Pack No. 73 weekend camp-out was inaugurated and declared an outstanding success last weekend. There were 41 Cubs and 16 fathers taking part from Friday night through Sunday morning at the Tecumseh Conservation Club grounds.

By way of organized entertainment, there was hard and softball, volley ball, bow and arrow shooting as wel as spontaneous games of Army and Indians created by the boys themselves with the hills and valleys adding to the sport and reverberating with their cries of "attack."

There was plenty of food as well as in-between and bed time snacks ably prepared by Carson House and "Pan Cake King Wilmer Kiser," assisted by the other fathers.

The camp site included approximately 26 tents in a huge circle, including a First Aid tent and food center with a large bonfire near the food center.

On Saturday evening, the Mothers and families were welcomed as visitors to witness the various promotions and badge awards.

Committees for the camp-out were: food, Lowell Wise, Wilmer Kiser, Carson House, Charles Huber and Journey Stone; camp committee, Franklin Fergus, Charles Lewis, Byron Schultz and Robert Goodman; transportation, Roy Beasley and Melvin Wagner; amusement, Erwin Richardson, Frederick Dickinson and John Snyder.

The Den Mothers and Pack Committee thanked all of those fathers who cooperated in this undertaking and for the thorough planning which made this weekend a memorable one for Cub Scouts of Pack No. 73.

Last Week Of Softball And Baseball For The Summer

This is the last week of softball and baseball in the Summer Recreation Program. Starting Wednesday, touch football will be played in the Leagues.

The Major League teams and the Minor League teams will be combined into the Junior League. The Red and Blue Division Peewee League teams will be combined to form the Peewee League. The Senior League will be composed of all boys who will be 14 before August 23 and who are not 18 before August 23.

Touch football only will be played with rules varying for the various leagues. In all of the leagues, every boy on the team will get into the game since games are for recreational purposes only.

No games were played in the Peewee Softball, red division, League or Junior Softball League Monday.

In the Peewee League, the Tecumseh Acres, blue division team trimmed Central No. 2 18 to 6. Bates had 3 for 3 and Radant had 4 for 4. Lemerand was the winning pitcher.

The red division Central No. 2 team defeated Herrick Park 3 to 2 Friday behind the steady pitching of Rosacrans who also doubled in two runs. The winning run was driven in by Saling in the last of the fourth inning.

The red division Central No. 1 team forfeited to Tecumseh Acres Friday. It was the 7th win for the Red Sox.

On Tuesday afternoon, July 23, the Herrick Park Minor League team defeated Central No. 1 by the score of 5 to 1. Carson House Jr. led the hitting for Herrick Park with two hits and three runs batted in. Brown was the winning pitcher and Kirk was the losing pitcher.

In the other Minor League game Tuesday, Tecumseh Acres won a tough game from Central No. 2 With Whelan and Work leading the hitting and Whelan pitching, Tecumseh Acres pulled ahead to a 6 to 3 victory. Dickinson pitched a good game for Central No. 2.

On the afternoon of July 25, Central No. 1 and Central No. 2 played a Minor League game. Central No. 1 won by the score of 7 to 2, led by Jim Kirk who hit 3 for 3. The winning pitcher was M. Richerson and the losing pitcher Rice.

Also in the Minor League, Tecumseh Acres won a close game from Herrick Park 16 to 15 Thursday. Led by Dziachan, Pirowski and Hebert, Herrick Park surged back from a 14 to 5 deficit to go ahead 15 to 14 in the bottom of the fifth inning. But Mike Higgins drove the winning runs in, in the next inning. Higgins was the winning pitcher and Fergus the losing pitcher.

In one of the lowest scoring Major League games of the season, the Jaycees slid past the Rotary team 1 to 0 Tuesday evening. Rosacrans allowed only one hit and struck out 13 batters. Both teams played a good game with Quinn the losing pitcher and getting the only hit for his team. Baxter had 2 out of 2 hits for the Jaycees.

The Exchange Club team took a close game from the Jaycees Thursday. It was a pitchers battle between Andy Risner of the Exchange Club and Ron Mikesell of the Jaycees. Anderson had 2 for 3 for the Exchange Club. The final score was 2 to 0.

In a Major League game Thursday, the Rotary team defeated the Kiwanis team by the score of 17 to 4. Jack Dick was the winning pitcher. Grant Baughey had 3 for 4 at the plate.

Complete Major League statistics were not turned in.

Home Color Harmony

Harmony of color within your home is always desirable, but it is particularly important in new homes where one room seems to blend into another—as they do, for instance, in modern split-level and ramblers.

Plan For Future Space

As much as half of the total cubic content of a house may be contained in the basement and area. By careful designing when a home is planned, these areas can be destined for finishing at a later date, when more living space is needed.

For example, plumbing expense can be avoided by laying out of future bathrooms in these areas.

Enlarge Room Looks

Good lighting can make a small room look more spacious. By focusing light on the ceiling or walls, a room will look higher or wider. Another trick for creating height is highlighting tall draperies.

Lighting a dark, unused corner will put it to work and also give you more space.

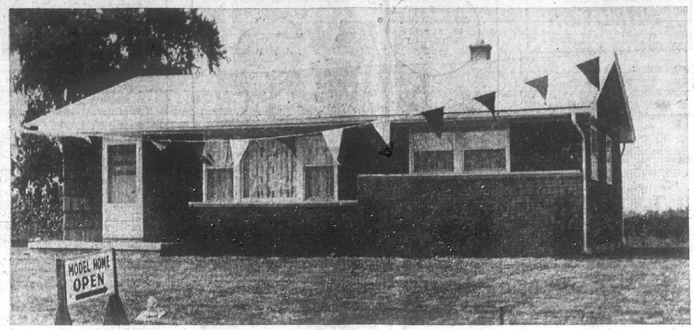
This Low Price Home Is Loaded With Features



This model home, located in Indian Acres, is now being shown by Kohler Real Estate. Containing three bedrooms, kitchen, bath, and living-dining area, it is typical of the new homes built in the residential section.

Located at 507 Ternes Road, in the midst of Indians Acres. This Town and Country model home has gray-green siding with white trim and brick decoration on the front. All of the houses in this section are designed from a group of basic floor plans. These are then altered so that each of them has its own individual look.

The basic house has five rooms, including three bedrooms, kitchen and living-dining area. There is a bath and six closets in each. They are of standard construction, built on the job according to FHA and VA approved plans and specifications.

Included in the purchase price of $14,256 to $14,475 are paved streets with concrete curbs and gutters, concrete driveway approaches, public sidewalks, natural gas for a water heater and cooking, water main and storm and sanitary sewers. Lot sizes range from 66 to 90 feet frontage by 132 to 150 feet deep. The homes contain over 1,000 square feet of livin garea, not including a full basement. All city improvements are installed.

The busy homemaker will be interested in the vestibule tiled in "random-cut" slate and the modern "pull-down" lighting fixtures. The custom built kitchen cabinets are in red Birch giving them uniform coloring. The kitchen also includes double-bowl sink, inlaid linoleum, formica work surfaces and vent fan.

The bath is ceramic tiled with fixtures available in white or colors. There is a double medicine chest with sliding mirrored doors and a formica top vanity. A laundry chute is conveniently located in the upper hall and laundry tubs are built in the basement.

The man of the family will be pleased with the all steel beams and 8-inch thick solid concrete walls. There is copper tube plumbing throughout, 100 Amp. electric service which allows for future demand and an automatic circuit breaker fuse panel for safety purposes. Silent switches are used in all of the homes.

Heating is by oil in an automatic forced air furnace. The homes are insulated with fibre glass and have 42-inch wide roof overhangs. All framing and construction is 16 inches on center, so that no member of the floor, ceiling and sidewalls is more than 16 inches apart. The friut storage center in the basement could also serve as a tornado shelter.

Also included in the basic house prices are linoleum covered basement steps, shades in all of the windos and a traverse rod on the large front pictuer window. Extras available on request are a tile floor in the basement, aluminum storms and screens, wall-to-wall carpeting and sod and shrubbery.

Families who buy a home that has not been built or in which the basement only has been started, can choose the colors to their ceramic tile, in interior paint schemes, linoleum kitchen floor and cupboard tops from among the many beautiful shades available. The siding, roof, and exterior trim on the outside may also be chosen at this time.

Tecumseh Herald Photos

Interior and exterior color schemes are decorator-correlated. Buyers may select their own color preferences from among the attractive shades available on homes not yet built.

Indian Acres was started in 1954 and is now a residential neighborhood of 34 homes. Two homes are now available for sale and an additional 30 are still to be built. The area is near St. Elizabeth Church and School and Patterson Elementary School.

The homes are built by Town and Country Homes, Inc. of Dearborn. Local sales are handled by Kohler Real Estate.

Stop Leaks With Ball Bearings

Ball bearing faucet washers are well known to professional property managers, but home owners are just discovering them as a solution to the leaky faucet problem.

Probably the biggest cause of faucet drips is the way washes are turned down against the valve seat. They are torn to pieces by friction.

The ball bearing washers are pressed against the valve seats without turning. This eliminates frictional wear and is said to increase the life of washers by about ten times. Valve stems have to be adapted to receive the ball bearing washers.

Builders Explain Special Terms

Many a home buyer is as mystified by the construction terms used by his builder as he is by legal terms used by the broker. In other words, lintels and joists mean about as much to the uninitiated as do abstracts and warranty deeds.

Builders explain their terms this way:

Dry wall is any kind of interior partition which does not consist of wet plaster surfacing. It can be good paneling or fiber wallboard, but is most commonly gypsum wallboard with taped seams.

Dry wells work best when not dry. They are small pits which are dug to catch rainwater from downspouts and disperse it into the ground. The pits are lined with loose stone.

A shed roof does not necessarily cover a shed. It is a roof which slopes in one direction, as opposed to a gable roof which slopes in two directions from a center ridge.

Joists are beams which support floors or ceilings. Studs make up the skeleton framework of walls. Rafters support the roof.

Many a builder has had a hard time explaining to customers that lentils go into soup and lintels go over doors and windows.

Home Heating By Electricity Grows

Heating with electricity has grown from an experimental infant to an increasingly important force in home comfort. More than 300,000 homes in the nation will be heated completely or in part by electricity by the end of 1957.

The second type is the heat pump, which draws heat from the outside air into the house. Working in reverse in the summer, the heat pump is an air-conditioning unit, expelling heat from the house.

A house heated by electricity must be thickly insulated. Insulation brings the advantages of electric heating well within the homeowner's means.

Electric-heat manufacturers recommend six inches of mineral wool insulation in ceilings, four inches in walls, and two inches in floors over unheated spaces. Homes built on concrete slabs need two inches of perimeter insulation around the edges of the slab.

Among the chief advantages of electric heating is its cleanliness, since there are no fumes or odors, and homes can be built without chimneys.

ARE WE ON OUR WAY?

A lot of complaisant individuals in the U. S. were set on their ears recently when a top Russian official in a TV interview said our grandchildren would enjoy the blessings of socialism.

Instead of the Russians bringing us state socialism (communism) it will come from within our own country, if it comes. We have already accepted the forerunners of the socialist state—government in many lines of business. Some elected public officials are seeking to extend its field of activity. They attack our capitalistic system (private enterprise) and promise the people their God-given rights under non-profit government enterprise. A lot of people fall for it and cast another vote for the promoters of socialism.

Our farmers would reject the idea of operating under Russian socialized farm methods, and yet they have accepted and voted for policies that put them under the dictation of government for much of their planting and revenue. Try to raise one of the "subsidized" farm crops without complying with the quota allowed you, even if you want no subsidy, and see what happens to you.

And the same applies to other lines of business where government competes—free enterprise is no longer free.

FROM GRANT TO EISENHOWER

It certainly seems unlikely that President U. S. Grant and President Dwight D. Eisenhower, along with many Presidents in between, would have proposed identical legislation to Congress. But it's true. The legislation in question is the "item veto," under which a President would have the power to veto individual items in appropriation bills without affecting anything else in those bills.

Forty Congresses have been called upon to consider the item veto—and all 40 have refused. So when an appropriation bill goes to the President, he must approve all of it or none of it. And, often, he must grant his total approval, unpalatable and wasteful as some items may be, because the bill contains appropriations essential to the continued functioning of the government.

Various arguments are made against the item veto—the main one being that it would give the Executive too much power over the Legislative branch. But most authorities have long been convinced that the real reason is very different. As matters now stand, all manner of high-priced pork-barrel projects which have no reasonable justification and which help to inflate the budget, can be tacked onto necessary bills —and thus forced down the throat of the President, to be paid for by all the taxpayers.

Since the Confederate Constitution gave the selective veto to Jefferson Davis, more than three-fourths of the states have adopted the principle with no sign of executive tyranny or legislative collapse. It's certainly time that the right President Davis enjoyed and President Grant requested, be written into law.

Movie Review
By Walter Nichols

I run your Local Movie Theatre and because I have had so many people tell me "I wish I had known that you were going to have that picture, I missed it," I have decided to let you know farther in advance what will be shown at the Strand.

August is our anniversary month! I want to thank our many patrons who have made our business so successful for the past 18 years. Our policy has always been and still is to bring you all the First Run pictures for your entertainment at a price that all can afford.

In fact we have so many really fine productions to be shown in the next few weeks that we really keep running out of days of the week to play them. For instance in the next two short weeks we have the following line-up of stars and pictures in store for you.

There is Bing, that's "Crosby," in a new first in his exciting career in "Man on Fire" performing brilliantly as he did in "The Country Girl." On the same program MacDonald Carey and Rhonda Fleming in scope and color in a new action adventure "Odongo" filmed in Africa.

We have Lauren Bacall and Gregory Peck in cinemascope and color in a production that's really different, "Designing Woman." Then along comes the New Star, Pat Boone, in his first picture, "Bernardine," also starring Janet Gaynor, Dean Jagger and Terry Moore.

Then we have Ava Gardner and Stewart Granger in "The Little Hut" and on the same billing your TV favorite Rex Reason in "Badlands of Montana." Then the one that all critics agree places Tony Curtis up among the really fine actors in "Sweet Smell of Success" which co-stars Burt Lancaster. And for the whole family to enjoy comes Walt Disney's production "Johnny Tremain" in color and to round out the bill for a most enjoyable evening is Tony Martin and Vera Ellen in a Gay Musical Comedy in color and cinemascope "Let's Be Happy."

Yes, we are going all out this summer to entertain you with the Best so get Dad to park that lawnmower, forget the Flit Can, save your Gas and come down to the Air Conditioned Strand and enjoy our Home Comfort away from home and see the best on our Giant Wide Screen. Call our Box Office for starting times and what is playing. You are always welcome at the Strand. More about More Movies in next week's paper.

Realty Views

After a meeting recently, Claude Wiley, a local businessman casually remarked, "You know, Glenn, my wife and I have often talked of getting a newer, smaller home. Now that the kids are gone it seems logical. But we bought our present big home in 1942 and it's worth in today's dollars two or three times what we paid for it. Frankly, the thing that holds us back is income tax. We just can't see paying a big tax on this inflationary profit, because we'd have to turn right around and reinvest all the money in a more modern house."

"Don't let the tax angle worry you," I replied. "Several years ago the law was changed so that a home owner doesn't have to pay a tax on the capital gain from selling his house provided he buys another home of equal or greater value within a year."

"Well that is good news," Claude said, "I guess I failed to read about that change. With a legal way of escaping the tax, we might as well go ahead. Why don't you follow me home and look over our house. My wife will be enthusiastic too."

Within a few months the Wiley house was sold and they were comfortably settled in a late-model smaller home.

May we SERVE you too?

Although it is a statistical fact that the price the average family spends for their medicines is now a lesser percentage of their total income than it used to be ten years ago, it is also a fact that their benefits are now much greater.

Modern prescriptions are really a great value because they help you get well so much more quickly that you are sick only days, instead of weeks. Their price is low compared to their value.

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

FRUIT EXPECTATIONS

The Michigan apple crop will be small this year compared to national production, reports L. G. Hall, Lenawee county agricultural agent.

He says that according to estimates of the National Apple Institute, the Michigan crop will be 16 per cent smaller than last year while national output will go up 12 per cent. The U. S. crop will be back to about average after last year's low.

Michigan growers can expect more competition from Washington apples this year, says Hall. Although the Washington crop is only expected to be average, it is up 50 per cent from last year's poor season in that state.

Michigan is expected to have a record crop of sweet cherries this year. He points out that it will be a third larger than the last record crop in 1952.

At the same time, the total U.S crop will be about eight per cent below the average of the last ten years. It will, however, be 27 per cent above last year, an unusually poor season in the western states where 80 per cent of our sweet cherries are grown.

Small Grain Loan Rates Announced

The price support or government loan rates which will be in effect on barley, oats, wheat and rye produced in Lenawee County this year have been announced by Arthur Capper, Chairman of the county ASC Committee.

The Lenawee County rates on these commodities follow: Oats, 62 cents per bushel; wheat $2.04 per bushel; barley, $.96 per bushel, and rye, $1.21 per bushel.

The rate for 1957-crop Navy (Pea) Beans on Choice Handpicked basis will be $7.29 per cwt. and for Red Kidney Beans on a Choice Handpicked basis will be $8.20 per cwt.

Price support on barley, oats, rye, wheat and dry beans will be available to producers from harvest time to next January 31 in the form of loans and purchase agreements. Applications must be filed at the county ASC office, the same as in other years, and the offered grains or dry edible beans must meet certain quality requirements. Wheat must also have been produced in compliance with acreage allotments and marketing quota rules.

The Department of Agriculture has announced national average support rates of $1.36 per bushel for 1957 corn and $2.09 per bushel for 1957 soybeans, but county-by-county rates have not been fixed. However, county rates for these commodities will be a few cents lower than last year since the national average for 1957 corn is 14 cents lower than 1956 and the national average for soybeans is 6 cents under the 1956 figure.

Mrs. James Vershum Identified Farm

Mrs. James Vershum of Route 1, Tecumseh first identified last week's Mystery Farm as Kitty Kurtis, owned by C. M. Brown and located on M-50, west of Ridgeway. Mrs. Vershm received a two year subscription from tTecumseh Herald.

The Brown's have owned the farm for 16 years. They bought it in 1941 from Carl Brown. The name of the farm was derived by combining the names of Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

The large barn was remodeled before it burned to the ground. A three sided pole barn has replaced it. The house has been converted to three apartments.

Mr. Brown and his wife Catherine have three children: Curtis B., William K. and Mrs. Bruce Corley, who recently moved here from Kalamazoo. All of the Brown farms are incorporated with the children.

The Browns will be given a free aerial photograph and a two year subscription to the Tecumseh Herald from the features sponsor, Hayden Mills.

State Fair Lists Record Totals In Livestock Prizes

Livestock exhibitors will fare much better at this year's Michigan State Fair to be held August 30 through September 8 at Detroit.

Eldon McLachlan, Director of Agricultural Exhibits, reports that for the first time premium money will average $30 per steer shown as compared to $20 in the past and that there will be a $50 instead of a $30 maximum on first place steer. In addition there will be the usual $50 for grand champion and $25 for reserve grand champion.

All-told, a record $24,000 will be offered in the Beef and Dual Cattle Department; $4,000 for each breed in open competition with additional prizes offered by the National Breed Association. The Dairy Cattle Department will offer $20,100, an amount equalled by few States. Premiums in the Horse Department have been increased to $14,500, an all-time high. The Sheep Department, with Commissioner George Merriman of Manchester, continuing in charge, is offering a record $14,954 in premiums. Swine Department premiums have been increased by approximately $1000 to a new high of $13,587.

Donald L. Swanson, State Fair general manager, has urged exhibitors to file entries as early as possible before the August 9 deadline if they want to be assured of space. In many instances, Swanson said, We'll have to accept on a first come, first served basis because of space shortage.

The 1957 Premium Book, listing a record $140,000 in prizes, has been mailed to exhibitors including those in the 1956 Michigan State Fair. Anyone not on the mailing list, or anyone desiring a copy, should write to the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 3, Michigan.

Wild Berries May Be Aid In Research

Plant breeding and disease researchers at Michigan State University are trying to develop hardier and more disease resistant varieties to rebuild Michigan's steadily declining raspberry industry.

Plant disease and winter injury have been the main cause of the decline. To develop superior varieties, the scientists need plants for breeding that are better endowed with hardiness and disease resistance than are found in the standard varieties now being grown.

Michigan residents are asked to help in locating plants with desired characteristics. The researchers believe that such plants may be growing along fence rows, and in pastures and woodlots in the state. Both red and black kinds of berry plants are needed.

The Michigan State Horticultural Society is aiding in the search by offering cash prizes of $25 each for the best native red and black raspberry plants in the state. A $15 prize will be given for the second best plants.

If you are interested, look along fence rows and other uncultivated areas during the fruiting season for native black and red raspberry plants of unusually vigorous and healthy appearance.

The researchers emphasize that plant vigor and apparent good health are the most important qualities, although excellent fruit characteristics are of much value.

You should mark the outstanding plants with permanent markers such as a strong stake or a larger metal label so that the plants can be found again in the fall.

You should then notify the South Haven Experiment Station at South Haven before August 15 about plants that have been found. You'll get further instructions from there.

Michigan Department of Agriculture is also cooperating with the program by granting special permission to move the promising plants to the South Haven station. There, the plants will be grown in isolation until department inspectors can make thorough examination. Plants that pass the inspection will be used as parents in raspberry breeding.

The M.S.U. researchers point out that it will be necessary to grow all plants at the South Haven station for two or three years before judging the winners of the contest.

A Message From "Your Pharmacist"
IT IS AMAZING HOW MANY PEOPLE offer advice that only a physician is qualified to give. They mean well but do not realize the skilled knowledge required to diagnose an illness.
"THE BUTCHER, THE BAKER, THE CANDLESTICK MAKER" are all quick to recommend some medicine that cured someone they know. Grandma — God bless her — always has a favorite remedy her grandmother used.
SOMETIMES THEY HELP, but when they don't, the delay in giving proper treatment can give a virus or an infection a foothold that is much harder to overcome.
DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR HEALTH. When you are sick let your physician diagnose the cause and prescribe the particular medicine that will help you most.
MORE THAN HALF of the important medicines in present day prescriptions were unknown less than five years ago. That is why you can always depend on a prescription, compounded especially for your particular ailment, to help you most.

NEED INDICATED

The zoning hearing, Monday evening in the Council Chambers, was very interesting, to put it mildly. The biggest fact that it pointed out was the need for a Chamber of Commerce.

Getting a Chamber of Commerce again "as every one will tell you!" is not going to be an easy task. Nor is it going to be an easy task to keep one going after it is organized. The biggest barrier is the lack of common opinion and understanding on main street. There are several different "camps" of opinion that vary from the completely static to the completely dynamic. A happy medium will have to be struck and open minds will have to prevail or else the Chamber of Commerce will be doomed before it starts.

VERY REFRESHING

It is very enlightening to visit the Tecumseh City Council Meetings. This seven man governmental body, as a whole, is composed of men that actively participate in the meetings and are not afraid to say what they think. I am sorry to say that this is rather unusual in this day and age.

WHO IS HE ?

I wonder who the "little man" is that the Democrat politicians are always talking about? It can't be the working man; his voice is heard above most, thanks to the union movement. It seems that the business and professional ranks are able to make themselves heard over the rumble of the crowd also. Must be a trite-ism! !

Tecumseh's Share Is $8,295 From Fund And Act 87

The City of Tecumseh will get $7,383.30 as its share of the net receipts of the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund for the Second Quarter of this year. All state gasoline, weight and Diesel fuel taxes and a small amount of miscellaneous fees collected are deposited in the Fund. After deductions for non-highway uses and collections costs, the rest of the money is divided as follows: 44 percent to the State Highway Department for expenditure on state trunkline highways in both rural and urban areas; 37 percent to the counties for expenditure on county roads ad 19 percent to the cities and incorporated villages for expenditure on their roads and streets. Britton will receive $819.61 and Lenawee county will receive a total of $155,078.67 as its share.

Tecumseh will receive an additional $912.55 as it share of the distribution of Act 87 gas and tax monies for the Second Quarter of this year. Under Act 87, the amount of money raised by an extra 1½ cent gas tax and additionau weight taxes levied under its provisions is divided on the basis of 75 percent to the State Highway Department and 25 percent to the counties, cities and incorporated villages. Britton will get $101.30 and Lenawee County will get $19,180.54.

Police Report Investigations During Past Week

The Tecumseh Police Dept. reported the following investigations during the past week. On August 4, Terrance G. Clanda of Toledo was ticketed for having a loud muffler on E. Chicago Blvd. On August 6, Henry Powers, of Ypsilanti was ticketed for driving 60 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone on E. Chicago. Marquis Dauber, Adrian, was ticketed for driving 35 miles per hour in a 25 mile zone on Macon Highway.

A car driven by Doris Jean Mukensturm, Tecumseh and a car driven by Herman J. Babcock, Detroit, collided on the corner of Oneida and Pottawatamie on August 5. Babcock was arrested for making an improper turn.

On August 3, Candelario Sanchey, Tecumseh, pleaded guilty before Justice Leon Van Dueson on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and was fined $100 and $4.30 costs and 10 days in jail, which was suspended and he was put on 60 days probation. James McGuire, Tecumseh, pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge. The fine and costs were suspended but he was given 15 days in jail. Donald Lee Farmer, Tecumseh, pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge before Justice Van Dueson and was fined $50.00 and costs of $4.30 and 5 days in jail. Pleading guilty on a

Health Study Canvass Will Begin August 14

Interviewers for the Community Health Study, being done in Tecumseh under the direction of Dr. Horton, from the University of Michigan School of Public Health, will begin a complete canvass of the entire study area August 14th. A second canvass will begin on or about October 14th.

It is expected that 15 or 20 field interviewers will be trained for the first canvass which should be completed around the middle of September.

The first canvass will involve the preparation of four separate questionnaire forms for each interviewer as he visits each household; the other two are to be completed by the respondent and mailed in. Form CHS-1 is the basic document for securing the names and addresses of all persons who live in the study area. Minimum information such as birthday, marital status etc. are also obtained on this questionnaire.

Form CHS-2 will provide the information necessary to set up kinship groups for study of the genetic implications of various diseases and impairments. The form will be prepared for each separate blood line represented in the household and will be used to pull together the information about the family members who live in the study area.

Form CHS-3 will provide basic information with which to view the current picture of health in the study community. For each of 40 listed conditions or impairments, the respondent will enter an "x" to indicate whether the person has now or ever had the condition and whether or not a doctor was consulted. The interviewer will prepare the heading items of the form and fill out one column for the respondent The form is then left to be completed for the other household members. A pre-addressed and stamped envelope, in which the completed form is to be mailed, is left with the respondent.

Form CHS-4 will provide current data on the current proportion of sickness in the community. The inteviewer will prepare the heading items of the form and leave it for the respondent to record the particulars about each illness or injury as it occurs. Adequate copies will be left to cover the period from the interviewers first visit to the end of October. The first month's report will be mailed in; later reports will be picked up by members of the local scout troop or by the interviewer when he makes his second visit in October.

The second canvass, starting about October 14, will allow the interviewer to bring the household listing up-to-date; discuss any problems which have turned up in the review of the other forms collected on the first visit or later mailed in; collect data regarding work history of employed persons

Country Club Opened In 1939

The Tecumseh Country Club stands on 160 acres of land on Milwaukee Road just northeast of town. The grounds were purchased from Henry Ford and converted from an old farm site to the beautiful golf course we have today.

The course was originally owned by the members but was later taken over by the Tecumseh Products Company. It was bought by Frank K. Smith on August 1, 1956. Mrs. Smith is the present owner since the death of her husband.

The Club first opened in 1949 and at the present time has 310 members. It is strictly private, with club facilities open only to members and their guests. However, those interested in becoming members are encouraged through the new membership plan, whereby stock can be purchased on the installment plan over a period of one, two or four years.

Some of the outstanding events held at the club include the Spring and Fall dinner dances, the New Year's Eve party, and the Calcutta Tournament. The annual Frank K. Smith Memorial Day will be initiated this year.

The big family events are on Memorial Day, July 4 and Labor Day when there are games, pony rides, movies and a weiner roast planned for the children, in addition to the dinner. Regular family night is held each Thursday the year around.

Wednesday is officially known as Ladies' Day, when the female members gather for luncheon and bridge or other card games. Golf is also played during the summer season. This is the day when the women have the say and is the only time they can wear shorts in the cocktail lounge and dining room.

A special Smorgasborg is held every Sunday for members. They may also enjoy club facilities for wedding receptions, private parties, luncheons and dinners.

Lunch is served at the club from 12-2 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, with dinner from 6-8:30 p.m. Sunday dinner is from 2-6 p.m. A few rooms are rented and breakfast is served only to those people. The cocktail lounge is open from 12-2 p.m. and 5 p.m. until closing time, while golfers bar facilities may be used from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday. The club house is closed on Monday the year around.

Additions and improvements on the Club house started in the fall of 1957, at the time of its purchase by the Smith's. Since then, a new kitchen, cocktail lounge and ladies locker room were added and the former part of the building was completely redecorated.

Leo Bishop, pro and green's superintendant, came to Tecumseh in July, 1948 to begin building the 18-hole course. However, due to limitations, only 112 of the 160 acres owned are now being used. At the present time, it is an 11½-hole course, with two holes being used as alternates on the back nine and the half hole as a practice tee.

Tecumseh Country Club is a 72 (36-36) par course of 6,450 yards. It belongs to the Detroit District of the U.S. Golf Association and the Western Golf Association. Members are allowed to bring resident guests only twice in one playing season; non-resident guests can come as often as they are invited. Membership cards from other private clubs will be honored.

Green fees for guests are $2 on week-days and $3 on Saturday, Sunday and holidays. There are seven electric carts, five private and two rentals, now at the club. Caddies are also available. Golf lessons may be taken by men, women and juniors in groups of three, five, or individually.

The local high school golf team practices and plays some of its matches here during the season. Stag Day, a yearly event, finds the course set up as a sort of obstacle course, with holes and tees looking completely different from an ordinary day.

Plans for completing the other 6½ holes are already made. They will be finished as soon as the increased size and finances of the club make it possible.

Other employees of the Tecumseh Country Club include assistant green's superintendant Ricardo Moran, porter Victor Flores, three part-time bartenders, four course men and thirty caddies.

Council Presented With Petitions At Meeting Monday

At the regular City Council meeting Monday evening, a hearing on the curb and gutter assessment on West Kilbuck St., between Adrian and Democratic, was held. No objections were presented.

Bills were allowed with orders to be drawn for the same as follows: General Fund $31,003.36, Water Receiving Fund $16,004.14, Water Operation $3,546.54, Water Deposit $25.00 and Hospital Sinking Fund $21,641.75.

Bids on a new dump truck were opened and read as follows: Butler Motor Sales $4,355.52, Tecumseh Farm Equipment $4468.97 and Schneider Brothers Garage, Inc., $4475.00. The low bid, from Butler Motor Sales was accepted.

A petition was presented from residents of W. Pottawatamie St. regarding the possibility of doing something to eliminate the bad situation caused by Starlings. At the suggestion of Councilman Kelso, the Council decided to have the City Manager investigate a recording system, to eliminate the menace, now in use at Owosso and elsewhere in the state.

Louis Caterina was present to have the zoning changed on N. Union St. so that he could put a grocery store on his property. The matter was set aside to wait for a recommendation from the Plan-

Strong Reminder Of Short Visit

One Michigan family learned a valuable lesson recenty about picking up wild animals for "pets," particularly skunks.

A member of the family, which makes its home in Utica, wrote to the Conservation Department in order to obtain a permit to keep a baby skunk which was found near its dead mother on a highway.

Department officials sent conservation officer George Bruso of Mt. Clemens to investigate the application for the permit. Bruso reported to his supervisor as follows:

"The skunk took care of the situation better than I could. It 'sprayed' all over a rug at the ap-

Council Hears Complaint About Sunday Drag Races

Earl Kruger, representing River Acres Subdivision, was present it the city council meeting Monday evening to register a protest against the running of the drag races every Sunday by the Tecumseh Timing Association at Meyers Airport.

He stated that the noise starts in at 6:00 a.m. or before Sunday morning and lasts all day until 7:00 or so in the evening. It was also stated that participants, spectators and others are completely uncontrolled before, during and after these affairs and exceed the the speed limit and drive recklessly throughout the entire city. Councilman, Hal Kelso said that the theory of the drag races is to have such racing organized at a specific destination so that it won't occur elsewhere, however, they practice elsewhere what they see and do at the drag races.

It was brought out at the meeting that the drag races are no longer sponsored by the Cam Twisters, a club to foster mechanical skill and safe driving practices but are strictly a profit making venture owned by Larry Coscarelli and James Fielder. Hot rodders from Michigan, Ohio and others come here every Sunday to participate in the growing event.

Mr. Kruger said that most of the people in River Acres could tolerate the races once a month but that every Sunday created a nuisance to the residents of the area as well as possibly depreciate property values.

The Council warned the Timing Association that if the affair were not controlled and measures taken to eliminate the nuisance value to the residents of River Acres that the races would have to be stopped.

New Bridge To Be Completed In 1958

The State Highway Department announced that the new bridge to replace the old inadequate structure carrying M-52 over the Raisin River in Tecumseh, will be completed by October 31, 1958. The existing bridge will be removed and a temporary road and bridge built to carry traffic during construction. The new bridge will have four, rolled-beam spans totaling approximately 270 feet in length, with a 26-foot-wide roadway and two 4-foot-wide sidewalks.

First Annual F. K. Smith Memorial Tournament To Be Held Saturday

The first annual Frank K. Smith Memorial Tournament will be initiated Saturday with tee-off time at 8 a.m. and the unveiling of the memorial at 4:30 p.m. In the future, the Tournament will be held on July 4, which was Mr. Smith's birthday.

Sixty out-of-town guests from Monroe, Toledo and Marion, Ohio and seventy local golfers are expected to participate in the tournament. Pro Leo Bishop and his wife are donating a permanent plaque which will remain in the clubhouse and can be won only by local members. The names of the winner will be added each year.

The Toledo Public Links Association will supply a traveling trophy which can be won by anyone. The low scorer each year wlil have possession of it until the next tournament.

The winners of the plaque and the traveling trophy will be determined by the low gross score, figured without handicap. Prizes will also be given for low gross net score and for the winner of the driving, pitching and putting contests. A golf clinic will be held by the top amateur visiting golfers with low handicaps.

The International Trio will play golf in the morning and provide entertainment afterward with their unusual musical talents. An orchestra composed of all members of the local club will perform.

Rev. George Walworth will officiate at the dedication ceremonies. Master of ceremonies will be C. O. Butler, assisted by Leo Bishop who will introduce the out-of-town guests. Final arrangements are in progress with Dale Bowen as tournament chairman. A committee of local ladies, headed by Mrs. Dale Bowen, will help with the scoring.

This event should be one of the biggest turnouts in club history, according to Pro Leo Bishop.

Hearing Held Monday On Re-Zoning Property

At one of the most heated and actively participated in Tecumseh City Council meetings in history, a hearing was held Monday evening concerning the re-zoning of the property on North Evans St. on the East side of the road across from the Top Hat Grill, from Business and Professional zoning to Business A zoning. The change in zoning was requested to accommodate a new A. & P store at that location.

One of the active participants in the hearing, Mrs. George French, said that merchants should try to keep as much business down-town as posible. She said that if A & P moves to the new location, every businessman will be hurt

Jack Osburn stated that the A&P people tried in every way to expand in the down-town area but were confronted with unreasonably high property values. He said that if the merchants want to do something, they should "join hands" and buy downtown property and develop it to have available when businesses want to expand, so that they can do so without moving out of the downtown area. He said that if all of the merchants would "crisscross through town," the size of it would shock them.

Councilman Schlagel said the city has grown from 3300 to over 6000 with the addition of hardly any new businesses. He also said, what is to stop stores from moving outside the city limits if stopped from expanding within the city limits.

Councilman Brazee said that if the city refused A&P, they would have to refuse everybody and the town couldn't possibly grow—it wouldn't make sense.

W. A. Wright said that it will establish a bad principle. Anyone asking for rezoning, will have to get it. He also said that the merchants have kept up with the growth of the city and that any contrary statement is false. He said that there are things that the stores don't offer, but the town would not be able to support them.

Mayor Hanna said that business has not kept pace with the growth of the city. He said the rezoning could only be prevented if it were detrimental to the property owners in that area. It was also noted that North Evans St. has a distinct commercial complexion and that it would not be "spot zoning."

CouncilC Kelso said that there was no objection to re-zoning East and West Chicago Blvd. and he couldn't understand why such a fuss was being raised in this instance. He said that it was merely the case of a business that has been here for years wanting to expand and give adequate parking space and facilities for its customers. No objections were raised from persons living in the area of the proposed change.

The Council declared that adequate reasons were not present to prevent the rezoning. Thus, after two more readings of the ordinance, lots 99, 100, 101 and 102, on Assessor's Plat 1, will be changed to Business A zoning.

Recreation Problems Discussed Last Week

Who is going to be responsible for the future development of the recreation program in Tecumseh? That was the big question at the meeting of the Recreation Board Thursday, August 1. Representatives of the Board of Education, City Council and the Community Chest, the three organizations supporting the program, presented their views on the situation.

Chairman of the Board, Fay Whelan, reviewed the progress of the group, showing how it had developed since it began operation. Under the original plan the Recreation Board was set up on an operating basis of $6,000. The city and school were each to contribute 40% with the community chest adding 20%. The Recreation Board had the authority to operate the field.

The general consensus of opinion seemed to be that the present program was not adequate, for it now involves only eight weeks of little league baseball, two weeks of touch football and eight weeks of swimming lessons plus the open swim periods.

Recreation director Bob Breniff stated that he would like to see a program set up that would include activities for both adults and children with varied interests. Some of the proposed activities are: tennis, golf, archery, basketball lessons, story hours and handicraft.

To carry this out adequately would require 20 adult coaches, 4 women playground leaders, 6 umpires, a recreation director and a baseball commissioner, Breniff said. He also believes that we are forgetting the outlying districts that should be provided for under the program.

Superintendent of Schools James McDowell told the group that all the school district play areas are for public use. They are owned by te Board of Education who wants the areas to be used but can't afford to pay maintenance during the sumer. The Board is interested in taking care of the grounds for their own purposes during the school year but doesn't want the added responsibility of spending for community activities.

City Manager Ed Nelson suggested a budget of $5,000 each donated by the school and the city, with the Community Chest contributing whatever is possible. Thus an adequate program, using about $13,000, could be set up for 1958.

It was suggested that perhaps the solution would be to set up a holding organization that would be in charge of the fields and would do all the work involved in developing and maintaining them. Then if the school or the city wanted something special done, they would go to the Recreation Board. If the money available was not sufficient to cover the project, the group requesting it would have to supply the additional funds.

No decision on the problem was reached at this meeting.

Letters to the Editor...

2 August 1957

The Editor
The Tecumseh Herald
Tecumseh, Michigan
Dear Editor:

Let me heartily "second" the spirit of the letter to the editor from Harry Snyder appearing last week, in which he called upon Tecumseh merchants to reconsider the use of the "Christmas in July" theme. The use of Christmas music to increase the jingling of cash registers at any time of year is a thing to be questioned; but when, in a Christian community, this sacred theme is so totally misused it is a thing to be challenged! This certainly is a "Strange Noise" if ever there was one!

I shall stand ready to support any worthy means to increase the flow of business to Tecumseh, my new home, But "Christmas in July" I shall have to vigorously oppose.

Sincerely,
James D. Nixon

Bids Let Monday For Macon And Tipton Schools

The low bidders for the new elementary schools in Macon and Tipton, and the addition to the elementary school at Ridgeway, were accepted at the special School Board meeting Monday, August 5. Work is to be completed in time for the opening of the school year in September 1958.

General contractor is North Construction Company of Jackson with a combined low bid on the three schools of $409,704. Mechanical work will be done by Young & Ost for $145,735. The electrical bid was awarded to Saunders & Son Company at $38,770.

Representatives of the North Company were present at the meeting to answer questions of the Board and explain their qualifications for the job. The company does its own masonry and steel work instead of hiring sub-contractors, which cut down on the total amount of their bid.

The list of alternates was discussed but a discussion was postponed until the regular meeting on Monday, August 12 at 8 p.m. Among the alternates are blacktopping the driveway surfaces, folding stages for the multi-purpose rooms, adding plastic skylights in the interior alcoves, additional electrical fixtures and switches and omitting the oil storage tank mats.

Manager Reports Asphalt Work Is Completed

City Manager, E. J. Nelson, reported to the Council, Monday evening that Ayling Asphalt Co. has completed all of the bituminous work. He believes that the new bituminous curb and gutter on Park Street is going to be satisfactory.

Curb and gutter installation has been completed in Herrick Park. It was hoped that part of Herrick Park could be seal coated this week. The Manager said that quite a long street area is ready to seal coat, which should help the dust condition.

Repair work started last week on the Blood Road Bridge. Two concrete footings have been poured and the balance of the pier will be completed this week. It is expected that the road should be opened by the middle of the month.

The new well has proven to be a very good one. It can easily pump 750 gallons per minute.

The state inspector of the Dutch Elm Disease has been in Tecumseh and condemmed seven trees on his first trip. It is believed that several more were condemmed on his second trip, however the report is not in.

Forty-two persons have signed a petition for sewer and water in Tecumseh Acres. It is expected that the balance of the signers will be in the next few days.

Council Presented With Petitions

ning Commission. However, the opinion was expressed that it would be a case of "spot zoning" if it were changed since the area is essentially residential.

A petition for curb and gutter was presented from residents on East Brown St., between North Maumee and Inner Drive. The Council decided to defer the petition until a wider right-of-way can be secured. There is only 44 feet now.

Councilman Kelso told the other members that the Council ought to be thinking about a solution to having the city dump in its present location. A possible solution would be to install a garbage disposal system which would cost in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Several amendments to a Resolution, passed July 15, and to an application of the City Manager, July 20, requesting authority from the Municipal Finance Commission of the State of Michigan to borrow a sum sufficient to construct the new City Hall, were adopted upon request of the Commission. The Resolution was amended to requesting authority to borrow $41,200.00 instead of $40,000, with the additional $1,200.00 to be set aside to pay interest. Also that the application be changed to establish the schedules submitted as 1955, 1956 and 1957 instead of the respective designation of 1956, 1957 and 1958, due to a difference of description between the city and the Commission.

Tecumseh Band Theme Chosen

The Tecumseh Band will have the theme "Birth of the Blues," for the 1957 Band Festival.

Much has been said about the present day blues music, just what it is and how it came into being.

In the old vaudeville days a man by the name of Ben Harney claimed to have discovered "ragtime." He admitted that his "discovery" came from the Deep South. The highly religious negroes took the old gospel hymns and "ragged" them. Ragtime was accepted among the musicians of the day and many catchy tunes were written in this invigorating, so called, modern style.

About this time, we began to hear of the "Blues." This, like its relative, ragtime, also came from the Deep South, probably from the New Orleans district.

We owe a great deal to the South for its contribution to our type of national music. Ragtime, Jazz and the Blues all were a product of the happy, romantic folklore of that day.

By Leo Bishop

In spite of the hot and humid weather of the past week, golfers at Tecumseh Country Club proceeded with their matches.

MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Ned Rosacrans lost a heart breaking match to Paul Callahan, a boy twice his junior, after being 2 up at the turn, then losing on the 18th hole, one down.

Don Smith and Lorian Callahan had a nip and tuck match with fine golf played by both golfers, with Smith edging Callahan to a 3 and 2 margin.

One of the junior golfers and ex-caddy at the club John Elliott defeated Bob Hoekstra 3 and 2

MEN FIRST FLIGHT

John Damon lost 7 to 6 to the terrific golf of Max Smith Sr. who has been breaking into the 70's in the past few weeks.

Paul Clauda defeated Dale Bowen 3 and 2. Both golfers playing steady golf.

After George McCombs lost his scalp to the count of 9 and 7, he remarked that Doc Blanden was just too hot to handle. Say Doc, the handicap committee is looking for you!

MEN'S SECOND FLIGHT

Cal Roll downed Skip Milheim 2 and 1 with Roll making quite a few impossible shots. According to Milheim, he enjoyed his match.

Jack Morehouse defeated Ralph Comfort 4 and 2. Two days later was beaten by Hal (6 Wood) Kelso, 8 and 6. By the way, Kelso—does everything with that pet club of his. Hal—I now have a No. 7 Wood in the pro shop!

MEN'S THIRD FLIGHT

Tim (Tiger) Neill defeated Jack Hanna 6 and 5. Inside dope—Neill is getting private instruction from some pro in Shelbyville!

Larry Blum defeated Andy Woodward 3 and 2 and lost to Bill Koster 8 and 6 in another match.

Jim Cannon, one of our newest members, defeated Harold Easton 5 and 4.

HOLE IN ONE

Another hole-in-one was scored at Tecumseh Country Club No. 6 hole by George McCombs, Wednesday while playing with his buddie Jack Morehouse. But alas! it did not count. George's first shot was hit over the green. He then proceeded to hit a provisional ball according to the U.S.G.A. Rules of Golf. His second shot glancing off the tree next to the green went into the cup. Sorry George. No Mulligans.

STAG DAY

An estimated 102 golfers participated in our Annual Stag Day. Golf was marred by heavy thunder showers in the middle of the afternoon forcing players to discontinue play. Fourteen foursomes did finish 18 holes, 8 foursomes finished 9 holes and 3 foursomes finished only a few holes.

Rowboats were supplied in the pro shop for any golfers wishing to finish the 18 holes.

Shopping Centers Often Increase Property Values

What kind of a neighborhood does a shopping center make?

Real estate appraisers who have made a study of property values around shopping centers say a good shopping center is a good neighbor.

The values of houses around the centers have actually increased, appraiser Nelson E. Finch, of New York, told members of the Society of Residential Appraisers in New York recently.

There is a big difference in shopping centers, however. Finch was talking about well planned and well controlled centers, like Northand and others in the Detroit area.

This sort of center sets up its own control of cleanliness and business hours. These centers are closed at a reasonable hour, so lights and noise do not interfere with the neighbors' sleep. Parking lot lights are designed to eliminate glare.

Finch cited a specific example. One Long Island, houses in a particular development sold for $8,500 when new, just before the war. A huge regional shopping center has been built there and now the houses are selling for more than $23,000.

Of course, houses have increased in value because of inflation, but the appraisers believe the shopping center had much to do with the spectacular increases of these houses.

But the picture changes when the shopping center is not well planned and controlled, Finch reported. The group of stores with inadequate parking and with no control over the "housekeeping" practices become an eyesore.

A combination of low pitch roof, vertical siding and brick creates the eye-catching appeal of this home. The living-dining area and kitchen demonstrate the now popular "open-planning" trend. Included in the plan are two bedrooms and a third room which can serve as a den or bedroom, if desired.

The living area is 1,123 sq. ft. Plans are available from local lumber dealers.

Carports Can Provide Storage

Carports not only give a home more sweeping lines when the roof sections are carefully designed, but they offer a wide variety of additional storage space.

One of the cleverest ideas of the season is the use of a free standing storage cabinet in two-car carports for a divider wall.

When designed in the same wood as the rest of the carport, the carport storage sections can become an attractive addition to most homes.

They offer a multitude of storage room. The fisherman-hunter can keep his more odorous gear out of the house, yet under lock and key. The same for golfers and other sportsminded men.

To give maximum utility, most of these storage walls are designed with sliding doors, to protect cars from bumping and scratching.

Of course, the storage walls, whether along the outside wall of the carport, or used as a divider section, should be finished to match the remainder of the exterior siding of the home, whether stained, painted, oiled or left natural.

Direct Basement Entries Are More Convenient

When planning an outside entrance from your basement, you will save money and add to your convenience if you can walk up the steps to grade directly from your basement door, instead of having the stairs running along the side of the house, suggests the Better Basement Institute.

"If you can walk straight up to your yard from the basement, without making any turns, you will find it a great deal easier to carry plywood sheets, canoes, lawn furniture, etc. and other bulky items into the basement for seasonal storage," the institute says. "Generally less concrete or concrete blocks are required to build a stairway formed this way.

"In addition, standard equipment made for outside entrances is easier to install when the stairway is at right angles to the foundation wall. For example, steel hatchways made to cover the outside steps from the basement can be installed in 10 minutes on a new house when the stairs lead directly up from the basement floor."

Outdoor Wiring Works Wonders

Outdoor wiring can work wonders for your home in beauty, safety, and convenience.

Lights outside enhance interesting features around the house and yard, and conceal unattractive areas. Exterior outlets simplify dozens of jobs by letting you use the newest power tools and appliances where needed.

Outdoor lights brighten paths to encourage use after dark, and they light dark corners of your lot to discourage prowlers.

Used Home Prices Will Hold Steady A Survey Shows

Prices of modern existing houses are expected to hold their present level throughout the majority of the nation in the coming months, although the current sales volume is lower than a year ago.

This forecast and finding are based on the composite reports of real estate boards in 227 cities taking part in the 63rd semi-annual survey of the real estate market conducted by the research division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Figures are as of April.

Predictions of constant prices for existing homes built since 1940 came from 62 per cent of the communities surveyed. Rising prices were seen by 17 per cent and declining ones by 21 per cent. There was no pronounced regional variation in the outlook.

The market position of the modern existing house, described by the NAREB survey report as "strongly competitive," was attributed to the double factors of land scarcity and rising construction costs that have pushed the prices of new homes up and the tight mortgage money market which has cut the volume of new home construction.

Prospects for the continuation of the price levels on existing houses built since 1940 are strengthened by the forecast of the respondents with respect to new houses.

Assuming a continuation of current tight mortgage market conditions, 59 per cent of the communities said that they expect higher prices for new homes in the months ahead, and 53 per cent looked for a lower volume of new home construction in the future.

Sales of new homes this spring were lower in most areas for all price categories compared with a year ago, while prices were higher in nearly half of the country.

Report that sales of existing houses built since 1940 are fewer than a year ago were received from more than half of the participating boards.

"The shortage of offerings of good quality used houses is limiting what would be a strong market in many places," the summary commented.

A reduced sales volume is most frequently found with respect to homes priced at $20,000 and over. Sixty-three per cent of the country made this report, with only 9 per cent indicating that sales are up in this category.

In the $12,000-$20,000 band, sales were said to be less numerous in 52 per cent of the areas surveyed and higher in only 14 per cent. For dwellings under $12,000, the sales volume followed a pattern similar to that of the middle-priced category.

TWO NEW ITEMS

Two items that can profitably be considered together recently appeared in the news.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said: "The choice is whether the peaceful uses of atomic energy are to be developed in the framework of the competitive economic system—and thus benefit from the rapid expansion and cost-cutting incentives . . . or whether the atomic energy industry is to lapse back into the embrace of government, with all that is entailed in so doing . . . Government and industry must work hand-in-hand. . . ."

Donald S. Kennedy of the Edison Electric Institute reported that electric utilities are pursuing atomic power research and development in ever greater numbers. Eighty companies, he went on, are involved in 14 nuclear reactor projects and one thermonuclear research project. Together, it is expected that the projects will have an electric generating capacity of 1.5 million kilowatts and will cost more than $400 million.

Government monopoly or near-monopoly of atomic development for peacetime purposes could be justified only under one condition—that private enterprise is either unable or unwilling to participate on the necessary scale. But now private enterprise is demonstrating, through concrete action, that it is both willing and able and that it is determined to give this country the maximum benefits at the minimum cost. It is thus living up fully to the confidence in it that has been expressed by Admiral Strauss and many other authorities.

MOVIE REVIEW
BY WALT NICHOLS

This Friday and Saturday we really have a treat in store for you! He's everybody's favorite and everybody likes him in his first Big Starring role. That's Pat Boone I'm talking about and for a supporting cast the picture also stars Janet Gaynor, Dean Jaggers, Terry Moore. Bernardine will be shown twice each evening at 7:20 and 10:15. The production is in CinemaScope and Color. The Strand is always Air Conditioned for your comfort.

Following this engagement, starting Sunday the Strand will be showing Ava Gardner and Stewart Granger in color and Wide Screen "The Little Hut" and as a co-feature on the double bill we have in cinemascope your TV Star Rex Reason in "Badlands of Montana."

Starting August 13, The Strand will present Tony Curtis and Burt Lancaster in a drama that is bound to raise Tony Curtis to new heights in "Sweet Smell of Success'.'

Also during our anniversary month of August we have for the whole family to enjoy, Walt Disney's "Johnnny Tremain" and on the same bill "Let's Be Happy" starring Tony Martin and Vera Ellen.

Other movies to come along during the next few weeks are Jayne Mansfield in "The Burglar," Jean Simmons, Paul Douglas in "This Could Be The Night," "Calypso Heat Wave" and Tyrone Power in "Abandon Ship.' '

If you are looking for an evening out for good relaxing entertainment in Air Conditioned Comfort, then come down and spend it with us during August, our anniversary month and eighteen Happy Years in Tecumseh.

When Did Science Begin?

Science began the day man first asked "why?" This search for facts sprang from the dark days of magic, superstition, and demonology. The laws of nature were known. It was the task of science to understand them. In the Middle Ages the average life span was twenty-five years. Today you have a life expectancy of sixty-five years. This is a direct result of medical progress.

As pharmacists, we are proud of our function in the distribution of lifesaving medical supplies.

Realty Views

Sarah and Sam Condon, a newly-married young couple, decided to investigate "buying a home." Naturally they came into our office.

"I wouldn't mind buying a home," Sam said, "but I've known two or three friends who were turned down for home loans. They make just as much money as I do so I wonder if we can buy."

A quick interview disclosed that Sam owned a 1952 car, and as yet hadn't bought much furniture. They were renting a furnished apartment.

"I think you will qaulify for a loan in good shape," I replied. "Your friends probably made a rather common mistake — they didn't put first things FIRST. Some people who apply for home loans are turned down because of heavy monthly payments they're making on other things—such as cars, appliances, and furniture.

I continued, "A young couple is well advised to first find a home they want and get a loan. Then, if they need to, go ahead and obligate themselves for other items."

Come in and talk things over. Naturally no two cases are alike. Even if you are making other payments, your income may be large enough to justify a home loan. We can HELP YOU BUY a home too!

Nature protects our body by enclosing most of it in our skin. As long as the skin is unbroken, infectious germs are kept out.

Therefore, it is not wise to neglect any scratch, cuts, or skin abrasions which open the door to great mischief. Apply first aid as soon as possible.

Right now is a good time to check your supply of first aid needs and to get one of the new powerful antiseptics that are so safe and dependable. Of course, unless your accident is a trivial one, you will immediately check with your physician.

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

MULCHES IMPROVE GROWTH

Mulches can improve growth and yields in peaches and cherries as well as apples and pears, reports Lenawee county agricultural agent Louis G. Hall.

Mulches of straw or alfalfa tripled the yields of Montmorency cherries when no other fertilizer is applied. The mulches result in increased nitrogen and potassium in the leaves as well as increased available phosphorus, potassium and magnesium in the soil.

At present, grass or legume sods are used in over 75 per cent of the state's apples orchards and in about 35 per cent of the cherry and peach orchards. Unless properly handeld the legume or grass sods may reduce tree growth and production because the sod uses a portion of the available soil moisture. On the other hand, mulches appear to eliminate the competition between the trees and sod for this badly needed soil moisture.

The mulch tests show that certain deficiencies may be corrected with a mulch as readily as with an application of fertilizer. Mulching with such materials as straw or alfalfa nearly always results in an improvement in the absorption of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and other nutrients. The mulch also improves the movement of potassium fertilizers into the soil.

Mulch materials should be obtained from well-fertilized fields rather than from neglected grain and hay fields so that nutrients will be released to the soil as the mulch decomposes. The application of good mulch materials will often suppy all the nutrients a tree needs, thus completely eliminating the need for additional fertilizer.

Mulch materials containing large amounts of nitrogen, such as freshly cut legumes, should not be placed about trees in mid-summer. The use of such materials may result in the release of too much nitrogen late in the season, resulting in late tree growth which may be more subject to winter injury.

Other mateirals such as straw or grass hay may be applied any time during the year. Most growers place their mulch under the trees during early or mid-summer.

A good mulch will often attract mice. Extra care should be taken to keep mice from damaging mulched trees. The mulch should not be placed closer than one foot from the tree. A mound of gravel and a hardware-cloth barrier will also help keep the mice in check.

Mystery Farm Owned By Herbert Smith

The Herbert Smith farm, Britton, was identified as last week's Mystery Farm. Mrs. Audrey Glancy of 131 W. Chicago Blvd., Tecumseh, has been given a two year subscription to the Herald for identification.

Mr. Smith has owned the farm for 45 years. Previous owner was Bert Pocklington, of Adrian. The Smith's have built the house and all buildings, except one barn, since they purchased the farm. The front of one of the barns was re-sided a year ago.

Herbert Smith and his wife Grace were married in 1905. They have a daughter and a son: Mrs. Esther Baker, Adrian and Ford Smith, of Grass Lake. They belong to the Ridgeway Nazarene Church.

They specialize in DeKalb 4-10 corn on the 80 acre farm as well as raise wheat and oats. Mr. Smith said "farming is the greatest occupation in the world."

Single Operation Cleans Sanitizes Preserves Eggs

Farmers may soon be able to preserve eggs by applying oil while they are washing and sanitizing them. This research development was announced by T. Y. Sabet, microbiologist at Michigan State University, at the Poultry Science Association meeting in Columbia, Missouri.

Eggs are usually washed in a sanitizing solution to remove dirt. Sometimes oil is applied to preserve them for a longer period of time. The oil keeps the surface of the eggs dry and protects them from penetration by bacteria.

With the method developed by Sabet, the oil can be applied at the same time the eggs are washed. In his experiment, Sabet used a 10 per cent solution of oil mixed with the washing solution. The eggs were washed for three minutes in an egg washig machine and dried by a fan.

300 Attended 38th Conference

Paul F. Burns, teacher of Vocational Agriculture, Tecumseh, considered the need for program planning in agricultural education at the 38th annual Conference for Teachers of Vocational Agriculture at Michigan State University University July 29-Aug. 2.

More than 300 Michigan high school teachers of vocational agriculture, superintendents, principals, directors of vocational education and teachers of institutional on-farm training attended the event at Kellogg Center.

Other topics at the five-day session included Michigan F.F.A. activities, equipping and organizing the farm mechanics shop and new developments in agricultural research.

A conference highlight was the presentation of "keys" to teachers with 5, 10, 20 and 30 years of continuous service to vocational agriculture.

Flakes Are New Market For Mich. Grown Potatoes

A new market may be developing for Michigan potato growers. Through a process recently developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Michigan potatoes can now be made into high-quality, dehydrated mashed potatoes called "potato flakes."

Before this process was developed only western grown potatoes with very high dry-matter content would yield an acceptable dehydrated product. Consequently the potato dehydrating industry is now centered in Idaho.

But this new process could easily cause a shift in producing areas and give Michigan growers a wider market. Michigan potatoes, made into flakes, can probably compete on an equal price basis with dehydrated potatoes from Idaho.

The result of potato dehydrating in Michigan would not likely give any higher price to growers, but it would allow them to produce and sell more without a cut in price.

Market tests have already shown a promising potential for this product. Michigan State University is now conducting additional market studies on potato flakes.

TALK ABOUT ECONOMY...
FORD$ CO$T LE$$ PER MILE!

Fords cost less to buy!

No doubt about it! Model for model, Ford cars are the lowest priced* of the low-price three. And don't be fooled by those "low prices" now being quoted for some "stripped down" models in the medium-price field. Remember, a '57 Ford equipped the way most people want a car today—with automatic transmission, heater and radio—costs hundreds of dollars less than these medium-priced cars, *similarly equipped.

Fords cost less to run!

In the only nationally recognized test of gasoline economy, the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run, a Ford Six delivered more miles per gallon than any other car entered! This, remember, was no "private test" conducted for the benefit of a single manufacturer. This was grueling competition between 12 different makes of cars . . . supervised by the United States Auto Club. And when the test was over, Ford led all other cars in the thing you want most—actual miles per gallon!

Fords cost less to trade!

Latest official auction sale figures on used cars show clearly that the new kind of Ford commands a higher price than either of its two low-priced competitors. The men who bid at these auctions are professional buyers—men whose very livelihood depends upon their expert knowledge of cars. They pay more for used Fords because they know that Fords hold up in value. Like thousands of Ford owners from coast to coast, they have discovered that Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it, too!

Apple Tree Blossomed Twice

Mr. C. F. Sage of Park Street brought a beautiful sprig of apple blossoms to the Herald office Monday morning and told us that the tree in his back yard was loaded with blosoms for the second time this season. The tree didn't set any fruit after it blossomed in the spring but set about raising another crop of blossoms.

Mr. Sage said that this was the first time he had ever had an apple tree blossom twice in a season.

CLOSING REMARKS

Since this is probably one of my last editorials for the Tecumseh Herald, I suppose a few closing comments are in order (see story page 1). There will be no rose-buds and soft music, since I feel that there is no merit or justification for it.

I have met many nice people here who I hope never to forget. I have also met a few people here that I hope soon to forget. That is just human nature, I assume.

You have a city with many possibilities and a bright future if progressive and dynamic policies are allowed to predominate and opportunities seized when they present themselves and made when they don't. I am sure my dad, F. C. Belleville, will continue to improve the Herald and see that it does more than its part to see your dreams and his realized.

ON STORY TELLERS

Lying, telling stories, exaggeration or whatever you care to call it, is one of the most disgusting habits men fall into. The worst thing about this practice is its mushrooming effect. One exaggeration leads to another until an entire web of falsehood is built up that the teller often begins to believe himself, after a period of time. Even though story tellers soon gain a reputation for same, they still can do a great deal of harm.

Truth is right but is definitely at the disadvantage sometimes in the short run when matched with the flexibility and adaptability of a lie. However, in the long run, it always wins out. Never assume that it won't!

AN OPINION

It makes very little difference to me if a man is a Democrat or Republican, Catholic, Protestant or Jew. The main thing is that he be a good "what ever he is." An open mind can be a definite virtue, but too often it is associated with weakness of conviction and a do nothing "middle of the roadittus." Men with strong convictions are the "doers." Middle of the roaders are "thinkers."

COMMITTEE MAYBE

It is my understanding that a committee representing all of the local service clubs may be formed. This group will help coordinate the activities of the various clubs so that conflicts in dates etc. will not occur in the future. It will

Total Cost Of School Projects Is $2,046,322

Future plans, projects and problems of the Tecumseh school system were the main topic of discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education Monday, August 12.

The Board voted to blacktop the driveways of the new elementary schools at Macon and Tipton, alternate G-1 on the general construction contracts, at a total cost of $2,350. Skylights will be put into the interior alcoves of the Tipton and Macon schools and the addition to the elementary school at Ridgeway but extra lights and switches in the three buildings were eliminated. The folding stages for the multi-purpose rooms were also excluded for the present time.

Mr. Vogan, representing Schemenauer Manufacturing Company, described in detail the unit ventilator which was listed as an alternate with the Young & Ost mechanical bid on the schools. The Board was in agreement that the alternate should be installed, pending its acceptance by the architects.

The revised estimates on the complete program for the expansion of Tecumseh school facilities were presented by Warren Holmes Company, architects.

The total amount on the school projects comes to $2,046,322, which includes planning fees, legal and bonding, preliminary survey, total land, total site work, total equipment, contingencies, prepaid (capitalized) interest and the Tipton well.

As of August 7, the estimates on the various schools are as follows: addition to Patterson, $147,872; Herrick Park, $362,304; Macon, $151,989; Ridgeway, $252,603; Tipton, $218,244; Tecumseh Acres Elementary, $546,000 and high school addition (cafeteria, shop, homemaking), $200,000. These figures include construction (contracts), site work estimates and equipment estimates. They are subject to future change.

The Superintendent reported that the Patterson School addition will not be completed in time for the opening of the 1957-58 school year in September.

Temporary arrangements have been made as follows: two grades in the Baptist Church basement, one in the old library room of Central School and one in the Patterson gym, hall, and lobby. The maximum completion date was

P. F. Belleville To Leave Herald For Graduate Work

Co-publisher and Editor of the Tecumseh Herald, Philip F. Belleville, will leave the position as Editor to do graduate work in Law at the University of Michigan, starting with the fall term.

Since his graduation from the U. of M. in 1956 with "high distinction," Honors in Economics, James B. Angell Scholar, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi, Belleville has had an interesting and varied career. While serving as Editor of the Yale Expositor, Yale, Michigan, he promoted and started the Lake Huron Resorter, a summer newspaper circulated from Port Huron to Lexington along Lake Huron. He was elected County Republican Delegate from St. Clair Co. and is one of the founders of the Yale Young Republicans Club.

He assumed the duties of Editor of the Tecumseh Herald the latter part of August, 1956. Since that time he has remodeled the typeography of the Tecumseh Herald and set new standards of news and pictorial coverage. He is a member of the Board of the Tecumseh Exchange Club, Secretary of the Tecumseh Jaycees and Secretary of the Tecumseh Flying Club.

Mr. Belleville, his wife Geraldean and daughter have purchased a house in Ann Arbor, where they will reside.

Assuming the Editor's duties of the Tecumseh Herald, starting Monday, will be Ralph Bidwell from Plymouth, Michigan. Mr. Bidwell is a graduate of Ohio University, 38 years old and has a wife and 2 children. He is a former employee of the Sturgis Daily Journal and later the Detroit News for 10 years.

The Managing Editor of the Detroit News recommended Mr. Bidwell as one of their most loyal and able staff members.

The Publishers of the Herald have every reason to believe that he will help maintain the high standards set by the Herald in the past year and aid it in its ever ending search for improvement and a better Tecumseh.

Morning Shift Sent Home After Lightening Struck

Lightning hit the power line going into the Tecumseh Products plant at about 10 a.m. Wednesday morning putting the lights and equipment out of commission for an hour and a half.

One of the wires was cut completely in two. This wire wrapped itself around several others and the resulting short blew all the fuses.

The morning shift was sent home while repairs were being made by the Adrian Consumers Power Company. The plant was ready to operate again by 11:30 a.m., according to the line superintendent.

Minister Here Since 1918

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD ESCOLME

August 31, 1957 will mark the conclusion for Edward Escolme of a ministry in Tecumseh which began on October 5, 1918. This probably constitutes a record for any minister in the history of Tecumseh.

During these nearly 39 years, Mr. Escolme has served in several different areas of life in the community. Since 1943, when the Tecumseh Community Fund was established, he has served continuously as its secretary-treasurer. He served as a member on the Tecumseh City Charter Commission. Mr. Escolme has been the chairman of the Herrick Scholarship Committee since it was formed about eight years ago.

In the weeks that the Brewer Foundry and Machine Shop building was being prepared for the coming of the Tecumseh Products Company to Tecumseh, Mr. Escolme was active in the promotion of the serving of free lunches by the Tecumseh churches to the men engaged in that project.

In religious circles, he has been the president of the Lenawee County Ministerial Association and also the Tecumseh Ministerial Association. For several years he served as one of the Protestant ministers at the Girls' Training School in Adrian.

For 21 years he served as recording clerk of the Ohio Yearly Meeting of the Friends Church. Annual sessions are held in August in Damascus, Ohio. At the present time, he is the president of the Foreign Missionary Board of the Ohio Yearly Meeting. For many years, he has been a trustee of Cleveland Bible College, now Malone College. The college is moving from Cleveland to Canton, Ohio, and new buildings are now in the process of construction.

At the Ohio Yearly Meeting, which convenes next week in Damascus, Ohio, his name is being presented for the office of Superintendent of Evangelistic Pastoral and Extension Work. It is expected that Mr. Escolme will reside in Damascus.

For 8½ years covering a period from November 1947 to June 1956, he was a director of the Quaker Gospel Hour, a Sunday morning broadcast on WABJ, Adrian.

Various building projects at the Tecumseh Friends Church have been carried through to completion during his term of service. They include the building of a parsonage, class rooms, study, choir loft and basement at the east end of the church. More recently, a new entrance in the form of a tower was added to the church and a two car garage was built for the parsonage.

Mr. Escolme was united in marriage to Miss Ella Jackson of Carnforth, Lancashire, England, on September 16, 1926. They have one daughter, Mrs. Donald F. Johnson and a granddaughter, Susan, of Berea, Ohio.

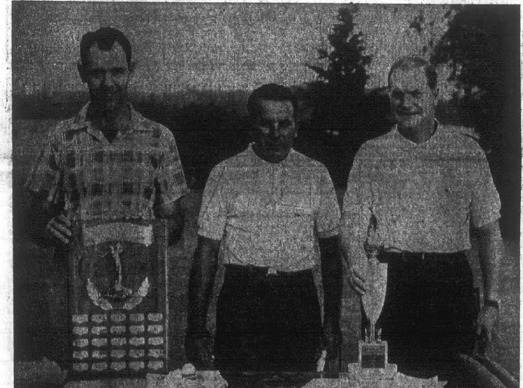
During his ministry he has officiated at numerous weddings and has conducted many funerals. Through the years he has promoted various outdoor religious services, including Sunday evening meetings at Elliott Park and on the lawn of the Tecumseh Friends Church and Saturday night street meetings on the main four corners of Tecumseh.

Mrs. Escolme has served for many years on the investigating committee of the Tecumseh Service Club, which is one of the participating agencies of the Tecumseh Community Fund. She has been the teacher of the Crusaders Class of the Friends Sunday School for many years and this year 8 members of the group graduated from High School. She was also leader of the Happy Band, a group of youngsters which met Wednesday evenings. Also included in her schedule was active participation in the work of the Missionary Society of the church and the Tuesday morning women's prayer meetings.

For 21 years, Tecumseh Friends have observed Harvest Home Day on the second Sunday in October, when canned goods and garden produce have been brought to the church to be given to Cleveland Bible College, now Malone College. The church has always been beautifully decorated in keeping with the Harvest season. Mrs. Escolme brought this custom from her native home in England and was the originator of the idea locally. The practice spread in Ohio Yearly Meeting and the day is now annually observed in numerous Friends churches in Michigan and Ohio.

Mr. Escolme has known six generations of two different families. From a town with two railroad depots and no filling stations, he has seen Tecumseh become a town with no railroad depots and many filling stations. He has witnessed many drastic changes in the life and size of Tecumseh during his term of office.

The Escolmes will be missed in this area for they have been real servants of Christ and the church. The prayers and best wishes of their many friends go with them as they leave Tecumseh to enter into this new avenue of service.



Pro Leo Bishop stands between the two winners at the first annual Frank K. Smith Memorial Tournament Saturday. Localite Bill Macbeth (left), with a low net score of 65, will be the first to have his name inscribed on the permanent plaque which will remain in the clubhouse. The traveling trophy, donated by the Toledo Public Links Association, was awarded to Jake Fassoke of Adrian with a low gross of 35-34—69.

Mull Associates To Open Office In Tecumseh

Ralph V. Mull & Associates will open an accounting office on the second floor of the Masonic Building on August 26. The business will include tax service, accounting and bookkeeping systems, and auditing accounts.

Mr. Mull has over 20 years accounting experience, during which time he has owned offices in Toledo and Sylvania, Ohio. He is past president of the Public Accountants Society of Ohio and is presently serving as secretary-treasurer. He is also a member of the National Society of Public Accountants and the Industrial Accountants Society of Michigan.

Mr. Mull feels there is a need for such business services here. The office will also be centrally located for the company's other Michigan acounts. He will retain an Ohio office. His wife, D. L. Mull, is also a senior accountant.

Curtis Appointed

Almond Curtis has accepted a two year appointment made by the State Commander of the American Legion, Gilles A. Reeve, to the Contest Supervisory Committee of the Department. Mr. Curtis is the 1st Vice Commander of the local post, Underwood-Orr No. 34.

Annual Roast Beef Dinner Planned

Mr. Zell McCarthy, chairman of the St. Elizabeth's annual roast beef dinner reports fine cooperation in planning this year's event. All indications at the present time lead him to believe that the dinner will be well attended this year as it has been in the past years.

Last year the parishioners fed about 1000 people from all parts of South Eastern Michigan. The

Police Report Eight Violations

The Tecumseh Police Department reported eight violations during the past week. On August 13, cars driven by Edwin Albert Marine, Britton and Victor Lawson, Petersburg, collided on N. Evans Street. No injuries were reported.

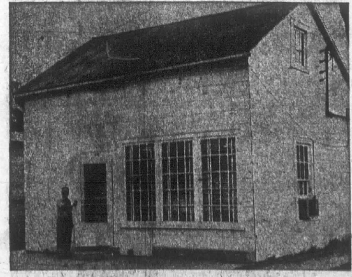
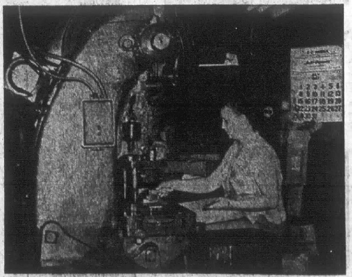
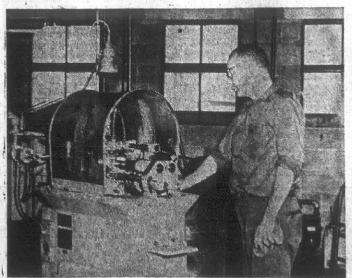
R & S Manufacturing Company Opened In 1946



Charles F. Stevenson, co-owner of the R & S Manufacturing Company, located at 110 E. Logan Street, stands in front of the building where he and Frank M. Rice went into business 11 years ago.



Verona Kelly of Tecumseh operates the 56-ton punch press. This machine puts the double flare or upset head on pieces of Bundy tubing which will later be used in Chevrolet products.



Freeman Slater of Onsted examines the Traub automatic feed and lathe which cuts tubing into 4½-inch lengths. The machine operates at a rate of 1,000 pieces per hour.

Tecumseh Herald Photos

Carrie Warner of Springvilie (left) and Frances Curtis of Tipton form the tubes for Chevrolet carburetors, while Quincy Holland of Tecumseh makes tubes found in Clinton Machine Company's small engines.

In 1946, a small business specializing in tubular parts opened in Tecumseh with only two machines in operation. Since that time, the R & S Manufacturing Company has grown to include thirty machines equipped to fabricate tubes used in aircraft, tanks, automobiles and refrigeration units.

The plant, owned and operated by Frank M. Rice and Charles F. Stevenson, today employs ten workers, eight of them women. They work a five-day week, eight hours per day, from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with two 15-minute breaks.

The R & S Manufacturing Company makes tubes from .086 to 5-8 of an inch in diameter. Tubing is purchased in boxes of 10,000 to 25,000 foot lengths and is then cut and shaped to specifications.

All of the dies used are engineered, developed and built by the company. At the present time, they have over 50 different types of dies. They are equipped to fabricate tubes in steel, copper, brass and aluminum with their modern tube cut-off machinery.

Some of the well-known businesses for which parts are supplied are Kirsch Company and Kelvinator, both refrigeration parts, Ford Motors, Chevrolet, Holley Carburetor, Clinton Machine Company, Mall Tool and Dexter Automatic. They also have other specialized accounts. All of their products are used in out-of-town firms.

In recent years, the company built a 1-10 scale model bus body which was used in sales work all over the country by the Superior Coach Company of Lima, Ohio. Another interesting object made is a small spacer for Ford Motor Company which helps fasten the fender to the body of the car. Sixty to sixty-five thousand of these fasteners are made each month. They are also used in hard-top convertibles and will be put into Lincoln and Mercury bodies.

Among the machines used in the factory is a Traub automatic feed and lathe. Tubing for this machine comes in 12-foot lengths and is cut into approximately 4½-inch tubes which are used in Chevrolet products. The machine makes 1,000 pieces per hour. It will hold all lengths to within 1/2,000 of an inch variation. A water soluble coolant, made of a mixture of oil and water, is used to cool and lubricate the tubes.

A 56-ton double flare punch press produces 800 to 1,000 small pieces of tubing per hour. Other specialized equipment includes a 28-ton punch press, loading lathe with a Dunamatic attachment, a Roush Mill for cutting tubes and several smaller punch presses. An automatic bending machine which uses air pressure to shape the tubes was engineered and developed here.

There is storage space available for company use at the back of the building.

Fielder-Whiting Vows

MRS. JAMES B. FIELDER

The St. Elizabeth Catholic Church was the scene of a lovely wedding Saturday, August 10, at 10:00 a.m. when Miss Judith Lea Whiting and James Barry Fielder were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. Thomas Collins. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Whiting of 106 W. Pottawatamie St. and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fielder of 217 N. Pearl St., Tecumseh.

The altar vases were filled with white gladioluses, white delphinium and mums for the occasion and 2 large hampers of the same blossoms further enhanced the altar. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mr. Leslie Bennett sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" accompanied by the St. Elizabeth choir and Mrs. Ben Hammack at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white embroidered organdy fashioned with a fitted bodice with scalloped embroidered square neckline and short sleeves and a full floor length skirt over white taffeta. Her elbow length veil of illusion was trimmed with organdy petals with pearl insets and held in place by a tiny organdy cap. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried a crescent arangement of white butterfly roses, white orchids and Frenched chrysanthemums with tufts of nylon tulle and narrow satin streamers tied with lovers knots.

Mrs. Larry Coscarelli served as matron of honor. Miss Lynne VanWinkle was the bridesmaid. The flower girl was Linda Alber of Ann Arbor, a cousin of the bride.

Mr. Fielder was attended by Joseph Bustamante of Garden City as best man and Tom Will of Ann Arbor. The ushers were William Beardsley and Dale Campbell of Tecumseh and the ring bearer was William Whiting, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Whiting wore a blue silk coat dress for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Fielder wore navy blue with dusky rose accessories. Both wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

A reception for the 250 guests was held immediately following the ceremony in the St. Elizabeth auditorium with Flora Nixon in charge of the guest book. Anne Rebottaro and Cathlyn Cornell cut and served the cake while Ann Marie Finch of Adrian and Jolair Knudson served coffee. Rita Kay Crosby served ice cream, Mrs. Wayne Alber of Ann Arbor served punch and Carole Finnegan and Susanne Hite were in charge of the gift table assisted by Linda Heath of Evanston, Illinois. Mrs. Carl Gruber was assisted by Mrs. Ben Hammack, Mrs. James Gruber and Mrs. Joseph Dziachan in supervising the serving of the refreshments for the reception.

The newly married couple will spend one week at Niagara Falls and New York City before making their home in the Munger apartments on W. Logan St. Mrs. Fielder wore a gray jacket sheath with red and white accessories with a white orchid corsage for traveling. She is a graduate of Tecumseh High School in 1957 and is employed at Rushia's Apparel Shop. The groom is a graduate of the same school in 1953 and is employed at Tecumseh Materials and is co-owner of the Tecumseh Timing Association.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at the Minway Cafe in Clinton Friday evening for 16 guests.

The bride was honored at a prenuptial shower given by her cousin, Mrs. Wayne Alber of Ann Arbor, at the Whiting cottage at Wamplers Lake, Thursday, Aug. 8. This was a kitchen shower attended by 24 relatives and friends of the bride. The evening was spent in making dish towels, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. T. Rentschler Graduated From C. L. S. C. Course

Mrs. Truman Rentschler has returned from Chautauqua, New York, where she was a member of the graduating class in a course of directed reading by the oldest book club in America with international membership, The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle. The reading included the divisions of knowledge in art, history, literature, music, philosophy, religion, science, and sociology. The C.L.S.C. chooses the books for their educational value and is not interested in "best sellers."

After passing through the Golden Gate in a ceremony surrounded by traditional pageantry, the graduates became members of the Society of the Hall in the Grove. Dr. David Wesley Soper, director of the Department of Religion at Beloit College in Beloit, Wisconson, was the speaker at the Baccalaureate Service and Edward Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly since 1937, delivered the Recognition Day address.

The Vigil was prepared by a member of the class, Mrs. Faye Mitchell, who has written several books, some of which have been translated into German and the banner was designed by another member of the class who is an artist. Receptions were provided by the C.L.S.C. Alumni and the Guild of the Seven Seals.

The luncheon honoring the sixty-one graduated from all over the nation and the two hundred alumni present was held in the Athenaeum Hotel where Dr. Carl Winter, a former pastor of the Baptist Chuch in Jackson, Michigan, was the master of ceremonies. Dr. Rentschler and Sally were present for the impressive ceremonies.

Married Saturday

MRS. R. E. HOISINGTON

The Chancel of the First Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh was banked with palms and wedding hampers filled with white gladioluses and pale pink carnations for the marriage of Miss Joan A. Pfaus, daughter of Mrs. Charles Sager and Walter C. Pfaus, formerly of Tecumseh and Robert E. Hoisington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hoisington of Adrian.

The gold altar vases were filled with white flowers at 4:30 p.m. Saturday when the Rev. George E. Walworth performed the ceremony before sixty members of the immediate families. Mrs. Fred C. Dickinson provided organ music for the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and was beautiful in her ballerina length wedding gown of pure silk organza over tulle and taffeta. Chantilly lace appliqued to the bodice formed a sabrina neckline for the princess styled dress with short sleeves. Miss Pfaus wore short white gloves and her shoulder length veil was attached to a Juliet cap of lace. Mrs. John Brown of Detroit, a high school and college friend of the bride, was matron of honor.

Mr. Hoisington was attended by his cousin, Stanley Marvin of Toledo, Ohio as best man and a fraternity brother, James Bohna of Detroit seated the guests.

A buffet supper was served at the home of the bride following the ceremony. The table was centered with a large crystal compote filled with white pompoms, pink asters and carnations. A colonial arrangement of Sweetheart roses and white pompoms topped the wedding cake and the base of it was surrounded by Bridal Wreath, pink carnations and white pompoms.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Haynes of Detroit greeted the guests at the reception and Judy Haynes, cousin of the bride, had charge of the guest book. The wedding cake was served by four college friends of the bride, Barbara Welch, Margaret Hawley, Mary Vernier and Mary Jo Allen. All assistants wore white gardenias.

For their wedding trip into Canada, the bride wore a beige silk shantung suit with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and gold mums. Upon their return, they will make their home at 18711 Schoolcraft, in Detroit.

The bride graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1953 and from M. S. U. in June of 1957. She will teach business education at the Lee Thurston High School in Detroit this fall and the groom, who graduated from Adrian High School in 1953 and from M. S. U. in March of this year, is employed in the Sales Dept. of Reynolds Metals Co. in Detroit.

Annual Picnic

The Tecumseh Lodge No. 190 Knights of Pythias will take part in the annual Area Picnic at the Memorial Park at Milan, Michigan on Sunday, August 25. The Pythian Sisters, Dokies and Nomads will also enjoy the basket dinner at 1:00 p.m. and games for both young and old will follow. Each member is to invite a friend that has dropped out of the order as their guest for the day. For further information, call Clayton Greenwald. Mr. Albert Augustus is the area chairman for the event.

County Sheriff Spoke To Rotary

Lenawee County Sheriff, Robert Stites, was guest speaker at Tuesday night's Rotary meeting. He was introduced by program chairman, Fred Belleville. He told of his work in the Sheriff's Department. Highlights of his talk included the fact that a majority of the cases they have are drunk and disorderly or drunk driving. However, there are an increasing number of arrests now for carrying concealed weapons.

Sheriff Stites stated that fatalities from accidents are lower so far this year than last in the county. He said the department's duties were increasing with the patroling of the lake areas. He believes that the new law that will become effective in March, making it necessary for boats to have licenses, the same as automobiles, will help curb accidents. In telling about tests for drivers licenses, he stated that driver training is a great help and that when these students appear for licenses they are usually good drivers.

In closing Sheriff Stites said the majority of child delinquency starts in the home when parents don't do the job they should in raising them.

President Virgil Tucker presided at the meeting.

Credit Union Picnic

The Huron Valley Credit Unions will hold a picnic at Big Silver Lake (Pinckney Area Recreation) on Monday, August 19, at 6:30 p.m. Families are to bring their own food and pop and ice cream will be furnished.

The Tecumseh Exchange Club will have a steak roast with their wives Wednesday, August 21, at Beach's cottage on Sand Lake.

The Club is looking for an organiaztion willing to cook their meals and provide a place for their weekly meetings.

Annual TOPS Workshop Held

The annual workshop of the Michigan TOPS Club was held August 6 at Wamplers Lake. Forty-three clubs were represented by 179 ladies who confessed to a total loss of 4418 lbs.

Virginia Wahr of the "Brooklyn Girdle Poppers" was general chairman of the event, ably assisted by Dorothy Rinehart of the "Up and At 'Em" club. Members of the Vandercook Lake, Jackson and Riga Clubs contributed their aid to the event. Phyllis Swihart was the charming mistress of ceremonies.

Group sessions for the different offices were held and problems disussed, also information about the coming National Convention in El Paso, Texas was given out.

Mrs. Ernest Lueder, the 1956 Michigan State queen attended and reported that she is still losing. Weight losses of 50 to 75 lbs. were not uncommon in this group of overweight gals.

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Editor:

You have now received a letter opposed to California Christmas and it has been heartily "seconded." I think that is fine because both of the letters referred to the commercialization at Christmas, December 25th. That is exactly what both myself and the Merchants are opposed to. Both the letters from "Rev. James D. Nixon" and Mr. Harry Snyder should be my best supporters.

The California Christmas idea was my own. The entire expense and loss for advertising was mine. The Merchants were not responsible for any so called jingling in the cash registers.

The original idea was to stop the commercialization at Christmas by having two weeks of store hours 9 to 9 with Christmas sales and lay aways planned in the summer instead of business at Christmas. Therefore, there will be time for more church and family life as it should be.

Thank you for your kind support.

Charles A. Huber

Editors Note:

The last sentence of this letter is not understandable since the Tecumseh Herald did not support in any way the so-called "California Christmas" nor will it support such schemes, regardless of how they may be rationalized, (as above) when they stand not for the promotion of Tecumseh and Tecumseh business but the commercialism of a holy holiday and misleading of local customers and merchants in a scheme, in our opinion, actually devised to promote a dance hall.

I am enclosing a prayer for today for next week for your paper: Almighty God, who called St. Paul to the gentiles, we beseach thee to guide the world with thy glory to all nations to come and worship thee in the name of our Father.

Mr. Guy Grieves,
312 E. Chicago Blvd.

Rev. Robert Bergman, of the United Lutheran Church, discussed with the Board the possible purchase of the Brownville School property and building. He was instructed to present an offer at the next regular meeting Monday, September 9, on the four lots concerned, with a clause guaranteeing provision for 35 pupils in the school building if it is necessary for future use.

The Superintendent reported that the condition of the old bond issue is proceeding favorably. The interest from this will go into the general fund. The Board reviewed the Audit Report on the schools and authorized payment of bills for the month totaling $17,586.50.

The recreation program was discussed briefly and bills owed to the city for improvements and upkeep on the athletic fields were authorized to be paid.

FCDA Urges 7-Day Emergency Food Supply for All Families

If the United States ever suffers thermonuclear attack, one of the basic problems for America's millions would be food, and how to get enough of it.

In the so-called good old days the family pantry generally was loaded with food—ready for any emergency.

• • •

TODAY, THE FEDERAL Civil Defense Administration recommends that every family keep a minimum of a seven-day supply of food in the home for instant use in an emergency. This has become known as Grandma's Pantry.

To estimate how much food is needed for seven days, multiply the number of persons in the family by the amounts shown in the adjoining list for one person. A two or three weeks supply would be more desirable. Foods listed are merely types recommended, not necessarily those which must be stocked.

The items kept on hand should be those staple groceries that are used in your normal pattern of daily serving. By following this plan rotation is no problem, as you replace the items used by shopping frequently enough not to deplete your supply to an appreciable extent.

• • •

IF YOUR CHILDREN are young, decrease the amounts by one-fourth. If the children are infants, canned baby foods should be substituted for some of the other canned foods. And don't forget—be sure to plan for old people or invalids.

Another word of caution: check your "pantry" at least monthly, and rotate items regularly. Bottled water, for instance, should be changed every six weeks.

Essential items for your stockroom should include two gallons of water in jugs or bottles for each person, and three gallons for each child under three years old. You should also maintain a supply of salt and sugar, matches, fuel, cooking utensils, a can opener, and tableware.

You would also do well to have in your storage room a portable radio, flashlight, candles and holders, first-aid kit, blankets, pail and garbage container.

Suggested Pantry

MILK: One package of powdered, non-fat dry milk, and two 14½ oz cans of evaporated milk.

FRUITS: One 1 lb. 14 oz. can each of two varieties of canned fruits, and 1 l[illegible] dried fruits

JUICES: Three cans of approximately 1 qt. 14 oz. each of fruit or vegetable juice.

SOUPS: Four 10½ oz. cans.

MEATS AND MEAT SUBSTITUTES: Four cans, (approximately 1 [illegible] each) of your favorite items. Include cheese or peanut butter if desired.

CEREALS: Seven individual-service packages of ready-to-eat variety [illegible] The canned varieties.

CRACKERS-COOKIES: One box.

SOFT DRINKS: Twelve bottles.

SUPPLEMENTARY ITEMS: Sugar, salt, seasonings, candy (types that store well), chewing gum, and cigarettes and tobacco.

CAUTION: Store these items like Grandma did—in a dry, cool basement or storeroom within a temperature range of 35 to 50 degrees for best results. Check your "pantry" preferably weekly but at least monthly and rotate items regularly. Use within six months. Bottled water should be changed every six weeks.

Keeping Current... For Economy!

In the illustration above, you see a very happy man at a very wonderful moment.

Of course, there's not much doubt as to why he decided to purchase a new Cadillac.

Like everyone else who selects the "car of cars", he did it to "keep current", so to speak, on all of Cadillac's new miracles of performance and beauty and comfort.

But coming to Cadillac, as he did, at this particular time of the year, we also suspect that he was inspired by the added motive of practicality.

For in addition to the normal Cadillac economies of modest purchase price, low operating cost and high resale value—Cadillac dealers are, at this time, seasonally prepared to make Cadillac ownership even more attractive than ever.

Because of the demand for used cars and because of increased production of the Cadillac car itself, the odds are that this gentleman received both a generous allowance on his previous car and prompt delivery of his new Cadillac.

Have you considered how wonderful it would be to step into a Cadillac of your own? Then, you should pay your dealer a visit—spend an hour on the highway in the luxury of Fleetwood coachcrafting—and get the facts for yourself.

You'll agree, we know, that the car is Cadillac—and the time is now!

4-H Youths Compete For State Honors

Mix together 2,000 4-H Club boys and girls with a big piece of the Michigan State University campus and all of their 4,300 exhibits and you have living proof that the future of the United States is in good hands.

These are some of the ingredients of the 42nd annual State 4-H Club Show to be held August 27-30 on the East Lansing campus. Color and competition will be at all-time highs as 4-H'ers snow and judge cattle, horses, swine and lambs; compete in the Share-The-Fun talent acts; model dresses in the annual Thursday night dress revue when one girl will be chosen to represent the state at Chicago's National Club Congress; vie for county honors in the softball contests; demonstrate tractor handling ability in tractor-driving and plowing contests and work together as judging and demonstrating teams in all subjects from foods to poultry raising.

The public is invited free of charge, to all events of the State 4-H Club Show stresses Russ Mawby, state 4-H Club leader. And to make it even more convenient this year, he tells that the five buildings which house exhibits will be open until 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

To help you know where events will be, check with the main office in the lobby of the Auditorium. There signs and schedules will be posted so you can find out where individuals or events will be.

Mawby tells that State 4-H Club Show has quadrupled in size from a one day show in 1952 to a 4-day event which needs the cooperation of the whole campus to produce. The boys and girls stay in one of the largest dorms in the country, Robert Ssaw Residence hall, and are busy from early morning to late evening working to bring laurels back to their county.

7 Out Of 10 Want Air Conditioning

The Federal Housing and Home Financing Agency's detailed publication on the Women's Housing Congress shows that seven out of every 10 housewives who attended believe that central air conditioning is a necessity rather than a luxury and want provisions made for it in their future homes.

Six out of 10 agreed that these provisions should include insulation in walls and ceilings. Research has shown that a thick heat barrier of mineral wool — six inches in ceilings, four inches in walls, and two inches in an unheated floor — makes smaller, less expensive air-conditioning systems possible and greatly reduces operating costs.

The house will be more comfortable in winter, too.

Report Shows That Buyers Earned $5,640 Last Year

The Federal Reserve Board reports the average home buyer last year had an annual income of $5,640.

In general, the purchaser paid around $12,000 for his house — or about $2,000 more than in 1955.

Four out of every five home buyers went into mortgage debt to finance their new dwelling, and by early 1957 their usual debt was $8,500.

The board said that through most of the post-World War II period the housing demand has been steady.

One factor underscoring the demand was the backlog carried over from the depression and the war years, it said.

The housing pinch was further aggravated by the nation's rising population, coupled with an accelerated rate of family formation, the movement to larger, better equipped homes, shifts in population, rising income, and liberal credit terms.

In its 1957 survey of housing, the board pointed out that about five per cent of the non-farm heads of families bought houses for their own occupancy last year.

Two-thirds of these purchases were for existing houses. And the same number of buyers disposed of another house at the time they bought their new home.

Last year's home buyer also had a substantially larger income than his counterpart in the immediate post-war period. At that time, only one out of every three porchasers made an annual wage of $5,000 or more. Now the proportion is three out of five.

But accompanying rounds of price increases have brought marked boosts in the sale prices of houses, the board found.

In the postwar years, only one out of every four purchases were houses of $10,000 or more. Lately three out of every five sales were in that category.

The board noted that price rises for new homes compared with with existing houses were out of balance. New homes have risen about one-fourth in the post-war period, largely reflecting higher construction costs.

Older homes, on the other hand, spurted in value between 1947 and 1952 but since then have leveled off and held about steady.

The recent home buyer also has rolled up a bigger mortgage debt than his post-war counterpart. Less than one out of every 10 home purchases shortly after the war went into mortgage debt over $10,000.

Recently three out of every 10 home buyers have financed by $10,000 or more.

Vacancy Rate On Rental Units Is Very Low

FHA Commissioner Norman P. Mason announced that a preliminary summary of a survey of rental units taken as of March 31 this year indicates a vacancy rate of only 2.7 per cent.

The 1957 analysis covered nearly 500,000 dwelling units in rental projects currently insured by FHA and located in all parts of the country, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

The comparable vacancy rate at the end of March 1956 was 3.2 per cent. For earlier years the rates were as follows: 1955, 4.4 per cent; 1954, 3.5 per cent; 1953, 2.8 per cent—the lowest previously reported rate.

The 2.7 per cent vacancy figure covers only those projects on which FHA insurance was in force at the time of the survey.

Mason pointed out that, in addition, tnere were some 34,000 units with either titles or mortgages held by FHA. When these units are included in the total, the 1957 vacancy rate is 3.6 per cent compared with 4.1 per cent in 1956.

This delcine in the vacancy situation was general throughout the country. Only in one area — the midwestern states, which reported a 2 per cent vacancy rate—was the 1957 rate higher than that reported for 1956. Despite this increase, however, this area had the second lowest vacancy ratio reported for any of the six FHA administrative zones.

The northeastern area, which includes the large concentration of rental units in metropolitan New York, reported the lowest vacancy rate of 0.7 per cent as compared with 1.1 per cent a year ago.

The highest rate of 5.6 per cent occurred in the southwest. This rate is nearly a third lower than was reported for this area in March 1956. For the other areas, all of which reported decreases, the most notable change was in the far western states where the ratio declined from 3.1 per cent in March 1956 to 2.2 per cent this year.

Corn Silage Cattle Make High Return

Corn silage can be worth up to $200 an acre when it produces yields of 18 to 19 tons per acre and is fed to quality beef cattle.

That's how Warren Huff, one of the hosts at this year's State Farm Management Tour in Washtenaw county, figures he can make the best return from his 240 acres of crop land.

Huff is aiming for this kind of return with silage by using a high-powered fertility and soil improvement program on a straight corn rotation. Huff has the capacity to turn out 1,000 head of fat cattle a year. He buys some shell corn to put on a choice to prime finish, but says the profits come from turning farm produced feed into marketable beef.

Feed handling on an operation of this size is a big job, but Huff is equipped to do it with the least possivle effort. He uses a self-unloading wagon to haul both silage and grain in one trip from the silo unloader to the feed bunks in his completely covered feed lot. Huff prefers this system to a conveyor feed bunk directly from the silo because it gives him a chance to make more changes in his plans as he moves through the feeding period. He says, "Conveyors tie you to a frozen position." Huff has space to store 2,400 tons of silage in six upright silos and one bunker. This summer he will build another glass-lined silo which will be under construction on the day of the tour.

The keeps to high yields of silage, according to Huff are plant population, fertility and soil structure. And he is taking advantage of all three. Even with his straight corn rotation, Huff hopes to improve his soil with deep plowing, plenty of fertilizer and green manure. At planting time he tries to drop a kernel every seven and a half inches to hit about 20,000 plants per acre.

On the tour, to be held August 20, farmers will have a chance to see and hear more about the many new and different ideas Huff is using to make farming payy off.

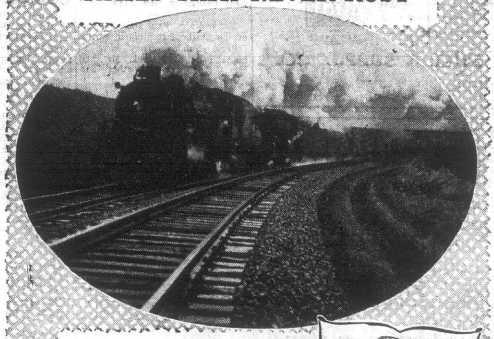
FOR ALL WE HOLD SACRED
. . . ATTEND CHURCH !

RAILS THAT NEVER RUST



Gleaming in the midday sun . . . shimmering under the moon's pale glow . . . afire with gold as the night headlights bear down . . . rails that never rust.

Rolling wheels won't let them!

Some folks wonder whether it's important to go to Church every Sunday. Why not twice a month—or now and then—or at certain special seasons?

When the wheels stop rolling: RUST! When we relax in our quest of God or interrupt our pursuit of faith, then all the destructive influences in life begin to attack the soul.

The Church helps us keep open our spiritual right of way. And not only church-worship, but personal prayer, Bible reading and family worship rightfully deserve a place on our timetable.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Preserve Corn History For Future Allotment

Corn producers who have underplanted their allotment were reminded this week that they may receive credit as planting their full allotment by filing a request with the County ASC Office.

Lenawee County Chairman Arthur Capper said that this will retain the past corn history of the farm for future allotment programs. He said that the request must be made by filing Form MQ-31 with the local ASC office on or before September 1, 1957. Farmers can get these forms at the office.

Mr. Capper said that there is no harm in any corn producer signing this form, but that it is really of benefit only to those with farms on which the full corn acreage allotments have not been planted.

However, all producers should feel free to call at the county office prior to September 1, to execute the required form.

G. S. Association Events Planned

Included in the Calendar of Activities of the Tecumseh Girl Scout Association for the ensuing year will be a Rodeo Day, to which all Brownies, Intermediate Girl Scouts and Seniors are invited. The date to be remembered is Saturday, September 28th, from four until eight o'clock. In case of inclement weather the affair will be held on Saturday, October 5th. The place will be announced later. Mrs. John Dennis is the general chairman and says that many exciting things are in store for the girls.

Another new activity on the calendar this year will be "The Burning of the Greens Ceremonial on Twelfth Night" under the direction of Mrs. John Cameron and her troop of Senior Scouts. Mrs. Robert W. Anderson is the new president of the Tecumseh Girl Scouts Association.

Newburg Farm Bureau Planned August Event

The Newburg Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wynne Matteson Tuesday evening with five families present. The president, Don Buell, conducted the meeting and a discussion was held concerning the carrying of health cards. It was agreed that people should be encouraged to do so. The topic of discussion was "Financing of Michigan Roads is a Problem."

Plans were completed for the Bar-Be-Cue and Ice Cream Social to be sponsored by the group in connection with the 2 Farm Bureau Groups from Clinton. The event will be held at the Clinton Community Center Saturday, August 24, beginning at 5 p.m. The Sun Valley Boys will furnish music for street dancing for which there will be no charge. Committees from each Bureau are working on the project.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting, Sept. 10, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Solarski.

Earl Betser's Had Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Betser and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mickel entertained a family gathering recently at the Betser cottage at Sand Lake honoring the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Betser. They were married at the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Collins, east of Macon, August 8, 1907 by Rev. Scarlet.

The refreshment table was centered with yellow gladioluses flanked on either side by yellow candles in crystal holders. A decorated wedding cake was featured.

By Leo Bishop

TOURNAMENT SUCCESSFUL

The first annual Frank K. Smith Memorial golf tournament was played Saturday, Aug. 10 at the Tecumseh Country Club under ideal playing conditions, with a record field of 92 golfers participating in the event.

Invited players from Toledo, Monroe C.C., Adrian C.C., Marion Ohio and New York were matched with Tecumseh C.C. members competing for many merchandise prizes and two trophies.

The permanent trophy for low gross was donated by the Toledo Public Links Association. The Plaque, which will be placed in the club house, can only be won by a Tecumseh C.C. member with the low net with ¾ of their handicap.

RESULTS OF THE TOURNAMENT

Low Gross

Trophy won by Jake Fassozke of Adrian, Mich., a member of the Tecumseh C.C. with a low gross score of 35-34—69 compared to Tecumseh's par of 72.

Second low gross, Andy Holmes, 70; third low gross Bill Macbeth, 72; fourth low gross, Len Pietras, 72; fifth low gross, Paul Callahan, 73.

Low Net

The honor of having the first name on the permanent placque, Tecumseh C.C. members only, was won by Bill Macbeth with his low net of 65, seven under course par He had one of his best rounds since starting to play golf. It certainly couldn't happen to a nicer fellow.

Blind Bogey Winners

Max Smith, Dale Bowen, Tim Neill, Hank Soconiski, John Dyballa.

Low Putts

John Dybala, 25; Vince Haight, 26.

Longest Drive

F. Speerstra, 305 yards.

Nearest Pin No. 4

Tony Osborne, 4' 11".

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

The club championship match and all minor flights have advanced into the quarter-finals with some fine golf being played in the past week. All contestants will find the coming matches more gruelling and exciting.

Results Men's Champ. Flight

Roger Linger played a very fine steady game to retire Max Smith Jr. from the tournament with a count of 1 up. These two players had a low gross of 76 for Linger and 77 for Smith.

Joe Horvath disposed of Dick Eggleston with 3-2 count. Comment, Eggleston made more mistakes along the course. Horvath—"I was just lucky."

Charles Newell, one of the favorites, was eliminated by Bill Macbeth, 3-1. Macbeth played the brand of golf which a day before gave him the 3rd low gross honors.

First Flight Results

An exciting match was won by Dr. Robert Laidlaw, defeating young David Champanois 1 up. We are certainly proud of all our youngsters playing in this tournament. They are certainly doing a splendid job in the event.

Dr. Robert Bowers defeated Frank Purcell 5-4 with both golfer saying it was too hot to play golf.

Clyde Gunder defeated Clarence Champanois. No comment!

Max Smith Sr. won a hair raiser 1 up on the 19th hole, from D. Hain. Hain claims that it was the best and most enjoyable that he has ever played.

2nd Flight

Art Geisenhover defeated Frank Saxton, 7-5.

Leo Seidel won over Bob Hanna 1 up on the 19th green with Hanna missing a two foot put for a tie.

Men's Third Flight

Paul Keyer defeated M. Red Wilson 3-2 in a friendly fashion.

Women's Championship Flight

Mary Bowers defeated Ellen Roll 7-6; Pauline Moore defeated Rozella Rice, 9-7; Jean Nettleman defeated K. Champanois 2 up.

Women's First Flight

Sugar Woods defeated Laura Bishop 4-2; Marge Purcell defeated Louise Lawson, 3-2; Ernie Andrews defeated June Macbeth, 5-4.

A young, good looking, muscular 6' 4 golfer and artist is seen each evening on the practice range with a revamped easy flowing golf swing. A remarkable change for a fella that has been used to putting everything into his golf swing. Keep up the good work Ray Ernst! There are no short cuts to good golf, just hard wark and practice.

COMMENTS ON GOLF EVENTS

Hello to the Fischers.

Our friends Fred and Lou Fischer, living in St. Pete, Florida, informed me that they would be unable to attend our annual 36 hole (member only) Calcutta event. We will surely miss Fred and Lou this year. But I promise to keep you well posted on this event. Incidentally, Fred is one of our club champions winning this event in 1951. Best of luck folks and see you all soon.

FOXES INCREASE

Michigan has paid more than a million dollars in bounties since 1947 in an effort to reduce red fox populations, but the controversial animals probably exist in greater numbers than they did 10 years ago.

State financial records indicate that foxes aren't affected much by the price of their heads. It appears that some of the surplus animals are taken every year by the bounty method, but the general fox population increases.

In the first year of operation of the present bounty, 24,065 foxes were taken by hunters and trappers who collected approximately $120,000 from the state. Ten years later, the annual total of bountied foxes exceeded 29,000 and the cost to the state totaled more than $145,000.

A similar situation exists with coyotes, wolves and bobcats — other predators covered by bounty laws. Each year, more than $60,000 is paid out in bounties for these animals, while their general populations remain about steady.

Boosters of the bounty system claim the program cuts down predator numbers. A look at the record, however, discloses that the bounty merely clips off a surplus each year—without disturbing the basic population. For exa,mple, the coyote take has consistently been about 3,000 animals yearly since 1944.

Conservation Department game biologists agree that predator control is necessary in some instances, but recommen dthat control measures be carried out in specific areas where damage or predation is extensive.

Meanwhile, 10 years of statewide predator bounties have cost the state almost $2,000,00, without budging the predator from his position in nature.

Touch Football Began Last Week

The Herrick Park Seniors won a forfeit from Tecumseh Acres Friday due to a lack of players. The Tecumseh Acres Seniors won a forfeit game from Central Thursday.

Saving the Big Ones

Conservation Department fish workers revive a largemouth bass netted during chemical treatment of a southern Michigan lake. The chemical treatment is designed to improve fish populations in overcrowded lakes by killing off excess panfish, allowing survivors to attain normal growth rates. When these "stunted fish lakes" are treated, many bass and other large gamefish are revived for replanting in the lake.

'Sun Sled' Is A New Patio Item

The growing trend toward outdoor living has produced a new item of patio furniture — the "sun sled." Do-it-yourself enthusiasts can make one themselves.

All that's needed is a few board feet of 2 x 2 lumber for the framework which looks much like that of a regular snow sled. Wood slats or canvas stretched across the top complete the project.

Litter Hazardous To Back Yard Fun

Backyard barbecues are lots of fun but the resulting litter can spoil the appearance of the yard and even be a health hazard to your family. Scraps and crumbs of foor attract disease-bearing flies and rats and provide them with an incentive to make themselves at home.

It's easy to avoid this hazard simply by keeping a covered, galvanized steel garbage pail beside the picnic table, and putting the scraps and crumbs directly into it. Supervise the children in "policing" the area afterwards, picking up all rubbish and litter and placing it in the garbage pail.

One item often neglected in cleaning up after a backyard barbecue is the barbecue grill itself. The grill should be thoroughly cleansed of any food particles clinging to it.

An effective way to accomplish this is to fill a steel laundry tub with a solution of water, detergent and ammonia and place the grill in it overnight. Then in the morning simply wipe the grill with steel wool to remove any particles which have not dissolved in the solution.

Divide Room With Woven Screens

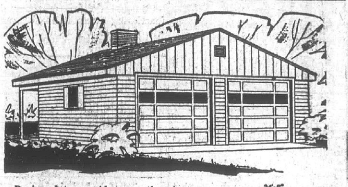
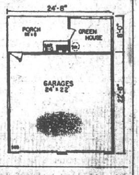
If your front door opens right into the living room, a handsome woven screen can be installed to afford a useful entry "hall."

Basically, such a screen consists of a framework of 2 by 4 inch lumber, perhaps five feet high and four or five feet wide, depending on the setting.

Wooden dowels placed about a foot apart, either horizontally or vertically, form a network on which to "weave" four-inch strips of 1/8-inch tempered pressed wood.

This unusual screen-door divider must be anchored to the floor and wall adjacent to the door.





Designed to provide more than just car protection, this two-car garage includes several modern and desirable features. They include: patio porch with barbecue fireplace and a greenhouse with translucent corrugated fiberglas roof to assure the maximum of light and protect plants from bad weather.

Plans are available from local lumber dealers.

Housing Act Will Cut First Home Wait For Couples

Nothing in the American standard of living is more envied by oither people than the phenomenon of home ownership by a high percentage of average-income families.

Yet, according to figures of the Federal Housing Administration and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average American couple apparently must wait 10 years to buy its first home. The average first-home buyer, according to the FHA, is 33 years old. The average American marrying age, however, says the BLS, is under 23 years.

The 1957 Housing Act, passed by Congress last week, offers some hope of narrowing this long waiting period, according to Joseph L. Curran, first vice president of the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit.

With the good employment record of recent years, high wage rates and the fact that both members of many newly married couples work, it is obvious, Curran said, that it is the lack of funds to make a down payment, not monthly mortgage payments, which causes the 10-year wait.

The new Housing Act, the BAMD oficial added, bsings down payments on FHA-insured mortgages to the point where young people, without denying themselves the other ingredients of the American standard of living, can easily afford a home of their own within a year or two.

Under the new act, Curran pointed out, the down payment on a $16,000 home, easily available here, is reduced from the former $2,200 to $1,200. With a systematic saving plan, such as that now proposed by the National Association of Home Builders and the U. S. Savings and Loan League, that sum can easily be reached by any young colupl within two years.

Curran, who is also chairman of the FHA-VA Committees of both the BAMD and the NAHB, pointed out that, without the two-year wait, newly married couples can find Detroit area houses, in attractive planned communities in the $12,500 price range. The down payment on a house of this price is only slightly over $600, a sum many couples realize in wedding gifts alone.

In 10 years of renting, besides living in cramped quarters and with all the disadvantages of nonownership, a couple would have invested at least $10,000 in a stack of useless rent receipts, Curran said.

On the other hand, even after deducting interest, taxes and maintenance costs, the same 10 years in a home of their own would build up for the couple an equity sufficient to apply as a down payment on a larger home suitable to the needs of a growing family.

Further, Curan added, the normal improvements added at little cost by most home owners and the trend toward higher real estate value usually will result in a considerable "profit" on the sale of a home.

The couple also would have the real advantage of more outdoor play space, added protection from noisy neighbors, more storage space and the feeling of really belonging to their community.

How To Build A Picket Fence

Planning to build a picket fence?

DO . . . buy fence pickets ready-made and bundled, remembering that they come in several standard lengths and widths, as well as a variety of designs.

DO . . . make fence at least three feet high, but no higher than four feet, using 2 x 4s for the horizontal rails and 4 x 4s for the vertical posts.

DO . . . nail the pickets to the rails and attach the rails to the posts, which should be set eight feet apart, with two feet of each post below ground.

DON'T . . . forget that future rotting can be avoided by soaking in wood preservative the part of the posts that will be in contact with the ground.

DON'T . . . allow water to collect on the flat tops of the 4 by 4 posts; shape them slightly so the water will run off or buy special caps which serve this purpose as well as add a decorative touch.

Spring Balances Replace Weights

Most new double-hung windows framed in wood have no sash weights. These trouble makers have been replaced by compact spring balances concealed in the frames.

The balances make the windows operate more easily than old-fashioned pulleys and weights.

Woods Vary In Heating Value

In studying the heating value per cord for different woods, it is well to keep in mind that—for dry wood in general—the heavier the wood, the higher the heating value, according to the federal bureau of mines.

In a booklet on questions and answers for the home fireman, the bureau reports that resins and gums increase the heat content of the wood.

Woods having high values per cord include black locust, hickory and white oak. Those having medium values include beech, ash and sugar maples. Low values are found in chestnut, cedar, white pine and hemlock, the bureau said.

New Shower Ease

For shower lovers, who like their showers in the bathtub, there is available a shower head mounted on a long arm with a flexible joint. This enables the bather to shower while seated in the bathtub or while standing up.

This fitting can also be used in a shower cabinet or shower stall, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Painting Tips

In painting the walls of a room, it is best to begin from the window wall and work back into the room so reflections on the wet paint will reveal spots not properly coated.

The amateur is advised to begin painting at a break in the wall such as a corner.

TREE INSPECTION

Plans are afoot for the Department of Agriculture to grade Christmas trees — like beefsteaks! They will be US Premium, US No. 1 and US No. 2 Inspectors, inspectors of inspectors, graders, taggers, enforcement agents, etc. etc. will doubtless be needed to relieve you from having to use your own judgment.

Now, do you believe in Santa Claus?

DRIVING FORCE

"Today's farming is more highly capitalized, per man job, than is the rest of our economy." That statement comes from no less an authority than Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in his book "Farmers At The Crossroads." He adds that it takes an average of about $20,000 worth of investments per worker on commercial family operated farms.

This illustrates the extraordinary extent of the agricultural revolution in this country—a revolution that has made it possible for each farmer to produce enough for himself and 19 other people, where 50 years ago he could produce only enough for himself and 6 others. The driving force in that revolution has been mechanization.

Mr. Benson also said: "Had it been possible to transport, by magic, a farmer from Biblical times to an American farm of 100 years ago, he would have recognized almost every implement then in use—the flail, hoe and rake, for example. Today he would recognize hardly any—tractor, hay baler, milking machine or combine."

Moreover, that revolution has been a far more potent force in this country than elsewhere. Mr. Benson points out that the Russian farm delegation which visited this country a year ago was much impressed to find a father and his 12 year old son operating a 320-acre Iowa farm without hired help. One of the Russians said it would have taken 100 men to operate a farm of that type in his country.

Our farmers have their problems—but they have made amazing progress, thanks in large part to mechanization.

BRINGING FORTH A MOUSE

As everyone who reads the newspapers knows, the demand for government economy has been unusually intense this year, both among members of the general public, who have been flooding Congress with letters, and among many leading government officials. "Yet," says the Wall Street Journal, "the result promises to be insignificant. The great economy effort is bringing forth a mouse."

Why should the outlook be so bleak now? The Journal provides a number of answers — the fact that the Administration budget was the largest in peacetime history; a feeling in some quarters that public demand for economy is abating; high-powered pressure by various groups for all manner of pet projects. But the really dominant reason is found in these words: ". . . Congress has failed to grasp the plainest of facts — that it is impossible to cut the cost of Government significantly unless one is prepared to reduce the size of Government. The lawmakers have been . . . content to nibble at Federal programs, when what was urgently required was a reduction or elimination of certain programs . . . Congress has chosen the easy way. And that, as is often the case, is the easiest way to failure."

In sum, what Congress has done, knowingly or otherwise, is to accept the premise that we must have ever-expanding super-government — and then to consider a few comparatively minor cuts here and there. That being Congress' attitude, it was inevitable that the results would be nonexistent or nearly so. Not until the size of government is reduced and kept reduced, will we have a materially reduced budget and tax burden.

Realty Views

"I've always heard that if you really want to sell a house, you should call on Kohler Real Estate. So here I am," said a silver-haired lady one day.

"My husband had a stroke a few months ago. We've decided to move back near our family and old friends in Indiana. Come on out and look over our home. We'd like to sell it right away."

Their home proved to be a modest 2 bedroom house in a good district. It was clear of debt. They wanted about $3,000 cash for a reserve and to move on.

"In view of your hurry," I said, "I'd suggest one of two courses. Either price it at rock-bottom and try for a quick cash-out. Or, get a loan for $3,000 on the property and then sell it on a small down payment. The buyer could assume the loan and pay the balance on a contract for deed. The total payment shouldn't exceed $60 to $65 per month."

The lady said, "I think the contract sale is more appealing. Go ahead."

Fortunately we sold the home the very NEXT day at the suggested figure!

"I can see now my friends knew what they were talking about in recommending your firm," she said.

"Chalk some of it up to luck," I replied.

May we try our LUCK on selling your house?

Walters' "George" Was A Celebrity

BY TOMMY WALTERS

Wanted: Male or female Human (or couple), age no consideration; must be clean, exhibit good habits and dwell in clean, pleasant surroundings. Wealth no object. Dog lovers accepted if able to regard these nuisances with sanity. No keepers of birds or fish need apply. Couples with children acceptable if offspring are disciplined. No self-important stuffed srirts requiring flattery will be considered. Qualified applicants write to: Thomas A. Cat, Ashcan 32, West Alley, Metropolis, U.S.A.

Though we didn't get our catin this way, his mother was a stray who "adopted" a newspaper man in Akron, Ohio. She shortly had two kittens, of which our George was one. He was black and gray and was quite a celebrity, having his picture in the Akron Beacon Journal as the "Cat of the Week" during Cat Week. He consented to live with us because we let him have his way about practically everything. We had him ten years.

His first unhappy experience came when we moved from Akron to Muskegon. He has always hated riding in a car and this trip took nine hours. George howled all the way and once we had to stop the car and let him out, as he became car-sick. When we got to Muskegon, we had to stay in a hotel all night, as our furniture couldn't be delivered until the next day. When we carried George into the lobby and he saw all the people, he let out a terrible howl and tried to get away. Everyone looked and laughed. Riding up in the elevator, he howled so badly that I'm sure people though someone was being murdered. Once we got to our room and he felt something solid under his feet again, he settled down a little.

I went out and bought some hamburg and milk for him, and after he had eaten, my mother and I took him for some exercise in the park across the street. Going up and down in the elevator brought on more howling and all the cars in the street scared him so that he tried to run away. He was very much relieved to get moved into our house, so that he could get out on the ground by himself.

He had two outstanding experiences while we lived there. The first few days after we moved in, he got in the neighbor's basement by mistake and couldn't find his way out. The neighbors were frightened when they heard him moving around until they discovered that it was a cat. They tried to coax him out but he would not come to them, so one of the ladies came over to our house to ask us if we had a cat and if he was missing. As the answer was "yes" to both questions, I went back to her house with her and got George out from under the rafters.

The second thing that happened was that a dog chased him up a tree and George was afraid to come down. We had a group on the ground trying to coax him down and there was much excitement but we finally had to give up and go in because it was dark, leaving him up there. He came down in the night by himself.

George had to make another move in Muskegon when we finished our new house just outside the city limits in a nice wooded section. He enjoyed living there; he could roam the woods and chase the squirrels and mice. He decided that life was pretty good after all, but unknown to him, things were happening that were going to give him a hard time again. My dad had taken a job in a town in southern Michigan, which meant that we would be moving again very soon. We finally had to rent two different houses during the time that we were building our present home and it was when we lived in the first of these two that George had a month of pure misery. We had rented a cottage at a lake for the month of August and George, never having seen a lot of water before, was scared to death. My mother had to keep him tied up or he would have run away. We would tie him way up on the side of a hill, as far away from the water as we could and he would lie there peering down and switching his tail.

When we moved to the next house, we also had to keep him tied when we put him outside and not being used to this, he was constantly hanging himself by climbing a big tree and then jumping out on the wrong side. On one occasion my mother rescued him just in time. She had a little collar with a leash which she put around George's neck and when she brought him in the house, she would just unhook it. One night, she went to put him out for his final run and instead of waiting for the collar to be fastened, as he usually did, he took off across the yard. The more she tried to catch him, the more playful he became and she finally had to give up. She was sure that he would get lost during the night, but when morning came, George was sitting on the back steps and he gave her a look as if to say, "Now let's have no more of this foolishness; you see I can look out for myself!"

We finally moved into our present home. George liked it very well here. He did not seem to be afraid of the river, as he was of the lake and he crawled over the bank to catch field mice and crabs. He went out hunting every night and about daylight he came to my mother's or my grandmother's window. When they let him in, he jumped into his chair and slept all day. He was over ten years old, so I suppose he needed all that rest.

This very important member of our family is missing today, August 7, 1957, and we really miss him. George, our cat, went into the long sleep yesterday; the doctor said, "Cirrhosis of the liver," but he was quite old, eleven years, and had had quite a different life from most cats.

He was born in Akron, Ohio; spent two years there, bossing his family and the neighbor's cats moved to Muskegon; spent the first night there in Mr. Sevet's swanky hotel, the Occidental, much to the chagrin of a porter and the colored maid, but he behaved like the real gentleman he was.

After four years in Muskegon, he came to Tecumseh to live — to River Acres. Until the last three weeks, he surveyed his domain of a big house and three acres of ground every night. He could be offended quite easily by the offer of the wrong food, by being put out of a forbidden chair, or not being answered when he spoke to us.

We will miss the pile of gray and white fur on the living-room rug, the tiny little meow as we went by or the big one when he wanted in or the cheerful good morning. In short, we will miss George, our big gray cat.

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

EXTRA INCOME

You can still pump a little extra income out of those old hens this fall if you can hold them over in a temporary shelter to make room for pullets in the laying house, says Lenawee county associate agricultural agent C. C. Ingerson.

This system is now possible because of the improved strains of chickens produced in recent years. Hens will now lay for 16 to 18 months, instead of just a year.

If you plan to take advantage of this system you'll need to move the hens as soon as possible. The longer you wait the more likely are the chances of throwing them into a moult. Move the hens at night, feed wet mash or pellets at the time of the change and arrange the equipment in the shelter about the same as it was in the laying house.

The shelter should be wired for lights so you can give the hens about 14 hours of light a day. Put in enough bulbs to supply one watt per bird. This can be upped to two watts later in the season to give additional stimulation.

With this system, you can keep yearling hens on just as long as they are laying at a profitable level.

PRICE OUTLOOK

Cold storage stocks of all red meats is down sharply from a year ago. At the same time, demand for red meat should be stronger this fall because people have more money to spend and there are more mouths to feed. Disposable personal income is up by five per cent and population by three million from this period last year, says Dike.

Many cattlemen in the Plains states have been encouraged by improved pasture and are rebuilding their herds. This takes cattle away from the slaughter market and receipts of grass cattle will likely be lower than they were last year.

Marketings of all fed cattle this summer and early fall is expected to be larger than last year. However, Michigan State economists still expect a strong market, but they say the price advance will not be as sharp as last fall.

The number of spring pigs coming to market will be about the same as last year says Dike. He points out that Hog producers are expected to hold the line on farrowings this fall so spring prices may still be profitable.

Mystery Farm Was Lewis Westgate's

Lewis A. Westgate's farm, on S. Raisin Center Hwy., was identified as last week's Mystery Farm. He purchased it in 1935. Mr. Westgate is now retired.

The original house is over 100 years old. It was remodeled 3 years ago. Other changes in recent years include a barn, hog shed, granary and a 3-car garage.

Lewis Westgate and his wife, Nina, were married in 1945. He attended South Dakota State College from 1914-1917 and did post graduate work at MSU in 1923 and 1924. They now take 3 to 4 vacations per year including Florida, Canada etc. Mr. Westgate is building inspector of Raisin Twp. and a member of the Masonic Lodge in Tecumseh. They belong to the Farm Bureau and go to the Friends Church. Mrs. Westgate's hobby is music and Mr. Westgate's is gardening.

Joan Shandley of Route No. 2, Britton, identified the farm and was given a two year subscription from the Tecumseh Herald. The feature's sponsor, Hayden Mills, gave a two year subscription and an aerial photograph to the Westgate's.

Tecumseh Grange Met Thursday

The Tecumseh Grange meeting was called to order by the Master Charles Ricicia on Thursday evening. Resolutions were read and filed for Lester Edelbrock. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. Mills Swick were appointed as delegates to the Pomona Grange to be held at Lime Creek Grange on Wednesday, August 14th.

Mills Swick gave a very good report on the National Grange Insurance that had been purchased to cover all Tecumseh Grange members who were handling any of the Grange money. Mrs. Velta Dickerson reported on the Palsy Benefit Dance that was held in Adrian. Mrs. Charles Patterson told that wedding gifts for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Long, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Reum and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Swain had been purchased and would be delivered since they were unable to be present Thursday.

It was decided to have a Clean-Bee at the Grange Hall on Monday, August 12th at 6:30. Watermellon and muskmelon will be served at the next meeting, so members will not need to bring any refreshments to the meeting on August 22nd. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korican; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Pravail will be the lunch committee for that meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Dil Burleson and Mrs. Roy Heilman served ice cream, pie and cake following the meeting.

SCHOOL TO BEGIN SEPTEMBER 3

Editor's Corner . . .

BY RALPH BIDWELL

As you were informed in last week's issue, the owners of The Tecumseh Herald have hired me to succeed their son as editor.

It was twenty years ago next month that I laid aside the pitchfork on my father's farm near South Lyon in Oakland County and set out for college to be a newspaperman.

My late grandfather had been a rural correspondent so relatives claim I took to it by heredity.

However, it was "Ole Charley" Harris, the managing editor of the Daily Messenger in Athens, Ohio, where I worked part time while in school, who got me off on the right foot.

He taught me how to "sift the wheat from the chaff" and impressed me with the importance of the phrase, "listen and not be heard."

"Ole Charley", who collected original Currier & Ives as a hobby, is best remembered for the time he telephoned a rural correspondent — such as those who represent The Herald in the fine villages of Britton, Ridgeway, Macon, Holloway and Tipton — to check a fact in her story. As she answered, he could hear several "clicks" all along the party line.

"Do you know ——— ——— ———?" Charley asked. "No," she replied. "Does anybody else know the answer?" he snapped. One piped up with the information and soon they were all talking.

Regretfully this well known American institution of eavesdropping is vanishing as dial phones are rapidly replacing the old "one long, two short."

After somewhat brief tenures on daily newspapers in Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah, and Sturgis, Mich., I got a job as a reporter for The Detroit News, married, built a new home and started a family.

I soon learned that big city newspapers are filled with one big catastrophe, disaster or tragedy after another. For 10 years it was just one big "hurry, hurry, hurry." Everything in done in minutes instead of hours. The tempo keeps getting faster and faster until you get mad if you miss one notch in a revolving door.

Then on Feb. 17, 1953, I collapsed from sheer nervous exhaustion.

I'm glad it happened now. I took an inventory of myself, got a job as a carpenter and found time for the little things that make living worthwhile. I also decided my next newspaper job would be in a small city where the tempo is slower and you meet one or two "deadlines" per week instead of six or seven a day.

School Will Open In Britton On September 3

Twenty-three teachers will instruct some 600 students in the Britton-Macon Community Schools during the 1957-58 school year, according to Superintendent Rudolph Koczman. School opens on Tuesday, September 3.

Football Team Lost 7 of 11 Men

Practice will start Monday, September 2. Physical exams will be given August 28, at 9:00, in the High School Gymnasium. Equipment will be given out Saturday, August 31, starting at 9:00 a.m.-9:30 with the letter winners; 9:30-10:00, Seniors; 10:00-10:30, Juniors; 10:30-11:00, Sophomores and 11:00 to 11:30, freshmen. Each boy is requested to bring $3.00 for insurance and $1.00 for locker and towell.

During school days, practice will start at 3:30 in the afternoon. Before school starts and on Saturdays, morning practice will start at 9:00 a.m. and afternoon practice at 3:30 p.m.

Breniff said that "it is the roughest schedule this year that the team has faced in a long time with Adrian, Mason, Willow Run and Hillsdale, not to mention Hudson who had the number one class C team in the state last year and who has their whole team back tihs year." He said, "the starting 11 will be 90% Sophomores and Juniors and the success of the team will depend on how badly the Seniors want to make it a good team and how badly the Sophomores want to fight to get on it." We will have young personnel, but good football players. We will be scored upon but will be tough with one of the hardest hitting teams in recent years. If they want to, they can. In Yoakum, we have a hard working, good football player. Walters, Kasik and Elliott should also be mainstays on the team."

In summing up this years competition, Breniff said "Hudson's championship team wil have the same backfield as last year, headed by Knapp. Monroe will be tough as always with Jimmy Godfrey. Airport has a new coach and should be improved. Willow Run will be a real threat with Willie Pruitt, who broke Jesse Owens' High School track record. Pruitt is said to be the greatest High School athlete of our time. Bedford will be gunning for us since we have defeated them in everything for the last few years. Hillsdale will be real tough and probable favored to win the League Championship with the Spangler twins and Granger. Mason always plays a good brand of ball. Adrian should get into the winning columns this year. However, our Sophomores will be seasoned by that game."

Elementary Locations Announced For School

Each Spring kindergarten, elementary and high school pupils are enrolled in the Tecumseh Public School System in appropriate locations and grades for the Fall semester. Of course, some changes in the Fall are necessary due to newcomers, those who forgot to enroll their children and those who moved from one location to another within the District.

In general, all parents of elementary children are notified of the grade placement, location of room and teacher for their children who are enrolled. This is unnecessary in the secondary school since all children in the seventh through the twelfth grades are in the High School Building.

Parents who are new to the district should register their children Tuesday, August 27, in the Central School Auditorium between 9:00 and 12:00. Kindergarten children must be 5 on or before December 1st, to enroll. Parents must bring their children's birth certificate to enroll him in Kindergarten.

Council To Air "Drag" Race Complaint Sept. 3

City Council action on a petition to prohibit further continuance of "drag" races Sundays at privately-owned Tecumseh Airport was deferred Monday night until it has been publicly aired at the next Council session, Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 7:45 p.m.

The petition, presented by Earl Kruger, 813 River Acres Drive, listed the names of about 60 residents of the River Acres subdivision whose homes are directly across M-52 from the airport.

Kruger stated these races should be declared a public nuisance and demanded they be stopped immediately.

"From 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. all you hear is cars minus mufflers and tailpipes," he said. "Many of the spectators are hot-rodders and peel their tires as they leave the grounds. When the wind is blowing our way the noise and fumes are unbearable."

Joseph Conway, acting as liason between the Tecumseh Timing Association, sponsoring the races, and A. H. Meyers, owner of the airport, read a prepared report in rebuttal to the homeowners' charges.

To comply with the wishes of nearby residents, the association has done the following, Conway said:

1. Every car arriving as a competitor is inspected, searched and checked. No alcoholic beverages are allowed in cars or on the ground.

2 Every person participating is given full instructions for orderly quiet. Any car that leaves the grounds is disqualified from competition.

3. No motorcycles are allowed to participate.

4. No cars are allowed to operate on the strip for time trials until after 9 a.m. Competitive tests begin at 2 p.m.

5. At least once every hour both test drivers and patrons are warned that all local regulations must be observed.

6. Careful and adequate safety precautions are installed and maintained. Adequate personnel, 42 persons, are on hand to police the area and handle the crowd.

"Good" reports from neighbors and townspeople during the past two weeks lead us to believe the noisy condition of Aug. 4 has been entirely abated as far as the Acceleration Test Competition is concerned," Conway read.

Conway emphasized the engineering achievements that are being made as a result of these races and added that entertainment is being provided for about 2,000 people of this community every week.

"I personally think the races are a fine thing but the fact remains we have a petition and have to act on it," Councilman John Hamilton said.

Councilman Harold Kelso said "I don't doubt the issue is exaggerated on both sides" and favored a public hearing. Councilman Donald Purkey concurred and made the motion for a hearing.

Mayor H. H. Hanna recommended since only that area of airport 300 feet north from the center of M-52 is within the city limits that the city attorney be present at the public hearing.

Meyers said there were only five more racing weekends left in this season and asked that action be deferred until next year.

Partners in the Tecumseh Timing Association are James Fielder and Larry Coscarelli.

Conway, representing them, said this airport runway is one of the finest in the country for such races and is attracting more cars and interest each Sunday.

In other Council action, a petition from 143 interested property owners requesting that the name of Brown street be changed to Herrick Park road and continue as such through Herrick Park to Outer Drive was accepted and Sept. 16, 8 p.m., was set as date and time for a public hearing.

The ordinance regarding the rezoning of lots, 99, 100, 101 and 102 on East side of North Evans st. from "business and professional" to "business A" to accommodate the new A & P Store at that location was read for second time.

Aux. Plans Oct. Fashion Show

Mrs. Herbert Simon opened her home for the Jaycee Auxiliary meeting held Aug. 14 with Mrs. Frank Humble as co-hostess. The meeting was brought to order by the president with the Club giving the Jaycette creed. The decision of the uniform committee was to make blouses of special Dan River fabric in the same design to be worn for special events. Each member was urged to pay their dues so that Auxiliary pins may be purchased for all members. The main discussion of the evening was centered around plans for a fashion show and card party sponsored by the Club, an event of October. Mrs. Simon will be chairman and Mrs. Humble, co-chairman. Money received from the event is to be used to purchase a hearing aid for a child.

Members paid a dime for a paper sack containing a dress donated by another member. These dresses will be worn at the October meeting along with accessories brought to the Sept. 11 meeting by the members, as usual secreted in the paper sacks. Hats have been already secured for the October meeting. The remainder of the evening was spent socially and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Hidden Gifts At Bridal Shower

A miscellaneous bridal shower was held at the home of Mrs. Willis Porter, Aug. 13, honoring Miss Barbara Ousterhout whose marriage to Mr. Harold Dresch of Manchester will take place Sept. 7. Mrs. Harold Kelso and Mrs. Vincent Haight assited as hostesses and dessert was served to the 21 guests present. Balloons over the centerpiece in the living room contained instructions and clues as to where Miss Ousterhout might find her gifts. Decorations were carried out in a pink and white theme. Out-of-town guests were from Fowlerville, Mich., Manchester, and Wamplers Lake.

After spending a honeymoon at Gatlinburg, Tennessee, in the Smokey Mountains, they will reside in Dearborn, Mich. "Veto" comes from the Latin word meaning "I forbit."

Retiring Pastor Sees Life In Review

Among the more than 600 people attending the farewell reception given Friday evening, Aug. 16, to honor the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Escolme, was Dr. Byron L. Osborne, president of Malone College of Cleveland, Ohio, a friend of Rev. Escolme since college days.

The reception was held in the high school gym which was lovely with beautiful baskets of flowers. The platform, where the honored guests were seated, was decorated with palms and baskets of red and white gladioli and backed with a banner 1918-1957 in green and white. The refreshment table was centered with a huge four tiered cake surrounded by gladiolus blossoms and flanked by crystal candelabra, with pink tapers.

Music presented by by the orchestra of the Friends Church under the leadership of Ronald Van Valkenburg opened the evenings program. Ralph Comfort presided, and after welcoming those present, he introduced the Rev. Lawrence Cox, Superintendent of Adrian Quarterly Meeting, who gave the invocation. Mayor H. H. Hanna extended greetings and paid tribute to Rev. Escolme, pointing out his civic mindedness. The Junior Choir, directed by Mrs. Gordon Gove, sang "Beyond the Sunset." Following this Mr. Comfort led the whole assembly in the singing of "America," accompanied by Mrs. Amos Wilson at the piano.

Mr. Comfort then introduced Mr. William Berkhoff, former superintendent of Tecumseh schools, now of Mt. Clemens, Mich., who emceed the wonderful program of ' This Is Your Life, Edward Escolme." The script was prepared by Mrs. Ralph Comfort.

Interspersed in the program were tape recordings, one made in England, with a dear friend of Mrs. Escolme's, Mrs. Wm. Richmond, doing the narrating. The voices heard were those of Mr. and Mrs. James Escolme, Mr. Escolme's brother and wife, and the Misses Bessie and Lily Jackson, Mrs. Escolme's two sisters.

A little later in the program the voices of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Ezra DeVol were heard from India, where they are serving as missionaries of Ohio Yearly Meeting. The DeVols spoke their appreciation for the hospitality shown them by the Escolmes through the years, especially during the year that Mrs. DeVol and their twin daughters, Patricia and Priscilla, lived in the Escolme home while Dr. DeVol was in China. The DeVol twins were present to give greetings to the Escolmes, as was Mrs. Daniel Hodgin, the twins' grandmother from Brighton, Michigan.

The script told the story of the building of the parsonage, and then of the coming of little Elizabeth Mark to join the family. "Beppy", she named herself, and that has been her name ever since. About five years ago she became Mrs. Donald Johnson, the wedding being performed by her father at Tecumseh Friends Church. "Beppy" and little granddaughter Susan were present from Berea, O.

Many friends of the honored couple were called upon to speak, including Mr. Guy Belding, Mr. John Thompson and Mr. Alvin Brazee.

A procession of 23 couples, out of the many who had been married by Rev. Escolme, passed by the platform to greet them as the wedding march was played.

The program was climaxed by the presentation of a treasure chest by Mrs. Naomi Sallows, who has been the Friends Church treasurer for nearly thirty years. The Escolmes were very much surprised when presented with a cash gift, which at this time totals $2265.50.

The honored guests both expressed appreciation for such a wonderful evening, and Mrs. Escolme warmed the hearts of Tecumseh people when she said, "You are our folk and you always will be our folk." The Rev. Escolme said, with his customary wit, "No matter what your denominational connection is here on earth, when we all get to heaven we will all be "Friends."

During the program the girls trio of the church, the Misses Sharon Muhn, Vonnie Penrod and Ruth Mead, presented two very fine numbers, as did the men's trio, Mac Powell, Russell Comfort and Melvin Muhn.

Present to speak, representing the Tecumseh Ministerial Association, was Rev. E. C. Dickin, Rector of St. Peters Episcopal Church, and representing the Lenawee County Ministerial Association was Rev. Joseph Copelin of the Church of Christ, of Adrian.

Many letters and telegrams of greeting were received, among them a letter from Dr. Walter R. Williams, General Superintendent of Ohio Yearly Meeting, which was read.

Mrs. Naomi Sallows was general chiarman of the event; Miss Mabel Lockwood, program chairman; Mrs. Percy Slater, publicity chairman; Mrs. Melvin Muhn, refreshment chairman; Mrs. Herbert Murphy, decorations; Mr. John Zeigler, invitations; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Johnson, reception committee and Mrs. John Kelley, chairman of the gift committee.

The book, "This Is Your Life, Edward Escolme," was presented to the Rev. Escolme, and an autograph book with pictures and greetings was presented to Mrs. Escolme, as well as the guest book which those attending signed. A tape recording of the entire evening's program, made by Joe Hayden, was also presented them.

The out of town guests included Mrs. Helen Crane McManus of Bristol, Indiana, Mrs. Gladys Perryman of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. William Comfort of Highland Park, Rev. and Mrs. Loren Kuhn and two children of Flushing, O., Steven and Richard Mitchell of Marion, Ill., Anne Moore of Danville, Va., Mrs. Mary Alice Green of Byhalia, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Shipley of Detroit, Mrs. Norma Hausner of Brighton, Mich., Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Burch, Irene Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Huff, Mrs. Nellie Gorton, Grace Freeman, Nina Dolby Amsworth, Gwen Jones, Ohe Zamaky, Warren Anderson, Ellen Gould and Larue and Martin Arbogast of Ypsilanti, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sell of Hillsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson and son Paul of Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Newton and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lathrop of Manitou Beach, Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Brugger of Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Stevens and Mrs. Adah Hammond of Addison, Rev. and Mrs. Lowell Shreve and Miss Edith Haviland Raisin Center, and Mrs. Forest Kinney and Miss Edith Salter of Adrian.

The Escolmes were entertained by a group from the Presbyterian congregation at the Youth Center in May. After dinner a social evening was enjoyed and they were presented with a May Basket which contained 39 silver dollars.

The Methodist church folks presented Mr. Escolme with a very nice leather combination brief and traveling case on the night of the reception.

On Tuesday evening of this week, at the opening session of the Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends held at Damascus, Ohio, Rev. Escolme was the speaker. Later in the week, in the business sessions, his name will be placed in nomination for the office of Supt. of Evangelistic, Pastoral and Church Extension Board.

Rev. Paul Brantingham, who is to be the new pastor at the Tecumseh Friends Church, will preach his first sermon on Sunday, Sept. 1.

Calvary Bible Church of Adrian was the scene of a lovely midsummer wedding Saturday evening, Aug. 17, at 7 p.m. when Miss Margaretta Kempf, daughter of Mr. Leonard Kempf and the late Mrs. Kempf of Route 1, Tipton, and Mr. Charles V. The finger length veil was held in place by a scalloped crown of white pearls and pink sequins and she wore a double strand of pearls at her throat. She carried a fan bouquet with narrow satin streamers tied in lovers knots. She was attended by Mrs. Helen Jane Schmidt as matron of honor. The bridesmaids, both school friends of the bride, were Miss Grace Shaw and Miss Alice Neuman. Pamela Schmidt, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Arthur Jenkins, brother of the groom, served as best man and the ushers were Robert Kempf, brother of the bride, and Leonard Jenkins, brother of the groom.

Elementary Schools, in the Tecumseh Public School System, will begin classes at 9:15 a.m. and dismiss at 3:45 p.m. except kindergartens, (see story elsewhere on front), Sept. 3rd.

Secondary school will begin classes at 8:00 a.m. and dismiss at 3:00 p.m. with some exceptions. Since the High School is badly overcrowded, with approximately 1000 pupils in the building built for 600, it will be necessary for some pupils who live in the city to begin at 9:00 a.m. and be dismissed at 4:00 p.m. This situation will be eliminated by the Fall of 1959 when the building program is completed.

Advise Eye Tests For New Children

All children entering the Tecumseh and Britton-Macon schools for the first time should have their eyes examined by a competent eye doctor before school starts or soon afterwards, the Michigan Department of Health advised today.

Periodic screenings, at least annually, by the schools using adequate methods are a necessity for all children because the eyesight of growing children changes constantly, the department said.

Approximately 340,000 of the 1,700,000 children in Michigan schools need some kind of vision care and half of those with defective vision can't see well enough to do their school work satisfactorily, the department said.

Six Drivers Get Police Tickets

Six traffic violators, including two women, were issued tickets during the past week by Tecumseh police. They will appear before Justice R. L. French at later dates.

On Aug. 14, Joyce Elizabeth Schafer, 20, of Route 2, Macon township, was cited for speeding 55 miles per hour in a 25 mile zone on Macon highway.

Edwin R. Ernst, 42, of 209 Maple st., was ticketed for speeding 45 in a 25 mile zone on N. Nnion st., also on Aug. 14.

Dean C. Andrews, 22, of 324 N. Union st., was ticketed for squealing his tires at Chicago Boulevard and Evans st., Aug. 15.

Ellen Rose Dunn, 38, of 403 W. Brown st., was ticketed for running a stop sign at Maumee and Brown sts., Aug. 16.

There was only one accident reported to police. Approximately $375 in damages were incurred to automobiles driven by Frank Gottschalk, 67, of 207 S. Wyandotte st. and Charles R. Marsh, 55, of Route 1, North Adams. Police reports state Gottschalk was backing out of a parking place on S. Maumee st. when struck by Marsh's car. There were no witnesses, so no police action will be taken.

One Fire Reported

Tecumseh fire equipment left the station twice within the past week. On Sunday at 4:45 p.m. firemen were called to a small fire that destroyed a small outbuilding at the farm of Douglas Fairbanks, 6875 Rogers highway, with the city. Tuesday night a practice drill was held in the alley between Chicago Boulevard and the fire station.

Hearing On Races

The City Manager was authorized to take out liability insurance on the city parking lot on South Pearl st. at the request of the federal government from whom they lease the property. It is a future sight for the new post office.

The mayor signed a new ordinance regulating the operation of taxicabs after next Jan. 1.

Under the ordinance owners and operators of taxicabs must secure their chauffeur's licenses from the Chief of Police after he is satisfied they are qualified drivers and the cabs are in good mechanical condition and covered by insurance. They will be charged $15.00 each year.

The ordinance does not apply to cabs entering the City on the completition of a trip originating outside the city limits.

Mayor Hanna and City Manager E. J. Nelson were delegated to represent the city at the annual conference of the Michigan Municipal League to be held at Mackinac Island Sept. 5-7.

Mayor Hanna said their wives could accompany them on the motor trip.

The City Manager's report informed the Council that curb and gutter work was completed on Seminole and West Brown streets and is now in progress on Adrian and Kilbuck.

South Outer Drive has been seal-coated in addition to bad areas on Red Mill Drive and Water st.

Nelson stated he was in Lansing last week when the lowest bid of $197,721.38 from Canonia Construction Co., Grand Haven, Mich., for the construction of the new M-52 Raisin River bridge in Tecumseh, was accepted by the State Highway Dept.

Bids have to be rechecked and paperwork disposed of before actual construction commences, Nelson said.

The basement walls are about completed and trenching for ground floor footing for the new City Hall is underway. Sewer has been installed from the street to the building.

Lighting Planned for New Highways To Assure Safe Night Visibility

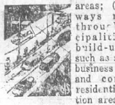
A great lessening of the night traffic accident horror is seen for the future on new highways designed by the state highway departments in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Information on plans to light hazardous locations was obtained by a poll of state highway departments.

The following states answered "yes" to the question, "Do your highway construction cost estimates include provisions for lighting hazardous highway locations?"

Ala.
Ariz.
Ark.
Calif.
Colo.
Conn.
Del.
Ga.
Ida.
Ill.
Ind.
Kans.
Ky.
La.
Me.
Md.
Mass.
Mich.
Miss.
Minn.
Mo.
Mont.
Neb.
N. H.
Nev.
N. Mex.
N. Car.
N. Dak.
Ohio
Okla.
Ore.
R. I.
S. C.
Tenn.
Tex.
Utah
Va.
Wash.
W. Va.
Wyo.

Prominent in these plans is provision for lighting hazardous locations to assure safe night visibility. Such locations are: Interstate Highways and other controlled Access Roadways —(a) interchanges and intersections; (b) connections to service areas; (c) elevated and depressed expressways; (e) bridges, overpasses and viaducts; (f) high traffic density sections; (g) areas made unusually hazardous by regular or frequent conditions impended by weather or climatic conditions; (h) transition sections such as changes in number of lanes and traffic direction.



Uncontrolled Access Roadways —All of the above and in addition: (i) dangerous curves and hills; (j) railroad grade crossings; (k) approach to urban areas; (l) highways running through municipalities with build-up areas such as suburban business districts and congested residential section areas.

It is at these locations that changes in speed or direction of travel create hazards requiring maximum visibility for safety.

Illuminating engineers and national authorities on traffic safety at night hail with enthusiasm the designing of lighting into hazardous highway locations by 40 of 48 states.

"Until now, lighting has been installed on highways by very few states to a very limited extent," said Edmond C. Powers, educational director of the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau of Cleveland, Ohio, leader in the national campaign advocating adequate street and highway lighting for safe visibility at night.

"When we realize that inability to see accident hazards in time to stop or avoid collision annually causes the deaths of 10,000 persons, serious injuries to 500,000 others and an economic loss of $1 billion, we derive tremendous satisfaction from the lighting provisions in new highway plans."

"The new highways referred to are those in the 41,000-mile road-building program authorized by Congress under leadership of President Eisenhower and being engineered by state highway departments in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads."

Falling Tree Cuts Power to North Tecumseh, Britton

Electric power to many northside Tecumseh homes and many as far east as Britton was cut off at 3:45 p.m. Monday by a falling tree.

Full service was not restored until 7 p.m.

Employees of the city's sewage disposal plant, aided by City Manager E. J. Nelson, rushed to close all the plant's gates when the electric moter-driven pumps were stopped. Before service was restored, an inch of water had seeped into the basement of the plant.

The Consumer Power Co. was flooded with telephone calls.

According to George L. Pinkerman, line foreman for the power company, a tree a youth was felling in the rear of his home near N. Wyandotte and E. Shawnee st., fell the wrong way and broke a primary line carrying 12,500 volts. The dangling hot wire set a small grass fire and melted a portion of a woven wire fence but fortunately the youth or no one else were injured, Pinkerman said.

Five power company employees immediately installed jumper lines and restored partial service for the rest of the afternoon until broken line could be spliced.

To make the final splice, complete service was stopped for about eight minutes prior to 7 p.m., he said.

Homeowners in Indian Acres subdivision and those around Herrick Park were worst hit. Only one of the three primary power lines supplying Britton was affected, according to Pinkerman.

I have rented a room here and will return to my home in Plymouth weekends until my wife, Madeline, and I dispose of property there.

I'll miss my little Cheryl Ann's "Hi Daddy" every night and my son Roger's persistent questioning about such subjects as "are there just lady-bugs or are there man bugs?" "can a lion beat a tiger?" or "how high is the sky?"

But I'm sure I'll have enough to keep my mind occupied striving to put out a good newspaper with something of interest to everyone.

If I fail, feel free to call me at 476 and perhaps we can remedy the situation. If I don't fail, call me anyway with some news. We can always use more.

A small newspaper, unable to have a big staff of reporters like dailies, depends on its readers to contribute news.

LINK REPORT . . . .

By Leo Bishop

Twenty-six teams in this year's Calcutta golf tourney will complete their final rounds at the Tecumseh Country Club.

The two-man teams played their first 18 holes last Sunday.

The course is in fine shape and every participant is spending long hours practicing and trying to remember the endless list of "do's" and "don't's."

A large score board has been erected at No. 1 tee to give a hole by hole description of the tournament.

We again are fortunate to have Jane Ellen Smith to keep the score on our big board. This well run tournament was handled by the ladies, who checked all score cards. They sure deserve a lot of credit. Thank you, Helen Sisson, Eve Bowen, Laura Bishop, Marge Purcell, Pauline Moore and Millie Butler.

Elimination matches continue toward the various club championships to be crowned Sunday, Sept. 2.

Results Men's Champ. Flight

Paul Callahan defeated defending champion Frank Rice, 1 up in 18 holes, putting him in a favorable position to win the title.

Bill Macbeth won over Don Smith, 5 and 4.

Four other golfers have yet to play their matches.

The golfer's games show improvement this year. Still in the tournament is our good friend, Cthuck Butler, at the mellow age of 62. His game is still sharp and he can give any young steer a run for his money.

First Flight Results

Paul Clauda, playing one of his best rounds of golf, defeated Virgil Tucker, 2 up. Tucker had many chances to even the match but commented that his putter would not behave.

A hard fought match found Dr. M. Blanden was a 1 up victor over Max Smith Sr. This match was interesting and well played.

Bill Hanna playing his usual fine brand of golf reached the semi-finals in defeating Dr. Robert Bowers to a 3-2 count. He is a strong contender for the 1st flight crown.

Men's Second Flight

Charles Stevenson found Buck Miller to his liking, winning 6 and 5. Miller claims, "too much vacation."

Men's Third Flight

Tim "Tiger" Neill won over Paul Keyser 2 and 1 in the quarter finals. Neill's booming drives off the tees did not rattle Keyser, for his short game was far superior to Neill's.

Men's Third Flight

Frank Owen had a thrill packed match with Bill Koster, 3 and 2. This puts Owen in the semi-finals with Tim Neill, which will be a match well worth anyone's time to watch. There will be no charge for this special match. Cameras may be used to photograph your favorite player.

Ladies' Championship Flight

Defending champion Pauline Moore had her hands full in winning over Mary Bowers. Both players playing fairly even the first nine with scores, Moore 46, Bowers 47. Then Moore, on the back nine, hit the stride that won her eight championships in the past eight years. Keeping a torrid pace of 41 strokes, she won the match 4 and 2. Moore advanced to the finals.

Another interesting match was played by Ruth Hanna eliminating Helen Kelso, last year's runner-up, 1 up after 20 long drawn out holes. In this match, Kelso, 2 down at the end of 15 holes, won 16, tied 17 and of 15 holes, won 16, tied 17 and won 18 to force the match into sudden-death overtime. Hanna won with a par on No. 20.

Ladies' First Flight

Ernie Andrews defeated Sugar Woods in another thrill packed sudden-death play-off which Andrews won on the 19th hole.

Ladies' Second Flight

Another well played and equally as exciting match saw K. Krueger defeat Eve Bowen on the 19th.

Low gross scores for the Calcutta were: Roger Linger, 76; Chuck Newell, 78; Frank Rice, 79; Cal Damon, 79; Lorian Callahan, 79; Bill Macbeth, 79; Dr. B. Laidlaw, 80; and Bob Hoeskstra, 80.

There was an aggregate total of 12 eagles and 162 birdies in the 52 rounds.

Local Archer Wins

Ralph Helzerman, Jr., proudly displays the Intermediate Boys' Free Style Championship plaque and the 35-pound bow with which he won his class at the National Field Archery Association Tournament held at Watkins Glen, New York on Aug. 11-15.

Boys were required to shoot three separate rounds—a 56 Field Target round, 56 Hunters round and a 56 Big Game round. They shot four arrows at a time over 15 to 80 yard distances. The championship was determined by the combined scores of the three events.

Ralph won the championship with a total score of 2190, including a first place in the Hunters round and runner-up in the Field Target and Big Game rounds. Second place winner in the tournament was Kenneth Smathers of North Carolina with 2118, while third place went to Dale Hansen of Hillsdale with 2102.

Fourteen-year-old Ralph will enter the tenth grade at Tecumseh High School this fall. He has been shooting for two and a half years.

Among the many titles won during that period, he lists the Michigan State Field Championship, State Target Championship, and Lenawee County Championship. He won the Aquarama Meet at Germaine Park in Toledo, Ohio, last Sunday.

Ralph will defend his State Field Championship at Howell on Sunday, Aug. 25 and his State Target Championship at Jackson on Sunday, Sept. 1. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman, sisters, Sylvia and Marilyn, and Richard Johnston acompanied him to the National meet.

The 1957 National Tournament was held on nine courses in the Connecticut Hills with 1090 persons, the largest group in history, competing. Michigan regained the Women's title with Ann Marston of Wyandotte shooting 2390 for a meet record.

The men's championship was not decided until the final moments of the shoot, with only 14 points separating first and fourth place in the final tally. Harold Doan of Adrian placed fourth.

The 1958 National Tournament will be held in Grayling, Michigan, at the National Guard Encampment.

Mrs. Nettleman Wins Golf Match

Twenty-five women played in the Bingo-Bango-Bungo Tournament Wednesday at the Tecumseh Country Club. Mrs. Don Nettleman and Mrs. Clarence Champanois were tied as winners with Mrs. Nettleman winning in the draw. Mrs. Robert Bowers won with low putts. This tournament was played by a point system with a possible three points for each hole; a point for being first on the green, a point for being nearest to the pin and a point for being first in the cup.

Field and Stream

A fresh water fish never drinks water because water continually seeps through its gill membrane. The ocean fish drinks sea water, its gills de-salting it and making it drinkable.

---

Although the mountain lion has a natural aversion to water, it can —if necessary—swim exceptionally well.

Michigan produced an estimated 21,000,000 tons of portland cement during 1956, with a value of more than $64,000,000.

Water continues to increase in importance and value as a mineral resource. Each citizen in modern society requires more than 1300 gallons daily to meet direct and indirect needs. For example, it takes 65,000 gallons of water to produce one ton of finished steel.

---

Approximately 70,000,000 pounds of wild rabbit are harvested every year in the United States. During the 1956 small game season, Michigan hunters bagged 1,487,000 cottontails.

---

Marquette county, largest of Michigan's 83 counties, also contains the most lakes and the most miles of streams. The county contains 835 lakes, about 1900 miles of streams and 68 miles of Lake Superior shoreline.

Mineral production in Michigan in 1956 had an estimated value of $390,000,000, a seven percent increase over 1955 production.

Sealed bids for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of the City of Tecumseh, Michigan, of the par value of $39,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at the City Hall, Tecumseh, Michigan until 5:00 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, on the 4th day of September 1957, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The notes will be dated 12 August 1957, will mature 12 August 1958 and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 3 per cent per annum. ## Adventure Awaits 300 MSU Students In Honors College

An educational adventure awaits 300 Michigan State University students who will enroll this fall fall in the university's new Honors College.

Because of their outstanding academic records, these undergraduate honor students are being given a chance to map out their own independent courses of study—a privilege ordinarily reserved for experienced graduate students.

All requirements for graduation from Michigan State University — except total number of hours — are being waived for these sophomore and junior students. They will be assigned faculty advisors to help work out programs of individual study to best meet their own interests and talents.

Although various colleges within the university have had honors courses for students who show aptitude for independent study in some fields, this is the first attempt at M.S.U. to establish a complete university-wide program.

"It is doubtful if any university in the United States has an across-the-board honors program of this scope," stated Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda, Honors College director.

"We want to allow the serious student at Michigan State University to move as fast as his talent and desires dictate — no matter what his field. All students will be eligible, whether their educational field is practical or classical, in science or the arts."

Suits, Topcoats and Sports Apparel Worn on Campus

The weeks before matriculation at college are most important for any young fellow. So much has to be crammed into a tight schedule that there isn't always time to shop around for the right wardrobe to take to school.

To avoid buying haphazardly, here are a few helpful hints on the kind of clothes you'll need the first year.

Enrolment is high in striped sport coats. Undergrads wear them styled in the slim silhouette, three button prefered.

Comfort is one of the prime requisites for good studying habits. The neat checked sportshirt of soft wool provides the right degree of style and practability.

SUITS: Stripes are right for university men. Select a striped wool flannel suit styled in the slim "Ivy" silhouette, and you'll definitely "belong." Gray is about the most popular color on campus. Olive-green rates second.

TOPCOATS: The raglan-shoulder model, natch! If college is in colder climes, add a zip-in wool plaid liner, and you're set for warmth as well as good looks.

SPORT COATS: You can't go wrong in either a striped or small hound's-tooth checked pattern, and here wool plays an important role. For wool adds distinction to sports apparel. It's a sign that you're hep to campus fashions.

SLACKS: Keep to slim-legged, pleatless wool flannels — back strapped. This style is the college favorite across the nation, and it teams up handsomely with three-button wool tweed sports coats.

FORMAL WEAR: Include a light-weight wool-worsted dinner jacket and troucers—navy or black and styled in the "Ivy" slim silhouette. It's good to have because there'll be many occasions when formal attire is worn.

with turn-up shawl collar passes the test. They're comfortable in class as well as out. Also, don't forget to pack a soft Shetland wool sweater, long-sleeved and with crew neck.

STADIUM COATS: Finger-tip length, or shorter, all eyes are drawn to the rich wool tweed tones. Hooded stadium coats are coming back, and for the more daring, there's a stadium cape for warm wool melton.

SOCKS: Wool argyles, of course. Red, black and white are color accents. Try panel argyles or diamonds for change of pace. Wool socks provide warmth as well as comfort, and they're easy to wash.

HATS: Low-crowned pork-pie, as well as the new Tela-Pinch. Include a striped wool cap for wear with campus outerjackets.

SHIRTS: Striped, with button-down collar, for suits. Wool plaid cut and sewn, or placket model wool knit sports shirts for classroom.

REPORT SAYS

Colleges Should Double Output Of Teachers

Michigan colleges and universities face the task of educating about 35,000 teachers over and above their present rate of output in the next 10 years if the qualifications of the teaching staffs are to be brought up to "minimum standards."

This is the contention of a subcommittee on teacher education of the Michigan Council of State College Presidents in a recent report entitled, "Teacher Demand and Supply in Michigan — 1954-1970." Dean Charles Odegaard of The University of Michigan College of Literature, Science and the Arts, served as chairman of the subcommittee, and Dean Willard Olson of the School of Education also worked on it.

The 35,000 figure represents an annual increase of 3,500 teachers, or about 86 per cent more than the 4,050 teachers now educated each year. The increased demand is the result of the heavy enrollments in elementary schools brought on by a high birthrate during World War II which continues to the present.

This wave of children is expected to reach its peak in the elementary schools in 1961, and, as it moves through the school system, to reach its peak in the secondary schools in 1966, the report states.

While enrollments in the public schools have been increasing rapidly, enrollment in the non-public schools has grown more than four times as fast. Non-public schools enrolled four out of every 10 new pupils during the 1940-50 decade.

The latest data available (for the 1949-51 period) show the pupil-teacher ratio in non-public elementary schools to be 34.1 compared to 29.1 in public schools. In secondary schools, the pupil-teacher ratio in the non-public schools was 37.1, and in the public schools 25.1, an even greater disparity.

In elementary schools, says the report, 30 students has long been established as the best working maximum for one teacher. In secondary schools, an average ratio that appears desirable is 25 pupils to one teacher, the report adds.

Starting College Was An Adventure Way Back In 1858

So you're going away to college this fall!

Ever wonder how high school girl graduates of a century ago felt about the momentous step of leaving home to pursue a higher education?

It's all down in the diary of Elizabeth Gurney Taylor, whose 13 volume record is in the possession of The University of Michigan Historical Collections. Lizzie lived with her folks and sister Clara on a farm near Centerville.

Lizzie writes on October 6, 1858: "Arrived in Ypsilanti safe at last. Tuesday I got the last thing packed and by two o'clock Mr. McCormick started to take Ma and me to Three Rivers. Arrived there in an hour and a half. At six we started in the stage for Kalamazoo. Rode till midnight, most of the time on a very bad plank road. Fell in company with Mr. Fairchilds of Sturgis which made it more pleasant.

"We were pretty tired when we arrived in Kalamazoo. Took a room for three hours but had to be in readiness for the cars at 4 a.m. and rode in a slow train called 'Night Express.'

"Arrived in Ypsilanti at 10 a.m. and took breakfast at Hawkins House. Found a young lady who knew the way to Mrs. Creelman's and took us there. We became acquainted with Miss Keys who went with us to the Normal School where we saw Professors Welch, Miller, etc.

"I was requested to be there at 3 p.m. to be examined. In arithmetic and geography I was put in class B, in grammar, C. I am to review geography at home and prepare for examination before I leave."

Mothers, it seems, were helpful then as now! "Ma went down the street to hire a piano. (Lizzie was a music major). This morning at 8 I went to school in company with the girls. Was put in a Latin class. But I must leave the rest until tomorrow."

Next day she writes: "Yesterday we got something of a start in school. At 2, Ma and I went to see Professor Welch. Became acquainted with his sister who teaches my Latin class. Met Professor Miller and found out the terms for my music lessons. Soon after we returned, the piano was brought to the house. It is a miserable concern," she laments.

Christian Science Sunday Service

The wisdom of basing thought on constructive, perfect, spiritual models will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mind" is the Golden Text from Romans (11:33): "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments and his ways past finding out!"

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (248:26-29): "We must form perfect models in thought and look at them continually, or we shall never carve them out in grand and noble lives."

Scriptural readings include the following (Philippians 3:15): "Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you."

Foreclosure Laws Cause High Mortgage Discounts

Why was Michigan singled out, along with the Mountain States, for the highest allowable mortgage discounts under the new FHA program? It's because investors hesitate to put money into Michigan mortgages.

R. George Ransford, president of the Detroit Mortgage Bankers Association, places the blame for this situation on Michigan's foreclosure laws.

Under a statutory foreclosure, Ransford explained, three months elapse before property can be put up for a sheriff's sale. Then the mortgagor has a year in which to redeem his property by paying up the loan. That's 15 months at an absolute minimum. But there are delays.

In actual practice, it works out to about 19 months before the property is actually taken over. Eastern banks and insurance companies, heavy investors in mortgages, prefer to put their money in states which have quicker foreclosure procedures, Ransford said.

Indiana, he pointed out, has a new foreclosure law which cuts the redemption period to six months after the sheriff's sale.

In Ohio, the period is 90 days. In Texas, it is just 21 days.

But Illinois outdoes Michigan in making foreclosures difficult. There the mortgagor has 19 months to redeem his property.

He said even the top 2½ per cent discount and the new 5¼ per cent FHA interest rate will not be enough to attract out-of-state money in the volume builders and real estate brokers would like.

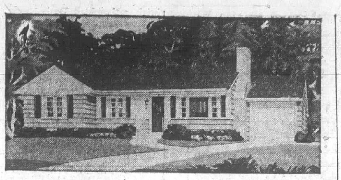
The DMBA and other housing industry groups have been seeking flexible interest rates as a means of eliminating the need for discounts.

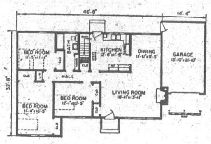
"There has been a great hue and cry," Ransford said, "about increasing interest rates. But money costs more today, just as everything we use costs more.

"People lose sight of the fact that a flexible interest rate is better for the home buyer than the present mortgage discounts.

"If a home seller has to pay a discount, he passes much of that cost along to the buyer. This is a fixed cost and once it is paid, it is gone.

"On the other hand, if interest rates were flexible and discounts were dropped, the home buyer would have the opportunity of minimizing his interest payment by pre-paying the mortgage," Ransford added.





Here is a ranch home with attached garage that provides every practical living comfort. It has three bedrooms, with plenty of closet space, large living, dining and kitchen facilities. A well planned traffic pattern makes every room in the home easy to reach. The home has 1,327 sq. ft. of living space.

Plans are available from local lumber dealers.

Tips On Patching Concrete Cracks

To repair a hairline crack in concrete, sweep out all the dust and dirt first, wetting it down. Then brush in a flowing mixture of portland cement and water.

To fix a medium sized crack, undercut the edges. That is, make the crack wider at the bottom than at the top. Remove loose materials, wet down and fill with a workable mixture of cement, sand and water.

Use a workable mixture of cement, sand, gravel and water or a prepared gravel mix to repair a large break. Follow the procedure described above.

To patch breaks in a driveway, reinforce the gravel mix with metal — use hardware cloth or chicken wire — pressed down halfway into the mixture.

The concrete mixture requires only enough water to make it workable. Too much will weaken the concrete.

An important part of patching is "curing" the concrete — wetting the concrete a couple of times a day for several days. A large patch, exposed to wind and sun, should be covered wits straw, burlap, canvas or sand after it has hardened slightly. The cover can be moistened every day for about a week.

To provide a rough finish to match a surrounding surface, use a wooden float. A metal trowel will produce a smooth surface.

Hardwood Floors Becoming Popular

Highlighting the current emphasis on beutifully grained wood in home decoration these days is the growing trend toward hardwood floors set off with area or accent rugs.

In most instances the floors are of handsome oak, famed for lifetime durability as well as matchless natural beauty. Other attractive hardwoods frequently chosen include hard maple, beech, birch and pecan. All are distinguished by their ease of upkeep, a highly important factor in their mounting popularity.

Home maintenance specialists point out that in the average family floors of fine hardwood retain their inviting appearance when cleaned and waxed only two or three times a year. Occasional polishing between waxings helps maintain a constant sparkle. A quick daily dusting with an untreated dust mop removes loose dirt and dust before they can dim the luster of the wood.

Exposed hardwood floors present an especially harmonious effect, the experts explain, in homes where one or more walls are finished with attractive wood paneling.

Prepare Now For Winter Comfort

Fall is near and it's time for the handy man to load his calking gun and shoot for comfort during the coming winter.

Time spent filling cracks and chinks in the outer surfaces of the house is paid for in protection against moisture and weathering.

Calk around windows, door sills, frames and combination screen-storm window installations. Calk along sill at point where it rests on the foundation wall; where walls or roof and walls meet; around wood trim on the house.

Calk where boards meet, if there is an appreciable crack.

If the crack under treatment is very wide or deep, stuff first with oakum or a mineral wool insulation.

o

FHA Corrects Misconceptions

Norman P. Mason, Commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, says he would be much happier if some widely held misconceptions about the FHA were corrected. For instance:

The FHA has minimum property standards but does not dictate how a house is to be built.

CHANGING THE GUARD

The nation, we are sure, salutes Neil H. McElroy, Procter & Gamble president as a very brave man. None other, after what has happened to the retiring Charles W. Wilson, would dare accept the Defense portfolio with the front rank exposure it offers to snipers.

And by the same token, Mr. Wilson is entitled to whatever decoration there is for the head that is bloody but unbowed, as well as the thanks of the American people for his fearless and unselfish devotion to the gravest responsibility in government.

Just how unselfish Mr. Wilson's service has been is pointed up today as the Senate Armed Services committee considers whether or not Mr. McElroy should divest himself about $600,000 worth of P & G stock before confirmation. It will be recalled that the committee required Mr. Wilson to sell G.M. stock worth two-and-a-half million dollars four-and-a-half years ago. Economists have figured that appreciation of this stock (which has since been split three-for-one) together with dividends, plus the difference between his $25,000 Government pay and the $600,000 a year in G.M. pay and bonuses, mean that Mr. Wilson's service to his country has cost him about seven million dollars.

In the case of Mr. McElroy, Chairman Richard B. Russell of the committee says he expects no conflict-of-interest difficulty, but added: "Of course, we will have a hearing to satisfy the committee and the Senate on this point and on his background." While Procter & Gamble, like every other large firm, does considerable business with the Government, Mr. McElroy, himself, pointed out that it is "very little when compared with General Motors and other corporations dealing in defense orders."

We can't believe that the appointee is suggesting there is a price-tag on honesty, any more than we believe that a man big enough for a cabinet post should be required to sabotage his personal fortune for the privilege of serving. But, in view of past procedure, the committee should be reminded that if a flour milling company can go into defense production, so might a soap-maker. And certainly there would be a lifted eyebrow if "regulations" were to require all the Wacs and Waves and Spars and Wafs to wash their stockings in Ivory Snow.

As for the divested Mr. Wilson, he will also be jobless after September first. But, recalling his outspoken preference for bird dogs over kennel dogs, we do not expect him to "sit on his fanny and holler."

Realty Views

"We're new here in town," Clyde Largon said, "what do you have to rent?"

"Nothing at the moment," I replied, "but we have several homes for sale with a small down payment."

"We should rent," Mr. Largon answered. "You see we were transferred here, but in a few years we'll be moved out. I'd say we will stay 4 or 5 years for sure, and maybe more, up to 10."

"That's reason enough to buy then," I explained. "In 10 years, for example, you'd pay $7,200 in rent at $60 per month. It just happens we have a neat 2 bedroom home for sale with $500 down and payments of $60 per month. The total price is only $7,000. In 10 years you'd have a lot of it paid for, and a reasonably large equity even in 4 or 5 years. Furthermore, you would assure yourself of comfortable quarters all the time you live here — with no extra moves. And the amount you pay for taxes and interest is an allowable deduction in figuring your income tax."

They did, and as we walked out the back door into the nice yard, Mr. Largon asked his wife, "Has Mr. Kohler sold a house?"

"Yes," she said with a big smile, "I think he has. This is neater and nicer than anything we were offered for rent. Let's buy it."

We have MORE good homes available on easy terms. So if you wish to buy, come in and talk things over.

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

DRYING WORTH WHILE

Drying your corn at harvest can make it worth 17 to 20 cents a bushel more at the elevator than if you take the moisture dock.

Besides that, the saving you can make on picking losses by harvesting earlier will all but cover the cost of drying and handling, reports George K. Dike, Lenawee county agricultural agent.

According to Bob Maddex, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State University, that's the experience some Michigan farmers have had when they swung over to shell corn harvesting and batch drying with heated air.

One of the most important advantages of this harvesting method is that picking losses are cut back because corn can be harvested at about 30 per cent moisture. This reduces shelling and ear dropping.

Maddex says that every week harvest is delayed after October 15, a bushel per acre will be lost. He figures that at least 7 per cent more of the yield can be saved with early harvesting.

On a 60-bushel crop this would be a saving of slightly over 4 bushels per acre, worth about $4.50. The cost of drying and handling runs from 7 to 12 cents a bushel so it would cost from $4 to $7 to dry 60 bushels, says Maddex.

If you're not sure you would like heated air drying in the long run, Maddex suggests that you could give it a try this fall by hiring a custom operator. Some farmers who own dryers and corn combines have been doing the work at about the cost of owning and running your own rig. If you have a small acreage of corn, hiring a custom operator may be the cheapest every year.

If you are planning to feed your corn and want to use a dryer, Maddex advises ear corn drying with unheated air. This system takes less investment and has lower operating costs. Total cost of ear corn drying will run around 3 to 4 cents a bushel, he says.

However, ear corn drying doesn't work out well if you plan to sell corn in winter or put it under loan. Maddex explains you can't depend on fall temperatures to stay warm enough to get the job done on time.

With feed corn you can get enough water out so it won't spoil during the winter and then finish the drying in the spring when the air warms up.

Some other advantages of drying with either method, according to Maddex are: better working conditions because the crop can be harvested before fall rains begin; more acres can be handled with the same number of men and one set of machinery; machines operate better when corn is at 26 to 28 per cent moisture than when it is below 22 per cent.

Potato Blight Showing Up In Northern Mich.

Late potato blight has been showing up in some counties of northern Michigan and could spread to other parts of the state.

Cool nights and warm days we have at this time of the year are ideal for the growth and spread of late blight spores. It is advised that farmers with potatoes to shorten their spray interval and use the Bordeaux mixture spray.

This spray is made by mixing 8 pounds of copper sulfate and 4 pounds of spray lime with 100 gallons of water. To prevent blight apply 125 to 150 gallons per acre of this spray at weekly intervals.

This mixture works better on late blight than organic sprays because it lasts longer. If a weekly spraying is delayed, the copper would continue to give protection while organic materials might allow blight to get a foot-hold.

Organic sprays such as Dithane and Parzate are recommended to protect potatoes from early blight.

If your fields are infected with blight, potatoes should not be dug while the vines are green. If the spores have a chance to drop on the tubers, they will cause rotting in storage.

To be on the safe side, use a vine killer even if you are not sure about having blight in your crop. To kill vines, you can use 2 pounds of dinitro per acre in 5 to 10 gallons of fuel oil and 20 to 40 gallons of water; or use sodium arsenite vine killer according to the manufacturers' directions.

Mystery Farm Raises Tomatoes

Last week's mystery farm was identified as the Percy Cadmus farm at 8248 Milwaukee Road, a mile north of Ridgeway in Macon Township. The farm was bought by Mr. Cadmus' parents in 1900 and he was born and raised there. It has seen three generations of the Cadmus family.

The family does general farming on the 100 acres of land. They specialize in growing 15 acres of tomatoes which are sold to the Campbell Soup Co. They also raise registered Shorthorn cattle, corn, wheat, and oats.

Mr. Cadmus and his wife, Lilah, were married in 1922. They have seven children, four boys—Richard of Clinton; John, a student at Michigan State University; Russell, 12 and Tom, 10, both at home, and three daughters—Mrs. Donald (Eleanor) Mueller of Macon; Mrs. Jack (Charlotte) Patterson of Adrian; and Elaine, 14, at home.

The Cadmus' belong to the National and State Grange and attend the Congregational Church in Britton. Mr. Cadmus is a director of the Patrons Mutual Insurance Company. Mrs. Cadmus belongs to the Britton Women's Club, the Macon Extension Club, and will teach school in Milan this year.

In recent years they have remodeled the house and enlarged the yard. Mrs. Cadmus stated "I can't think of any hobby, unless it's just hard work."

The farm was identified by Richard Moore of Route 1, Britton, who was given a two-year subscription by the Tecumseh Herald. An aerial photograph and a two-year subscription to the Herald was given to the Cadmus family by Hayden Mills, the feature's sponsor.

Yield Boost Best Bet To Raise Income

The best bet for boosting your farm labor income is to try to increase yields and production rates so that your unit cost will be less. That's the observation made by farm economists, after studying records kept by 500 dairy, livestock and general farmers throughout the state.

Farmers in the study were paid more for their labor in 1956 than they have been since 1952. They took in more money in 1956 and expenses were higher, too. But expenses went up only about two-thirds as much as income. Based on the records and operations of those farmers that had a higher labor income last year, these conclusions were drawn. Farms are becoming more specialized. The enterprises are becoming larger and more commercialized. Those on farms are faced with either changing, investing, expanding and improving or else selling or renting the land out. Many farm operations are also becoming larger, but the same amount of labor is doing the work.

Farm Workday Is Shortening

By cutting the time it takes to do the chores, farmers are shortening their working day.

According to a study made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, farmers averaged 10.7 hours work per day around June 1 of this year. At the same time in 1956, the average was 10.9 hours per day and in 1955 it was 11.2.

Increased sizes of herds and flocks, improved building arrangement and use of more modern equipment have also helped reduce the workday, the study indicated.

Raisin Club Enjoys Picnic

The Raisin Green Bees Extension Club enjoyed a family picnic dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Downing on Occidental highway. Eight families attended. The afternoon was spent enjoying games. Plans were made for the Sept. 16 meeting to be held at Mrs. George Downard's home.

Meyers Aircraft Co. Testing New Airplane Now

Springport Book Bindery
Springport, Mich.

Employee James Bishop is checking hydraulic system on plane's retractable landing gear.

The story behind the Meyers Aircraft Co. begins in 1927 about the time Lindbergh flew the Atlantic. That was when Al was learning how to fly.

Nine years later, Al, who is reluctant to discuss his personal accomplishments, had advanced to the point that he was skillfully flight testing a small two-wing, 145-horsepower trainer that he built in his own small plant in Wayne.

Until 1940 he produced and sold this plane to civilians.

Then when the government started the civilian pilot training program on a mass production basis, the Meyers trainer was the first such plane approved and his total production was purchased for this purpose.

That was when three prominent Tecumseh citizens, the late Dr. H. H. Hammel, Bill Sage and John Murphy, who had started the Tecumseh Airport a year before, induced Meyers to move his expanding production here.

Al's brother, Otto (who spells his last name Meier), an engineer at Lockheed Aircraft in California, then joined him in supervising the important job. Soon they were producing a plane a day and employed 300 workers.

In 1943, with this trainer no longer in such demand, the brothers turned their production to engine mounts for the B-29 bomber, and invasion glider parts.

Since the war the aircraft company has been producing civilian planes and perfecting a new aircraft designated Model 200.

This 240-horsepower plane with four seats and a cruising speed of 185 miles per hour and a range of 600 miles, is now receiving its final flight tests by two Civil Aeronautical Authority pilots. They have been here since Aug. 2.

The government-assigned test area for this airport is enclosed by a line two miles east of Tecumseh, west to the village of Onsted, south to Clayton, east to Adrian, and back north to Tecumseh. This area least interfers with passing aircraft, Al said.

The company also has ventured into manufacture of non-aircraft items, and this phase, under Otto, currently is making five types of boat trailers, seven models of aluminum boats, aluminum truck bodies and doing general steel fabricating, and jointly the whole company has 50 employees.

Meyers Aircraft purchased the airport in 1941 and now is the site for the current controversial "drag" races. The airport is for public use and a dozen private and three company planes also use the field. The North-South runway, which was paved by Ray Herrick, board chairman of Tecumseh Products Co., when he kept his personal plane there from 1950 to 1955, is 2,650 feet long. The East-West runway is 2,250 feet.

Editor's Corner . . .

BY RALPH BIDWELL

Those picturesque Indian names assigned to many streets in Tecumseh by early settlers depicted interesting facts about the particular tribes.

Ivan Walton, professor of English at the University of Michigan, says the French and English altered some of the original Indian names but most remain just as they have been spoken for centuries.

The Indian language was primarily oral with only a few crude symbols written but was well-developed and not unmusical.

The Pottawatomies, who were responsible for the name Kalamazoo applied to a river, city and county, means "bright sparkling water," says Prof. Walton.

Iroquois, the name given by the French and their Algonquian Indian allies to the Five, later Six, nations is taken from Irinakhoiw, an Algonquin word meaning "real adders."

The member Indians called themselves Ho-de-no-sau-ne, meaning "long house building residents." This analogy was transferred to their political thought for they formed an alliance to defend themselves against outside aggressors, white man and other Indian tribes alike.

Member tribes were the Mohawk, Seneca, Onandaga, Cayuga and Oneida. Later the Tuscarora tribe was admitted to the union and adopted by the Oneidas.

This league was formed in the mid-16th century by Dekanawida and his assistant, Hiawatha, and this Iroquois Constitution is said to have impressed and influenced George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and others and many of its principles are woven into the U. S. Constitution.

Oneida, from Oneniute, meant "people of the standing

Community Chest Goal For 1957 Is $13,717

The Tecumseh Community Chest Board met Monday night, reviewed the budgets of the participating agencies and approved a quota of $13,717 to be raised during this year's drive, Oct. 15 through Nov. 15. The 1956 quota was $13,244.

Seven board members were present. The president, George Green, Jr., presided.

The resignation of Rev. Escolme, who has served continuously as secretary-treasurer of the board since its inception, was accepted with regret and the chair commended him on his splendid service to the board and the community.

The resignation of Jack Osborne was accepted also with regret.

The annual meeting to which the public is cordially invited will be held in the City Council rooms Monday, Sept. 9 at 8 p.m.

At this time the election of four trustees to serve three-year terms will be held.

The chair appointed Mrs. Truman Rentschler, Frank Rice and Mrs. H. H. Hanna to serve as a nomination committee for that occasion.

Of the $13,717, $3,717 is Tecumseh's share of the Michigan United Fund, Inc.

Vern Manwaring, local realtor, has consented to be chairman of the Community Fund Drive.

Following is a list of the participating agencies and their quotas plus any changes from those of last year:

State Aid Money Is Released To Tecumseh School

The State Aid money allocated to the Tecumseh Public Schools, amounting to $49,830 for three months, has been released by the Lenawee County treasurer and is now deposited in the school's bank account.

The money was mailed last Friday to Dwight Hodges, secretary of the school board.

Superintendent James McDowell said the faulty reports were not the fault of local school or board officials but were inherited last October when they annexed Kelly School in Raisin District No. 2.

These reports were corrected three weeks ago, acording to McDowell, but the corrections had not been noted by the State Department of Public Instruction in time apparently to prevent stoppage of the quarterly aid payment.

"Officials of the annexed school district made an incorrect quarterly report on their teacher's social security and retirement benefits to the Michigan Public School Retirement Fund Board," he said.

"For the second quarter report (April, May and June) an incorrect lump sum of money was sent to Lansing but no clarification report accompanied it.

"They failed to do anything for the July-August-September period or the records were lost in Lansing."

McDowell said "the district books were audited when the district was annexed but this audit wouldn't uncover incorrect amounts in the dispersal of funds as long as the total receipts and expenditures checked. At that time the rural school officials said

Extra City Water Expected By Nov.

The shelter for the new City well on E. Burt st. across from the Grange Hall is being built and the connecting of this additional water to City's mains is expected by Nov. 1, City Manager E. J. Nelson reports.

Final transfer of the property from Dr. Merwin R. and Mrs. Francelia F. Blanden and Mrs. Edith Smith for $3,000 has been completed. The lot comprises an area 200 by 200 feet.

Tests on the 12-inch casing pulled up to 1,000 gallons of water per minute but plans are made to install a 700 gallons per minute pump.

The City Manager has ordered the pipe to make the necessary water connections.

Races Stop When Plane Must Land

Have you wondered what happened if an airplane had to make an emergency landing at the Tecumseh Airport while the Sunday "drag" races were in progress?

A. H. Meyers, airport owner, says this situation has arisen several times.

"While the race is in progress, we announce to passing aircraft that the airport is closed by means of placing wide white strips of cloth about 12 feet long on the field in the form of a cross," Meyers said.

"If a plane approaches the airport and must land for emergency reasons, it signifies by circling the field once. We hurry and pick up the cross, clear the runway and the plane lands.

"The cross is returned to its original position, the races resume and the airport is closed until another emergency arises.

"This was all ironed out with the Civil Aeronautics Authority since this is a licensed field."

If you don't want to be troubled with call after call, don't use Herald classifieds.

Poll Shows Majority In Favor Of Stopping Races

A Tecumseh Herald poll of the River Acres subdivision and other areas adjacent to the Meyers Airport "drag" strip shows a division of opinion regarding the controversial Sunday races scheduled to be "aired" at the next meeting of the City Council Tuesday at 7:45 p.m.

There is a division of opinion even within families, but a consensus shows a majority wants something done to stop the races.

In a few instances, original signers of the petition accepted by the Council Aug. 19 have changed their position and now feel the races are a good thing.

Mrs. Royal Welch, 704 River Acres drive, at the south end of the subdivision and a considerable distance from the starting line, says "we can still hear them" and her biggest objection is "that it is doing little for Tecumseh's young people.

"Why let a nice town like Tecumseh be taken over by toughies from Detroit and Toledo," she said. "Most of the noise we hear is from cars speeding up and down the highway."

She said she signed the petition but doesn't know if she will be at the Council meeting.

Vacation Ends For Products Workers

With an unexpected week's vacation without pay under their belts, about 2,500 hourly employees return to their jobs at the Tecumseh Products Co. on Sept. 3.

Salaried personnel worked through the week as usual.

Metered Areas For 550 Cars Would Be Provided

A realistic plan, based on a comprehensive survey, to provide off-street downtown parking for 550 automobiles to make shopping in Tecumseh "more attractive" was drawn up Monday night at a special meeting of the Municipal Planning Commission.

Today members of the Commission are "feeling out" local merchants for further support and ways and means of financing this much needed program.

Specific recommendations accompanied by a detailed map of the four downtown shopping blocks are expected to be presented to the City Council within a month with notations to act as soon as possible on acquiring various properties.

If this plan is carried out, the recommendations will provide for only one entrance and one exit to the parking areas in center of each block, selected to provide the easiest flow of traffic downtown, to install parking meters, blacktop the surfaces and provide ample lighting and direct pedestrian areaways from the lots to Chicago Boulevard.

This will in turn encourage the merchants to improve the rear of their stores and also provide rear entrances for the shopper's convenience, they said.

Interjected into the meeting was the suggestion that efforts be made to purchase the new post-office property on S. Pearl St., now under a three-year lease to the City and used for unmetered parking. In exchange the City should provide a suitable site near the new City Hall, they said.

This parking area would provide an additional 75 parking meter areas.

City Manager E. J. Nelson said a parking meter costs $67.50 and that average annual revenue from each is about $50.

Under a long-range financing program, the meters would pay for the whole "master plan," they said.

Chairman Robert Bonner said, "it is amazing that this field hasn't been explored before."

They will recommend to the Council that any property embodied in this plan, that is for sale or comes up for sale should be purchased.

Members of the Commission who all took an active enthusiastic part in preparing the recommendations were, in addition to the chairman, Stephan Illeck, John Surratt, James Smith, Theodore Piehl, James Record, William Frownfelder and Harry Spencer. The only other member, Mrs. Gale Fisher, was absent because of illness.

Bonuses Given 30 Quaker Employees

This 22nd yearly bonus added an average of $204 to the employees' regular earnings during the company's recently ended business year.

Donald Nixon, plant manager, explained that 30 local employees were eligible this year to share in company profits. Eligibility, he said, is chiefly dependent upon six months or more of service.

Similar checks also went out to headquarters and in its other plants, grain elevators and sales offices throughout the country. Total profit-sharing sum was $1,697,006.

The plan was voluntarily established by Quaker Oats 22 years ago. It calls for setting aside each year a percentage of company earnings. Employees thus share profits whenever the firm has a successful year. To date, they have shared a total of $18,773,817 above their regular earnings.

rock." Living in the rock areas of New York along the south shores of Lake Ontario, they were the league's northern doorkeepers.

The Seneca, "people of the great mountain," probably referring to their lofty eminence south of Lake Canandaigua, N. Y., manned the western doors.

The Ottawas, an important tribe of the Algonquian family that opposed the Iroquoian league, resided in the Ottawa River region in Canada. It is from "adawe," meaning to trade, buy and sell. Chief Pontiac, after whom the city is named, was Chief of the Detroit Ottawas.

Shawnee, contracted from Algonquian Shawanogi, means "southerners," because originally this tribe, an offshoot of the Delawares, migrated into the South and were later driven into Ohio and Illinois by the Cherokee and Chickasaw tribes.

Early in the 19th century, Tenskwatawa, the "Shawano prophet," brother of the celebrated Tecumseh, tried with his brother to unite many tribes of mid-western Indians to reclaim the land taken by invading white settlers and preached a new doctrine that they should all return to their old simple way of life.

In 1808, they established on Tippecanoe Creek in Indiana north of present city of Lafayette but while Tecumseh was away, the Indians led by Tenskwatawa were defeated in battle on Nov. 7, 1811, by U. S. Troops under Gen. William Henry Harrison, later president.

Then when Chief Tecumseh, who joined the British with the rank of Brigadier General in the War of 1812 and took part in the capture of Detroit, was killed in the battle of Thames River, 50 miles east of Windsor, Canada, the spirit of the Shawnee tribe was broken.

Tecumseh was called "an Indian's Indian" by Musgrove Evans, one of the city's first settlers and original surveyor, and that is why his name was chosen for the Raisin River community, according to Miss Clara Waldron, city historian.

The Chippewa, a popular adaptation of the word Objibaw, means "gathering," which referred to the style of moccasin they wore.

Chippewa stories provided much of the background for Longfellow's well known poem, "Hiawatha," that also mentioned Nakomis, who raised him.

Wyandotte or Huron, is from an English adaptation of the French Quendat from the native Grendat, signifying "they are the islanders," because the tribe was composed of remnants of several independent tribes.

On South Union there is a good 3 bedroom for sale with about 2 acres of land. Buy on a contract. We're ready to sell it.

2 family on E. Shawnee, close to high school and grade school and is in need of no repair. If you're looking for a sharp place to live and still have income better check this one.

704 Ternes Road—this is a good address to have your mail come to. At the same time you can make a good buy on this house. I might have put the wrong value on this extra good 3 bedroom so the owner says "BRING ME A OFFER." How about it?

Out on Murray Drive Dale would like his 4 bedroom home sold so he can move closer to his job. He will sell on a land contract and this baby is worth the money.

Live in style all the while, move to River Acres into a good—no not just good but real, real real good 3 bedroom built by a local contractor with his own needs in mind so it is right. Buy on contract and move in.

New 3 bedroom on Ternes Road or Seminole with or without basement, priced right I think these are the best buys in Tecumseh.

6 apt. on S. Pearl not to pretty, but pretty good investment. Will trade or sell on contract.

Every one in this town keeps looking at each other and saying "hows business." I'll tell you how ours is going. Quite normal for this time of year. We're making the normal amt. of sales, need good listings as usual, got a couple people with $1,000 to put down on some thing and I would say "DOING BUSINESS AS USUAL."

Well stop and see Lamar and Jack were ready to work for you.

Christian Science Sunday Service

Man's responsibility for demonstrating divine healing power will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christ Jesus."

Readings from the King James Version of the Bible will include the account in Luke of Jesus' healing of Peter's mother-in-law (4:39): "And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (25:22-26): "Though demonstrating his control over sin and disease, the great Teacher by no means relieved others from giving the requisite proofs of their own piety. He worked for their guidance, that they might demonstrate this power as he did and understand its divine Principle."

My Neighbors

"Can't afford the 'Business Man's Lunch.' Couldn't you fix me up with a 'Taxpayer's Salad'?"

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith.—(Galatians 5, 22.)

Why should anyone deliberately choose hatred, turmoil, misery, when the Lord Jesus—ever eager and ready to show us the way to all that is joyous and good in life—stands waiting at the door of our souls for us to ask Him to enter?

LINK REPORT . . . .

By Leo Bishop

The final curtain has been drawn on another sucessful Calcutta here at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Some golfers found the pot of gold and others just memories but they are determined that next year will be a different story. Some are in hopes that another year may improve their game enough to play a better stick and not make too many mistakes.

A large gallery saw the finish of this colorful event, giving each contestant a hardy applause after each one finished the final hole.

Results of the tournament are:

First—Paul and Lorain Callahan, 65-61 for 126.

Second—Doug Hain and Cal Damon, 64-66, 130.

Eighth—J. Damon and K. Bailey, 69-66, 135.

Men's Championship Flight

Roger Linger defeated Joe Horvath, 4-3, with Horvath pushing Linger all the way. But Linger's superior short game finally wore down Horvath. This match advanced Linger into the semi-finals. His next opponent is Bill Macbeth in the lower bracket.

Willis Porter defeated Charles Butler, 4-2, in a very close match. This puts Porter opposite Paul Callahan in the upper bracket.

Men's First Flight

Clyde Gunder defeated Dr. Laidlaw, 6-4, in a give-and-take match, advancing him into the semi-finals.

Men's Second Flight

Cal Damon defeated Art Geisenhaver, 8-6, with Damon shooting a very steady game with a fine wood game off the tee, well placed irons and sound putting. This boy, Damon, has championship blood.

Men's Third Flight

Tim Neill defeated Frank Owen, 2-up in 18 holes, advancing him to the finals.

Ladies' Championship Flight

There were no matches last week.

Ladies' First Flight

Marge Purcell won the first flight championship in a hard fought nip-and-tuck match with Ernie Andrews 1-up on the 18th hole. Both golfers are leaving on their vacations this next week and would have been unable to play on Sept. 2. Congratulations to both contestants for their fine sportsmanship.

The sixth annual husband and wife nine hole handicap tournament will be held Sunday, Sept. 8, starting at 1:30 p.m., to be followed by a steak roast at the beautiful club shelter house.

This popular event always has a high attendance.

Our defending champions, Ned and Joan Rosacrans, are playing very well and have a good chance to repeat.

This event began in 1952 and this year will be the last tournament of our golfing season.

The past champions are Mr. and Mrs. Chet Beach, 1952; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, 1953 and 1954; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Macbeth, 1955; Mr. and Mrs. Ned Rosacrans, 1956 and the winner?, 1957.

Poll Shows

Lee Fogelsong, 812 River Acres drive, a contractor who has built 13 homes in the subdivision, said, "I'm naturally baised, but homes this close can't help be affected. It is bound to affect the value of property and the desirability of vacant lots here as homesites.

"I'm not against the races but if there's that much money (he said he heard they were charging 65 cents admission per person) to be made, why can't they be held somewhere else. These home owners had to comply with high restrictions and have their house plans approved only to have 'this' move in on them.

"I was in favor of the original Tecumseh Cam Twisters and the good it did."

W. L. Cameron, 916 River Acres drive, said "I've got a grandstand seat.

"When the wind blows in this direction the dust is terrific. A week ago Saturday they started coming in at midnight, and what I object to is the noise so early in the morning. They must have been working on their cars and gunning the daylights out of them. I'd call it a real nuisance. It's a real going thing. I'd like to have the take.'

"I was away when the petition was circulated because of illness in the family."

Pointing to the fence between his property and the road right-of-way, Cameron said "two spectators, I'm sure they were not regular 'drag' racers, raced on the grass and blew dust all over the houses here. It depends largely on the direction of the wind."

Peggy Newell, 16, 1000 Red Mill drive, said "I personally enjoy the races and go over there quite often. My parents don't like them."

Paul Burns, 905 River Acres drive, a high school teacher, said "I signed the petition but now that I know both sides of the issue, think the races are educational for those competing and recreational for the spectators.

"We haven't been disturbed since the Aug. 4 races. I know Fielder (James Fielder, a partner in the Tecumseh Timing Association, sponsoring the races) from school and think the races have good management."

V. Bogatin, 1009 River Acres drive, said "the starting line is down behind those hangers and the noise doesn't affect us too much, but look at that view," pointing toward two wooden outhouses used as restrooms in the middle of the field by the runway. "I'm not opposed to the fellows racing and think they should have some place to exercise their talents. I signed the petition."

Bogatin's wife suggested they should build a wooden fence in front of their picture window, obstructing the view across the road.

Hugh Walters, 1013 Red Mill drive, said "I am against the races and signed the petition. But my wife wouldn't. We have two boys, 16 and 15. The oldest one, Tommy, works there every Sunday, so naturally she wouldn't sign.

"I'm in the doghouse now. We are quite far away and the noise doesn't bother us too much."

He said he objected to spectator's noisy driving through the neighborhood and two weeks ago "they threw beer and whisky bottles on our lawn."

Dick James, who lives on the Macon road about 1,000 feet east of the runway, said "I work there every Sunday and think everything is run very orderly.

"However, I think they (referring to the race sponsors) should have gotten approval before they moved the races here. I know Al Meyers was hesitant at first to let them move in.

"But if you think they make noise, you should have been here when Dawn Patrol landed here on Sunday mornings."

James Nash, who a month ago moved into the house at 4350 Macon road, 200 feet from the starting line, said "I like the races. I don't work there but we don't mind the noise."

Larry Coscarelli, one of the partners in the association, said they have scheduled only one day of races over the Labor Day weekend, Sunday.

"What we do on succeeding Sundays in September depends on the outcome of the Council meeting," he said.

Latest Fashion for Skirts—On Cars

Wheel openings, often referred to as "skirts" in the automotive industry, have undergone vast changes in design.

In years past the open wheel well was considered unattractive, and designers came up with a cover that attached to the skirt, partially hiding the wheel. More recently, hub caps have been replaced by glistening stainless steel wheel discs. These handsome discs add much to a car's appearance—so off came the attachment to the skirt.

The skirts shown above are just a few of the new styles on 1957 cars. All of these are outlined in gleaming stainless steel to show off their wheel discs. The large stainless steel discs have become so distinctive because of production techniques made possible with stainless steel that many manufacturers no longer use names to identify these easily recognized patterns.

League Bowling Gets Underway Next Week

League bowling gets started next week at the Tecumseh Airport Bowl, proprietor Cliff Preston announces.

There will be the same leagues as last year, he said.

Kick-off night, Wednesday, sees the Tecumseh Products eight team men's league starting at 7 p.m. At 9 p.m., an eight-team Independent Ladies league starts.

On Thursday night the Inter-City league with eight teams, starts at 7 p.m. and an All-Star men's league bowls at 9 p.m.

A merchant's men's league bowls at 7 p.m. and a merchant's ladies' league starts at 9 p.m. on Friday.

Then the following week, the Monday and Tuesday night leagues get started.

The Tecumseh House league with 16 teams doubles up on Mondays with half bowling at 7 and the other half at 9 p.m.

The same applies to the Ladies House league on Tuesday night.

Hereafter, the alleys will be open for bowling beginning at noon seven days a week, Preston said.

The Herald plans to carry results of league competition and standing plus individual and team performances and urges each league to cooperate with the bowling alley proprietor in filling out printed forms provided by the Herald for that purpose.

Let Bathroom Decorations Carry Out Home's Style

Your bathroom can emphasize the beauty and style of your entire home. If your living room and bedroom furnishings feature a definite theme, carry the same idea into the bathroom.

Homes with Early American decorations offer endless bathroom design possibilities. To create the calm beauty of colonial times, use polished red bricks on the wall above the bathtub. Complement this with similar tile or brick on the floor. On other walls, try natural-finished wood paneling.

Hurricane lamps on the vanity countertop lavatory will add to the atmosphere. Straight-legged stools, plain wooden cabinets, and other accessories of George Washington's time will help, too.

Up-to-date bathroom facilities are naturals in the modern home. Many designers set this mood with a distinctive lighting effect. They install a wall of ribbed transparent plastic which can be illuminated from behind. This feature is balanced by dark walls and flooring. A glass shower-bath enclosure adds interest. And modern furniture emphasizes distinctive new plumbing fixture designs.

If your home has an Old English flavor, red is an ideal central color. Install flagstone flooring. For the walls, try bright wallpaper showing an outdoor scene (fox-hunting is a possibility). Deep red, pink, white, or cream plumbing fixtures, shower curtains, and accessories are made even more attractive by Old English lamps and chairs.

Chandeliers, marbleized wallpaper, and a Victorian dressing table set are important in homes with a Gay Nineties theme. The floor tile might be large black and white blocks. A square bathtub and deep lavatories will blend with the rest of the room.

Southern charm also can enter a bathroom. Light blue or gray fixtures might be the predominant color here. A vanity countertop lavatory with a petticoat skirt would be attractive. Lots of drapes and ruffles to match lattice work around the walls would help carry through this idea.

Local Builder Sees New Line

The 1958 National homes will be available in four authentic architectural styles and they will be "component" houses that families can build to suit their needs, according to Jack Shutt, of Tecumseh Homes, Inc., the local franchised builder-dealer.

Shutt and his staff have just returned from Lafayette, Indiana, where the "components" are made up and announces his first showing of the new line here will be in October.

Prices for the new homes range from $10,000 to $40,000.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

Here is another ranch home that provides every possible living comfort. In addition to three bedrooms, living room, two baths, an open plan kitchen and dining area, this plan also includes many other outstanding features. For example, note the floor-to-gable picture window in the living room, snack bar in the kitchen-dining area and the movable closet. Opening onto a porch, the family room with its folding curtain serves as a recreation or informal entertainment area. The exterior reflects individuality and good taste.

Plans are available from local lumber dealers.

Room Dividers Should Be Both Useful And Distinctive

A room divider without function or purpose is just so much waste space. Why have an open area home to get extra living space, then kill out saved space with poorly conceived separators between use areas?

The open-area home with its high expansive ceilings and exposed beams gets much of its charm and feeling of size from the unobstructed openness of the area above eye level.

Few of these homes have been designed so that cooking, living and sleeping areas are automatically separated without some sort of artificial divider. It remains, therefore, for the architect or designer to separate these three natural areas by some sort of divider.

The ideal dividers are those that serve many functions. First, they must define work or use areas, as between kitchen and living room, for instance.

Then, the ingenuity of the designer comes into play. A room divider can be low enough to serve as the frame for an oversized davenport, the low backbar to a dining area, or a suggestion of a low bookcase handy to living area.

These multi-use affairs can handily be made from easy-to-work softwoods like Douglas fir or west coast hemlock. Not only are these woods easy to work with ordinary tools and by handy week-end carpenters like friend husband, but they are very durable and exquisitely beautiful.

Few divider areas should be more than six and a half feet tall. At that height they shut off view from one area to another, which sometimes is desirable, but they do not break the open feeling of the upper area of the home. At that height they can serve almost any storage function from a wardrobe to a compact bookcase or china cabinet.

Dividers can have distinction, like the ones that contain planters. It doesn't seem to make much difference whether a divider is tall or short because a planter looks equally well atop either. As a precaution, you should line the planter area with copper or some non-rusting metal to protect the wood from water.

The housewife should give considerable attention to the type of finish she wants on her divider units. It is in the finish of these installations that the real beauty and charm can be developed.

There is a decided trend towards natural finishes when you have woods with the texture and grain of either west coast hemlock or Douglas fir. These woods have an individuality and distinctiveness which can be exploited.

Natural finishing is easy. Generally a sealer is applied and after thoroughly drying, varnish, lacquer or plastic is applied. You should rub down after each coat with fine sandpaper or steel wool. You may desire a dull finish or you may want a high gloss. You may want to put a wax coat on at the very last for easy maintenance.

Of course fir and hemlock will take any paint or stain finish. One thing about the new stains is that you can get your desired color without hiding the grain and texture of the woods.

Building Permits Include Church

Building permits issued by City Manager E. J. Nelson for the first three weeks in August included seven homes, a church addition and two private garages.

Contractor Raymond Rempf secured a permit Aug. 3 to construct an addition 36 by 40 feet to the Grace English Lutheran Church at 302 N. Maumee st. to provide Sunday school classrooms for children of the congregation.

On Aug. 5 and 19, Town and Country Homes, Inc., of Dearborn, secured a total of six permits to construct five one-story and one tri-level dwelling in Indian Acres Subdivision.

John R. McVay, Aug. 14, was issued a permit to build a two-story home on Ternes st. between Brown and Munger streets.

EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT

Next Tuesday night's City Council meeting promises to be a controversial session.

Every resident of the River Acres subdivision and others in adjacent areas who feel strongly that their peace has been disturbed by the Sunday "drag" races is urged to be in attendance.

Your presence will speak louder than your name written on a petition.

Your petition was not in vain, however. It succeeded in getting this public hearing.

It is true, there will be arguments given for the operator's of the Tecumseh Timing Association, but it is also true that your peace has been disturbed or you wouldn't have signed the petition. Furthermore, your property has been depreciated and will remain so until these races are stopped. That means money out of your pocket while those sponsoring the races are putting it in theirs. There are a 100 or more of you while there is but a handful of them.

It is true, the 200 racing competitors are mechanical whizzes and are to be complimented for pursuing something they enjoy and believe in.

It is true, this paved landing strip, one-half mile of smooth asphalt, is perfect for such an event.

But it is also true that they can move the event to an isolated area much easier than you can sell your homes and move elsewhere.

Let the association invest their profits in land in an isolated area and pour a new concrete strip, if they have such a good thing.

In their own statements before the Council Aug. 19 they proudly spoke of the increased interest in their races, not only from competitors and spectators but from large automotive companies interested in their engineering accomplishments. And they already are planning ahead for next year.

Exercise your vote as a taxpayer. Be there at 7:45 p.m. sharp.

The issue may not be settled that night but it will force the Council to act on your petition which it accepted in good faith.

Whether they act in your favor depends on what transpires. What transpires depends on you.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE TRACTOR

Various factors have contributed to what we know as the agricultural revolution. Pre-eminent among them all is horsepower — mechanical horsepower.

According to Secretary Benson's notable book, "Farmers At The Crossroads," in 1955 farmers owned 4,800,000 tractors — more than three times as many as in 1940. And, in addition, they had 4,500,000 automobiles; 2,800,000 trucks; 840,000 milking machines; 960,000 combines and 600,000 mechanical cotton pickers.

In the light of this, it should come as no surprise to us to learn that between 1940 and 1955 some 8,300,000 people left our farms. "For," to quote Mr. Benson directly, "as agriculture grows more efficient, it requires fewer people. As industry expands, it creates more jobs in the cities. The simple fact is that as farmers use more modern equipment, the machines and tools enable each worker to care for more acres and more animals. With today's farm implements, the farmer is better able to produce enough to earn an income that will let his family match the living of other American families."

There is still another important factor involved. Mechanization of agriculture has made available a pool of labor that our factories sorely needed. These people work at well-paid jobs and produce television sets, automobiles, appliances, furniture and the thousand-and-one other things which sustain our unrivaled material living standards. The transition from the farm to the factory has worked not only to their benefit, but to the benefit of the whole consuming population. The influence of the tractor, so to speak, is felt everywhere.

The Jackman's liked the small home—it was just what they wanted. Still Bob Jackman hesitated to buy.

"I've never bought a home before," he explained, "and the thought of a large.. mortgage* spread over 20 years scares me. I know I can meet it now. But I might get in financial trouble in the future. I'm going to talk to my banker."

He did—and the next day bought the house.

"What did your banker tell you?" I asked.

"He said that buying a home is one of the surest roads to financial independence. Also, that contrary to popular opinion, it is usually not financial difficulty which causes a family to lose its home. The biggest single factor is marriage trouble. I told him I was sure we would stay happily married."

Bob continued, "The banker added that death and serious illness were the other big causes for defaulting on a loan. He advised me to buy mortgage life insurance to cover the possibility of death. And, he said that the loan value on the insurance would provide a quick source of help in event of a bad illness. I'm going to buy that today, too."

There's a FORD for every garage

The New kind of Ford for '57 comes in two big sizes . . . the big (over 16 foot) Custom models and the still bigger (over 17 foot) Fairlanes. From the Fairlane 500 Sunliner (above) on down . . . there's a Ford to suit every need.

Station wagon minded? Ford has 5 to choose from (including the 9-passenger Country Squire, above). Like all '57 Fords, they're fine cars in every sense of the word. Yet, they're yours for half the fine-car price!

Custom Tudor Sedan

...and a price for every pocketbook

Whichever '57 Ford you choose . . . one thing's sure. You can pay more, but you can't buy better. And Ford is solidly built to be worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it, too!

Ford is the lowest priced of the low-price three! The '57 Ford, for all its expensive-car features, is the lowest priced of the low-price three.* Another reason why smart buyers everywhere say, "Little budgets love big Fords!"

Kenneth Bortel, Britton area farm youth, with his three-year-old 200 pound Dorset ram, he is showing at Ohio State Fair in Columbus and will have at the Michigan State Fair next week.

The area in which The Herald circulates will be well represented by livestock at the Michigan State Fair Aug. 30 through Sept. 7.

Sharon and Leroy Burleson, children of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burleson, 7120 Pennington road, Macon township, are entering thoroughbred Guernsey cows.

Her brother, Leroy, 17, also a Junior in school, is entering a Guernsey cow, "Bessie," a two-year-old cow, "Hope," and her senior calf, "Judy."

Kenneth Bortel, a graduate of Britton-Macon High School two years ago, left last week with a truckload of 46 sheep, rams, ewes, and lambs, for the Ohio State Fair in Columbus that started last Friday, and will take them directly to Detroit on Aug. 30.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bortel, 11903 Milwaukee road, Macon township, will show the sheep in three classes, Dorsets, Cotswolds and Oxfords.

The latter group belong to a neighbor, Lyle Riddell, but are being shown by Kenneth, whose younger brother, Roger, 12, claims three of the Bortel sheep.

Try Again To Identify Farm

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

With wheat seeding time near, it is time to think seriously about what variety to use, what planning rate, kind of seed to sow, and when to plant.

We should continue to place almost all our effort into the production of soft white winter wheat. White wheat now brings a premium over red wheat at the elevator.

Market prices last Friday showed white wheat was selling for $2.08 a bushel as compared to $2.05 for red, according to William Muckensturm, manager of the J. J. Walper & Son elevator in Britton. "White premium generally brings about two cents more than red," he said.

Genesee, Cornell 595 and Yorkwin continue to be the outstanding varieties. Genesee has the larger yield and the best combination of desirable characteristics. Cornell 595 has the stiffest straw. Both have excellent loose smut resistance and are superior to Yorkwin in this regard. Yorkwin has the plumpest kernel. Dawbul, a variety of white wheat from Canada, is not recommended at this time because of insufficient testing in this state.

Seneca is still the preferred variety of soft red winter wheat. We hear much about Dual red wheat from Indiana and while it looks promising, an outright recommendation cannot be made at this time. The results of an additional year's testing is needed.

The use of high quality seed is a must and cannot be over emphasized. Good seed alone cannot guarantee an excellent crop, but without quality seed it is difficult to obtain a high yielding, high quality crop. Certified seed is the highest quality seed because of its unexcelled varietal purity, high crop purity, freedom from noxious weeks and rye, relatively uniform seed size, and high germination.

Certified seed can be obtained from your local elevator.

Every bushel of wheat seed planted should be treated with a good fungicide to control bunt and seedling diseases of wheat. Treat seed according to the directions of the manufacturer and treat far enough in advance of planting time so that the material has a chance to do its job. This is covered in the directions given on the label of the treatment can. The materials most commonly used for treating wheat are Ceresan and Panogen. Other satisfactory fungicides are Agrox, Vancide 51, and Gytrete. The chemical treatment of the seed will not control loose smut.

Crop rotation is important in the control of wheat diseases. Avoid planting wheat to land previously in corn, barley, and wheat; especially wheat. This will aid in the control of scab and "take-all" diseases.

Plant seed after the fly free date for your area. These dates can be obtained at the office of the county agricultural agent and from Extension Bulletin 187, Winter Wheat Culture in Michigan. If plantnig is delayed for any considerable time after the fly free date a reduction in yield may occur because of excessive winter killing. Plant six to eight packs per acre on a well prepared seedbed.

Wheat is one of the most responsive crops to liberal applications of commercial fertilizer and manure. The proper ratio of fertilizer to use should be based on a soil test, soil type, and previous history of the field. When straw is plowed down extra nitrogen should be applied.

Seek Soil Erosion Control Answers

The fact that Michigan farmers live in "Water Wonderland" doesn't solve all their water problems. This year, for example, they saw valuable soil wash under beating rain and later watched crops begin to shrivel because of near drouth conditions.

Conservation specialists from Michigan State University attending the convention of the Soil Conservation Society of America in California may hear some answers to these problems. Before leaving, Russ Hill, heading the local delegation said, "We think this year's convention is particularly important since the general theme will be water. And water is just about the number one question mark in agriculture the country over today."

Farm Bureau Accident Survey Results Reported

A survey of farm accidents occurring to Michigan Farm Bureau members in Lenawee County was made recently. The ladies of the Bureau did most of the survey work. In connection with the Farm Safety program. It was felt that little has been done in the past to make farm people more safety conscious and the calls to every member stressed this point.

A total of 60 accidents was found during the period from January to December, with the largest numbers occurring in July, August, September and October. The low month was April with only one accident reported.

Three-fourths of the mishaps occurred between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. More than one-quarter of them took place on the highway, with about 20 per cent in the yard and backyard.

Accidents with motor vehicles and through falls accounted for almost one-half of the injuries. Also listed were farm machinery, animals, hand tools, burns, being struck by objects, and miscellaneous. There was only one fatal injury and five permanent injuries; the remainder were temporary.

Thirty-nine per cent of the mishaps occurred to the limbs of the body. The head received 25 per cent, the trunk 19 per cent and the hands 17 per cent of the total injuries.

The females of the farm family came in for less than one-quarter of the total injuries, with the majority of these to women between the ages of 25-44. Thirty per cent of the total damages to males came to those 25-44 and another thirty per cent to those 45-60 years old.

Injuries suffered came to a total og $4,592.00 costs. Property damages resulted in $9,765.48. The entire sum of days lost was 990.

Best buy...SAFEST GRAIN STORAGE YET!

Butler bins are the best protection for your crop profits

Your grain represents potential profits on an entire growing season. But you don't cash in until you actually dispose of the grain. Every bushel is precious—worth top quality protection while you hold it on your farm for top profits. Butler bins give you that protection for no more than you would pay for inferior storage facilities.

Moisture, vermin and insects are sealed out by Butler's quality construction. Vertical seams, for example, are double-bolted to make a stronger, tighter bin. Extra-long body sheets reduce the number of seams. And the vault-type steel door fits so tightly it is practically a sealed closure. The perforated steel floor is specially designed to permit continuous aeration of the grain in the bin with Butler Force-Aire equipment.

These are just a few of the quality features that have made Butler bins America's best selling brand. So, when you buy on-the-farm grain storage, do as thousands of smart farmers already have—buy safety. Buy Butler, the bins engineered and built by the nation's leading grain storage manufacturer—be sure of the safest grain storage yet!

Award Accepted By Britton FFA

Britton's active Future Farmers of America chapter received a Gold Award selected by the State FFA Contest Judging committee for "maintaining a beef feeding demonstration in a school-owned building near the school. Several feeders were raised by the members as a demonstration of approved feeding practices."

The awards, sponsored by A & P Food stores, were given to 26 other chapters in Michigan at a ceremony Wednesday in Detroit. Larry Wagner, Floyd Avery and Russell Spalding accepted for the local group.

The chapters at Cassopolis, Caro and Marshall were selected to represent the state in national FFA competition.

Hub of activity for the Cassopolis boys was a 250-acre school farm. In addition to farm production on this farm, many cooperative buying and selling activities and services for chapter members were conducted. The cooperative purchases included buying 48 feeder steers, 3 purebred herd boars, 46 tons of fertilizer, 30 tons of protein supplement feed, 15,000 evergreen seedlings, 50 bushels of seed corn, and 23 bushels of alfalfa seed. Cooperative sales included 600 bushels of wheat, 18 head of brood sows, 130 market hogs, 2 fat steers, 65 tons of hay, 28 head of breeding swine, 3000 bushels of corn and 65 bushels of clover seed.

Marshall chapter gained recognition with a diversified program which included the purchase of a purebread Hampshire boar to further improve production of meat-type hogs in the community. The chapter also provided 16 purebred swine for starting improved swine breeding programs for members; also aided members in securing funds in the amount of $5,462.68 for growth of farming programs.

The Caro chapter attracted the judges' attention with its participation in the CROP program, collecting $715 in the community. The chapter rated as one of the strongest chapters in the state in the soil conservation contest; planted 7,000 pine seedlings during the year in a demonstrating improved land use program, and conducted a series of leadership training activities including a six day trip for all chapter members during the summer to Interlochen State Park.

Ed[illegible]rner . . .

BY RALPH BIDWELL

We had the pleasure of meeting Joseph C. Satterthwaite while he was home in Tecumseh last week.

He graciously consented to an interview with us on very short notice.

He left us with the impression that he is intensely devoted to his birthplace and his career in the State Department.

In 33 years, he has risen from a clerk in the consulate at Stuttgart, Germany, to be the nation's top "career diplomat."

Since May he has been director general of the foreign service and carries the title of Deputy Under-Secretary to John Foster Dulles.

For the record, his duties have taken him to every inhabited continent except Australia.

After a two-year tenure in Stuttgart, he represented our country in the following places and capacities: Guadalahara, Mexico, 1927-29, vice-counsul; Mexico City, 1929-34, third secretary under Ambassadors Dwight Morrow, Reuben J. Clark, Jr., and Josephius Daniels; Buenos Aires, Argentina, 1934-37, second secretary; Baghdad, Iraq, 1937-39, second secretary and consul; Ankarra, Turkey, 1939-44, first secretary of the embassy; Damascus, Syria, 1944-45, first secretary; Casablanca, 1945-49, director of near Eastern and North African affairs, that included countries from Casablanca to Singapore; Ceylon, 1949-53, ambassador; Morraco, 1953-55, diplomatic agent and minister, and Burma, 1955-57, ambassador, until transferred to his present position last May.

His new job is largely concerned with supervising and recruiting of foreign service personnel and providing and improving their living and operating facilities (including air conditioning) at the various outposts throughout the world.

"You would be surprised how air conditioning in one of those hot countries improves their morale," he said. "I was in Baghdad when it was first introduced there."

We talked about a variety of subjects.

"The one American thing that has made the greatest impact on foreign nations and done more to unify the world is the western movies. The Arabs are particularly rabid fans of the American cowboy.

"The automobile is next."

This brought up the next question, "Do you think there will ever be a world federation?"

"We have it right now in the United Nations," he replied. "It is open for all free nations to join and has settled many disputes that might have led to armed skirmishes.

"The whole world fears the H-bomb but are glad the United States has supremacy in nuclear research.

"The reason why we haven't done more in expanding our Latin-American relationship is because we had to devote our attention to the more critical areas in the near East and South Asia.

"Argentina is a country that showed great promise when I was there before the Peron regime and I couldn't hardly believe that a dictatorship could exist there."

On the lighter side, he recalled the time in Mexico when he had to interpret between a Spanish girl and an American youth that had just married and were applying for passports. "They were madly in love but couldn't talk to each other," he said.

Mr. Satterthwaite said Tecumseh has always been his legal residence. "I write home for absentee ballots to vote in national elections but seldom vote on local issues because I feel I shouldn't since I take no active part in them.

"However, I have always received and read the Herald, no matter where I was located."

We know Mr. Satterthwaite would have been disappointed if we didn't devote some space about recruiting for the foreign service. Whenever our questioning lagged, he kept emphasizing that if we knew of any good young men or women with a college education and in good health, send him our way.

"The old idea that you have to be an Ivy leaguer, educated in the exclusive Eastern colleges to get in the foreign service is past," he said. "In fact, we get many from Iowa now."

We then photographed Mr. Satterthwaite with his daughter, Ruth, 10. Our operation of a complicated news camera is a bit rusty and the negatives didn't turn out too well.

So Friday we called for another try. Since he was coming downtown on other matters, he again graciously stopped at The Herald and we took his photograph as it appears in the paper.

"If I were in Washington," he said, "I could press a button and quickly get a photograph of myself for you. That is the way things are done there now."

He asked about our linotype operator, Don Blesing, and they chatted briefly.

Mr. Satterthwaite and his daughter returned to Washington Saturday. His wife, Leyla, had remained there.

Joe Satterthwaite is proud of Tecumseh and Tecumseh should be proud of him.

Rotary Addressed By City Manager

The Tecumseh Rotary Club had as their guest speaker Tuesday evening, City Manager Ed Nelson, who gave an interesting talk on progress in the city, dealing with the water supply which will have pumping facilities of 4,000 gallons when the Burt Street well is connected, the new city hall water and sewer work in Tecumseh Acres and the Northwest part of town, the fire department and street program. He stated that 15,000 ft. of curb and gutter have been put in during the past 5 years.

Mr. Nelson was introduced by John Surratt who had charge of the program for the evening.

Management Of Herald Still Same

The management of The Tecumseh Herald has not changed hands. Ralph Bidwell has been hired by the Belleville's to perform the duties of news editor, which were formerly performed by co-publisher Philip Belleville who will be inactive in the business to enter into a new career.

The policy of the newspaper will not change, but will keep on, as in the past, attempting to build a better newspaper and a better Tecumseh.

The publishers will remain Philip F. and Frederick C. Belleville.

Health Quiz Begins 4th Week, Citizens Praised

The Tecumseh Community Health Study began its fourth week of field interviewing Tuesday.

Dr. Robert Horton, director of the study, reports that 16 interviewers are now on the job and report that the people of Tecumseh have been giving them splendid cooperation.

Visits have been made to more that 1,400 households and fewer then 20 refusals have been reported.

The interviewers have been assigned 140 of the 209 city blocks or rural segments. Forty-nine of these blocks have been completely canvassed and an additional seventy odd blocks are complete except for one or two homes in each where no one was home at the time the interviewer called. Evening work is being scheduled where necessary to complete the interviewing at these places.

The interviews average about 30 minutes each, according to John Napier, local field supervisor.

Dr. Horton stressed the need for prompt recording of each illness on the Monthly Record of Illness, Injury and Disability forms that were left at each home at the time the interviewer called.

He also expressed general satisfaction with the Report of Chronic Conditions and Impairments which he has been receiving and reviewing and urged that these be sent in promptly so that ncessary processing can begin.

Ex-School Official Is Reported Dead

W. L. REED
Superintendent

Word has been received of the death of W. L. Reed, former superintendent of Tecumseh schools, at a nursing home in Grand Rapids Aug. 29.

Before coming to Tecumseh he served as superintendent of the Blissfield schools. He was head of the Tecumseh schools from 1913 to 1918, during which time the Central School was built, which originally housed all grades from the kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

After leaving Tecumseh, Mr. Reed became superintendent of the Mason schools. During his stay there a new high school was erected. He retired when he left Mason and went to live on a small farm near Middleville where he spent his last years raising flowers as a hobby.

Mr. Reed is survived by a daugh-

Petition For New Curbs

Petitions from homeowners in two different blocks demanding that concrete curbs and gutters be installed in front of their homes were accepted by the City Council and referred to the Municipal Planning Commission for a report before acting upon them.

The two blocks concerned are W. Kilbuck between Democratic and Van Buren st. and S. Democratic between W. Pottawatamie and W. Kilbuck.

Pass Tax Deadline, $8,788 Is Unpaid

As the deadline passed Tuesday, only $8,788 in City taxes had not been paid, Mrs. Naomi Sallows, city clerk, reports.

Total tax receipts were $158,230, as compared with the city's assessment of $167,018.

A penalty of 4 per cent will be added to the unpaid taxes during September. An additional one-half of 1 per cent will be added for each succeeding month until a maximum penalty of 6 per cent has been assessed, she said.

To Move Jewelry

Richard Eggleston, owner of Eggleston's Jewelry has leased the building formerly occupied by the Watkins' Shop and owned by C. M. Gilbert and plans to move to the new location about the middle of September.

The interior of the building is being completely remodeled and decorated which will make it a very attractive jewelry store.

Alert Children To Traffic Dangers, Warns 3 Agencies

Parents are urged by local police, school and state Health Department officials to alert their children to the dangers of accidents now that school has started again.

Dr. Goldie Corneliuson, state director of maternal and child health points out that accidents were the No. 1 killer among school-age children last year, taking 524 lives.

Young children should be shown the safest way to and from school and children of all ages should be instructed on how to avoid traffic and playground dangers, he said.

Police Chief George Kilbourn said an officer would be stationed at Brown and Evans when children are crossing that intersection on their way to and from school and another will direct traffic and assist grade school children at Chicago and Ottawa st. from 3:30 to 4 p.m., a peak period when Tecumseh Products Co. workers are going home and schools are letting out.

School officials announce that safety patrols for Central and Patterson Schools will be reorganized and the assignments for the various corners will be announced in possibly another week. The Herald will carry a list of the patrols, the captains, and the girl service squads.

A large advertisement appears in this issue titled "Drive With Care, School's Open, Protect Our Children," This public service ad is sponsored by the following civic-minded merchants in the interest of safety: Easton's Friendly Service, B&B Service, John and Bill's Cities Service, Bihlmeyer Standard Service, Sohio Service, Morley's Gulf Service, Hooten's Service Station, Clarence's Texaco Service and G. H. Fisher Pontiac Motors, Inc.

The ad carries a very important message. Be sure to read it.

Two speeding tickets were issued during the past week by Tecumseh police. Recipients were Robert N. Wisner, 18, of Manchester, Sept. 2 for speeding 55 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone on Adrian St., and Haney Holman, 3851 Kaiser Road, Sept. 3, for speeding 55 in a 35 mile zone on N. Evans.

Drive To, Argue Selves Into Jail

The motto of this story is "if you must drink and quarrel, don't do it in front of a police station."

James C. Wesley, 33, of Adrian, and Mrs. Eloise Watson, 38, a housewife, of 709 S. Occidental road, found out the hard way

About 4 p.m. last Wednesday, Aug. 28, the two defendants parked their car in front of the police station on S. Evans st. and began to quarrel.

Officers Bert Wade and Don Rodehaver walked out of the station and placed them under arrest for being drunk and disorderly. They were lodged in the Lenawee county jail and arraigned the following day, Aug. 29, pleaded guilty and were fined $15. plus $4.50 court costs or seven days by Justice Robert L. French.

School Enrollment To Reach 2,600

Enrollment for the Tecumseh Public Schools is expected to reach 2,600 this year, Superintendent James McDowell reports.

This is an increase of approximately 150 more pupils than attended in 1956.

First day attendance figures showed the breakdown for the elementary grades were as follows: kindergarten, 285; first, 259; second, 198; third, 222; fourth, 248; fifth, 265; sixth, 208.

There were a total of 972 students in grades seven through twelve that paid book fees on opening day but since no classes were held individual grade figures were unavailable.

There are always a few students who do not enroll the first day, for various reasons, he said.

Traffic Revenue For August Total s$799

In the City Manager's report to the City Council last night was a list of police activities for the month of August.

Police reported seven accidents, received and investigated 54 complaints, issued 33 traffic summons, cited 61 meter violations and made eight arrests and three liquor inspections.

Revenue collected was $387.30 on traffic cases, $43.85 for meter violations and meter collections totalled $368. for a grand total of $799.15.

Races Next Year Are Out, Homeowners Say

The "drag" race controversy ended in a "gentlemen's agreement" with several "ifs" after 75 minutes of airing before the City Council Tuesday night.

Approximately 75 persons, a majority of them homeowners from the River Acres subdivision, jammed the second floor Council chambers to force a decision on a petition accepted by the Council two weeks ago.

When it appeared that the Council would have to act, and it was agreed among the Councilmen that they should stop the races, at least, in the two hundred odd feet of the Meyers Airport runway that was within the City, City Attorney James C. Beardsley rose and quickly changed the complexion of the whole affair.

"The only way the City can act is on a criminal complaint. We have no such complaint on file," Beardsley said. "Such a complaint would require one of you, who feel your peace has been disturbed, to complain to local police, accompany an officer to the Justice of Peace and swear out a warrant for the arrest of those committing or responsible for permitting the offense."

He also informed the homeowners they could get an injunction forcing them to stop the races.

Joseph E. Layton, who earlier had told of getting up at 3 a.m. one Sunday morning after hearing noises and finding six fellows peeking around his house and about getting his shotgun, suggested that the Tecumseh Timing Association be allowed to hold a couple more races to carry out their committments.

The association said they planned to hold six more races, running into the middle of October, but all members concerned, James Fielder, Larry Coscarelli and Al Meyers, agreed to stop after three more meets, the last Sunday being Sept. 22.

About half of the homeowners present agreed to this proposal. There was one dissenter.

The group emphasized that under no circumstances would it tolerate racing on this landing strip next year.

The race operators, stating that a new strip would cost approximately $45,000 to build, gave no indication of what their plans are for next year, if any.

This "gentlemen's agreement" does not prevent a River Acres homeowner from still swearing out a warrant or securing an injunction stopping the races any more than it will prevent the race sponsors from moving their starting line 200 feet outside of the City and continuing races as they please, totally within Tecumseh township, Mayor Hanna said.

In this event, local police would have no jurisdiction to act on a criminal complaint.

However, there appeared to be a respectful understanding reached as the meeting was adjourned.

A Mr. Keith Carpenter had submitted the most damaging evidence. He presented two photographs, one of the two outhouses, which he said were in violation of health codes and the other of teen-age girls drinking alcoholic beverages in a convertible while racing as going on.

Police Chief George Kilbourn said he generally has an officer at the intersection of Macon and M-52 but admits he doesn't have enough officers to police these two streets properly.

Bill Davenport, president of the local Cam Twisters, spoke in behalf of the race sponsors, said his members had purchased a $15 car and installed a $1,000 motor in it, and asked "Where do we go from here?"

No one could give him an answer.

Old Jalopy Fails, Driver Uninjured

An old jalopy that Raymond Thompson, 39, of 304 Outer Drive, had worked on for five years and invested $300 in parts didn't stand the steering test last Thursday night and was demolished.

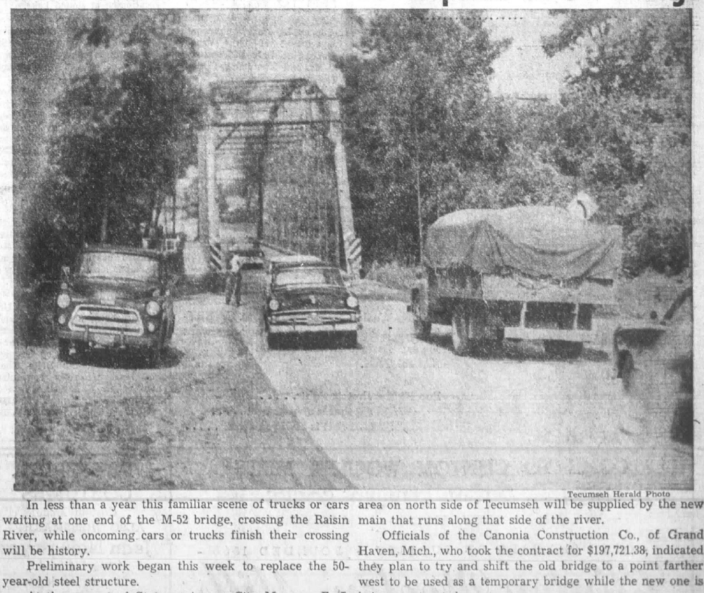
Thompson, a Tecumseh Products Co. employee, escaped without injury.

Driving north on Occidental road, Thompson failed to maneuver the curve where the road jogs at Russell road and rolled over several times.

"Something was wrong with the steering," Thompson said. "There was still too much play in it and I couldn't straighten it out."

He reported the accident to the Tecumseh Police Department.

Work Starts This Week To Replace M-52 Bridge



Tecumseh Herald Photo

In less than a year this familiar scene of trucks or cars waiting at one end of the M-52 bridge, crossing the Raisin River, while oncoming cars or trucks finish their crossing will be history.

Preliminary work began this week to replace the 50-year-old steel structure.

At the request of State engineers, City Manager E. J. Nelson is having the 12-inch water main that is supported by and crosses under the bridge disconnected. Water for the area on north side of Tecumseh will be supplied by the new main that runs along that side of the river.

Officials of the Canonia Construction Co., of Grand Haven, Mich., who took the contract for $197,721.38, indicated they plan to try and shift the old bridge to a point farther west to be used as a temporary bridge while the new one is being constructed.

Completion date set for the new bridge is October, 1958, but Nelson said it is expected to be completed much earlier.

Brownies, Girl Scouts To Have Rodeo On Sept, 27

Detailed plans for a real "western" Rodeo Day with everything but the animals will be held for local Brownie and Girl Scouts Sept. 28 from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Athletic Field. If the weather is bad that day, the "rodeo" will be postponed until Oct. 5.

About 350 girls, brownies and girl scouts, and 100 adults are eligible to attend the affair, to be conducted under the auspices of the Tecumseh Girl Scout Association.

The Brownies will be "dogies" and the Girl Scouts will be "cowhands" for the occasion.

After participating in competitive sports, the girls will have a snack at the "chuck wagon," followed by square dancing, singing around the Council fire and finally they will participate in a goodnight ceremonial.

Awards will be made to the troops having completed their registrations by the rodeo date and recognition is planned for the troops having perfect attendance at the event.

This type of entertainment offers the troops an opportunity to act as committees on the arrangements thereby making it a cooperative affair, scout officials said.

Mrs. John Dennis will be the general chairman for the rodeo. Mrs. Richard Duffin will direct a committee arranging the "chuck wagon" snack.

Among the future activities to be sponsored by the association, with Mrs. Robert Anderson, president, will be a "'Seniors Only' Overnight" and similar "Overnights" for teen-agers and Intermediates during the early Fall; the Burning of the Greens on Twelfth Night, Thinking Day programs for the various ages on next Feb. 22, the annual Brownie Skating Party, Scouts Own Vesper Service in observance of Girl Scout Week in March, a Pet Parade, if weather permits, the Court of Awards and floats that will be a new feature of next year's Memorial Day parade.

The association also anticipates organizing four or five new Brownie troops this month.

Police Test New OCD Frog Suit

Tecumseh and State Police didn't recover a stolen cash register from the Raisin River at Sutton's crossing Tuesday but they did get a chance to try out the Office of Civilian Defenses's new "frog" suit.

Acting on information that the cash register, taken from G. H. Fisher Pontiac Sales office, E. Chicago Boulevard and Maumee st., the night of July 30, was dumped into the river at this location, State Trooper Richard Hilderley of the Clinton post, assisted by Chief George Kilbourn searched bottom of river but failed to find it.

Trooper Hilderley, the only experienced "frogman" in this area, had his own oxygen tanks and masks but used Tecumseh OCD's new uniform.

We have a cooperative arrangement with the State Police, Chief Kilbourn said, whereby when an emergency arises, such as a drowning, we can quickly recover the body.

Map Campus Of MSU For Blind

Sightless students and visitors at Michigan State University may soon explore the campus with their fingertips.

A "braille" map of the campus, possibly the only one of its kind in the country, has been handmade for the blind by students in the University's Landscape Architecture Club and Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary.

The map, mounted on a 32 by 42-inch table top, will be placed beginning the fall term in the reading room for the blind in the M.S.U. library. It reproduces more than 100 buildings and miles of walks and roadways as raised surfaces in paper-thin copper.

Girl Pens Religious Ode

This religious poem appeared in the Sunday bulletin of the Macon Methodist Church Aug. 25 and its author, Janet Graham (pictured above), who attends the church regularly, has granted the Herald permission to reprint it.

Janet, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham, lives in Macon across from the church. She is attending Tecumseh High School and is in the 10th grade.

Rev. Donald Bates, pastor, was impressed by the poem and had it printed in the church bulletin.

The Graham family moved to Macon in June from Stratford, Conn. Janet, who aspires to be an archeologist when she grows up, is an avid book reader and plays the piano. She has a brother, Harry, Jr., and a sister, Evelyn. Mr. Graham is an engineer at Clinton Machine Co. in Clinton.

"GOD"

Have you found God?
I looked and looked
And where he'd trod
There sprang up brooks
And flowers grew,
And I'd found God.
'Twas then I knew.

I've walked among
The woodland trees,
With birds I've sung,
And round my knees
The flowers grew,
And I'd found God.
'Twas then I knew.

The sun would set
With gold and red,
Remind me that
God's hand had bled.
And where drops fell
The flowers grew.
'Twas God, I knew.

The flowers are
The sighs of God,
The dew drops; they are
The tears of God.
And where he treads
The flowers grow.
'Tis God, I know.

Why Are Vitamins Essential ... ?

Science has established that (1) vitamins are essential to normal tissue function, and (2) insufficient vitamin intake contributes to infirmities and illness.

Vitamins in the body do (1) take a vital part in converting food into energy, (2) build tissues, (3) help ward off infection, and (4) help repair tissues damaged by infection. Vitamins in foods vary—supplemental vitamins are essential. Ask your Doctor for full information.

This should go this week so you should look at the 23 acres and good 4 bedroom home on Chase Road. Buy on a land contract.

On South Union there is a good 3 bedroom for sale with about 2 acres of land. Buy on a contract. We're ready to sell it.

On N. Union the 3 family is still for sale. Never give up we say, sooner or later some will wake up and buy this good income home. Close to schools and good area. $13,500 on contract.

2 family on E. Shawnee, close to high school and grade school and is in need of no repair. If you're looking for a sharp place to live and still have income better check this one.

704 Ternes Road—this is a good address to have your mail come to. At the same time you can make a good buy on this house. I might have put the wrong value on this extra good 3 bedroom so the owner says "BRING ME A OFFER." How about it?

Out on Murray Drive Dale would like his 4 bedroom home sold so he can move closer to his job. He will sell on a land contract and this baby is worth the money.

Live in style all the while, move to River Acres into a good—no not just good but real, real real good 3 bedroom built by a local contractor with his own needs in mind so it is right. Buy on contract and move in.

New 3 bedroom on Ternes Road or Seminole with or without basement, priced right I think these are the best buys in Tecumseh.

6 apt. on S. Pearl not to pretty, but pretty good investment. Will trade or sell on contract.

Every one in this town keeps looking at each other and saying "hows business." I'll tell you how ours is going. Quite normal for this time of year. We're making the normal amt. of sales, need good listings as usual, got a couple people with $1,000 to put down on some thing and I would say "DOING BUSINESS AS USUAL."

Well stop and see Lamar and Jack were ready to work for you.

Michigan Hunters Bag 71,120 Deer

Hunters bag less than 12 per cent of Michigan's deer herd each year, one of the smallest harvests of any major state.

In 1956, hunters bagged 71,120 whitetails in these two regions or approximately 11.7 percent of total population.

Comparison figures for six other states were Pennsylvania, 86,155 out of estimated 300,000; New York, 59,532 out of 387,500; Minnesota, 63,945 out of 400,000; Maine, 35,583 out of 180,000; Texas, 43,425 out of 450,000, and Wisconsin, 35,000 out of 600,000.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible

And without faith it is impossible to please Him. For whoever would draw near to God must believe that He exists, and that He rewards those who seek Him.—(Hebrews 11, 6.)

Uniforms Issued To 90 Gridders

Football Coach Robert Breniff reports that uniforms have been issued to 90 boys and practice sessions this week have been devoted to the fundamentals of blocking and tackling.

The first scrimmage will be held next Saturday at 3:30 p.m.

"The boys have a good attitude toward football," the coach said, "but our squad is awful young and small."

He has only eight lettermen, including four regular varsity gridders back from the 1956 season.

Their opening game is at Hudson on Sept. 20.

Rohweder Wins

The annual Hole-In-One Contest n which 45 local golfers partici- ated was won by Tom Rohweder with a shot nine feet four inches from the pin on the 170-yard No. 4 hole at the Tecumseh Country Club Monday.

Pro Leo Bishop has reported the results of this contest to his Pro- essional Golf Association section so that eventually a national win- er can be determined. If no hole n ones are scored the competitor with the closest shot to the pin wins.

Plan Extra Deer Hunting Seasons

Plans are being completed by he Conservation Department for Michigan's 1957 special deer hunting season to take deer of either sex, any age, in 31 designated areas where deer food is in short supply or where whitetails damage farm crops.

The department plans to issue 59,030 permits to hunters designed to harvest 17,790 deer in addition to the regular buck kill.

In 17 areas, special seasons will be concurrent with the regular Nov. 15-30 season, while a Dec. 1-2 season is scheduled for 13 areas and part of Allegan county is slated for Dec. 1-8 season.

Each permit will be valid for only one area. Applications are expected to be at local license dealers after Sept. 15.

Champs Congratulate Each Other

Beaming Mrs. Pauline Moore and Roger Linger pose for photographs after winning hard fought battles from Ruth Hanna and Paul Callahan, respectively, for the Tecumseh Country Club championships.

Trout Season Is Approaching End

Fishermen are reminded that Sept. 8 marks the last day of angling for several Michigan game fish species. The statewide trout season closes that day along with bass and other species in trout waters. Both large and small mouth bass may be taken, of course, in non-trout waters through Dec. 31. Panfish may be taken throughout the year, except in trout waters.

The special spearing season for rough fish in designated waters closed Aug. 15.

Although the statewide trout season is closing, fishermen will be able to take part in a special rainbow trout season in special waters during the next three months.

Hogs are moving to market earlier in the summer months than they were five years ago. Farmers have been aiming for the high price point that was formerly in August. The summer high is now in June.

Callahan, Hanna Are Runner-Ups At Country Club

BY LEO BISHOP

Distribution of trophies to the 1957 champions and runner-ups was made Monday, Labor Day, by Pro Leo Bishop. The ceremony marked the end of all club matches, which brought to a close another successful tournament at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Men's Championship Flight

Roger Linger defeated Paul Callahan, 1 up in 36 holes.

Men's First Flight

Dr. M. Blanden defeated Bill Hanna, 2 up in 18 holes.

Men's Second Flight

Cal Roll defeated Hal Kelso, 1 up in 18 holes.

Men's Third Flight

Chet Damouth defeated Tim Neill, 3-2 in 18 holes.

Ladies' Championship Flight

Mrs. R. H. (Pauline) Moore defeated Mrs. William Hanna, 2 up in 18 holes.

Ladies' First Flight

Marge Purcell defeated Ernie Andrews, 1 up in 18 holes.

Ladies' Second Flight

Mrs. E. Krueger defeated Mrs. M. Milhein, 6-5 in 18 holes.

The match for the men's championship of Tecumseh Country Club between Paul Callahan and Roger Linger was a match filled with excitement and thrills that had the gallery on edge through the 36 holes.

Paul Callahan, a youngster to golf at 36 years of age, has played golf since he can remember. Roger Linger at 39 with only four years of golf experience to back him won 1 up on the 36th hole.

This marked one of the closest matches ever played here at the club since the opening eight years ago.

These two golfers certainly gave the gallery everything that anyone hoped to see in a championship match.

Congratulations to all golfers for the wonderful conduct in respecting each other's ability and fine sportsmanship in which this game of golf is actually built on.

Pauline Moore defeated Ruth Hanna for the ladies' club championship, 2-1 in the 18 hole finals. This victory gave Moore the 6th championship in the last nine years.

Both ladies put on a good golf exhibition which was very pleasant to watch.

In watching Ruth Hanna during her match, all indications show that she will be hard to beat next year with all the added experience that she has gained in all her matches here this year.

Field and Stream

Though color often is used in identifying fish, it's not always a good criterion because it can vary widely in different parts of the country, or even within the same lakes or streams.

---

---

The term "fawn" is used to describe the young of the rabbit, caribou, mule deer, white-tailed deer, red deer and antelope.

---

Using all four feet and his mouth, the badger can actually dig himself underground in a matter of seconds.

---

The antlers shed by deer each year are seldom found. Mice, porcupines and other rodents gnaw them for the minerals they contain.

---

Weighing only about 12 ounces, the female green-wing teal is the smallest of North American ducks.

---

During a 70-day season in 1956-57, Michigan waterfowl hunters bagged more than 492,000 ducks.

---

WE BOTH WIN

An independent study of US exports by the Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, O., reveals that Canada, our number one foreign customer, buys more goods from us than the 20 Latin American republics combined.

The US Chamber of Commerce has seized upon this survey as the basis of a booklet: "Our trade with Canada," in which the study is analyzed by Dr. Henry C. Wallich, professor of economics at Yale University.

Dr. Wallich observes that Canada is not only our best customer but our partner in an ideal two-way exchange — since our Canadian imports do not burden our domestic economy in terms of competition with domestic producers or dependence on vulnerable overseas sources of supply.

"Canada supplies raw materials," writes Dr. Wallich, "which our industrial machine devours in great quantities. As our own domestic resources dwindle, we shall have to draw increasingly on those of our northern neighbor." Not only would Canadian raw materials have priority in case of war, but their movement across the "invisible boundary" would be no more subject to enemy action than transport within our own borders.

Aluminum is a good example. Nearly 20 percent of the aluminum ingot used by independent US fabricators came from Canada last year. And this trend should continue since the vast Canadian resources for hydro-electricity for aluminum production, are just beginning to be tapped.

Further, we shall doubtless continue to lead other nations in the consumption of aluminum. Thousands of independent aluminum goods manufacturers busily thinking up new products for the huge and rich US market may be expected to demand more and more primary aluminum each year.

So long as the production of ingots requires huge amounts of electricity and relatively little manpower, and fabrication of aluminum demands a lot of skilled labor and a little electricity, Nathanael V. Davis, of Boston, president of Aluminium Limited, sees "inherent advantages" to both countries in team-work. The amount of electricity consumed per man, at the Kitimat smelter in British Columbia, he points out, would serve 100 US workers making pots, pans and pistons, aircraft parts and cocktail shakers.

And then, too, as the Battelle study points out, our manufacturers can (and do) sell a lot of finished product back to the Canadians. What could be sweeter?

SAFE ON THIRD

The batter who gets on first or second base has a chance to go places. But if he is to score he also must get past third.

The same principle holds for polio vaccination. Here's the way it works:

One shot of vaccine sets up antibodies in some people. Two shots set up antibodies in people who did not react to the first shot. Three shots set up antibodies in about 90 per cent of the people and provide maximum immunity — that is, the most protection for the longest time.

If you're one of the more than 70 million people who have had your first shot, remember this: three are essential. Like a baseball batter, you must be "safe on third" before you can score in the polio war. And if you're one of the 39 million under 40 years of age who have had no shots at all, you'd better go to bat at once.

It has been wisely said that the person who practices self-medication has a fool for a patient. The complexities of the human body and its physiology are legion. It is therefore obvious that those who attempt to treat themselves are courting disaster.

Realty Views

A national news magazine recently interviewed the vice-president of a large investment counseling firm.

It asked, "What should a person's financial position be if he wants to invest in stocks or bonds?"

He replied, "I recommend that he first think about his home. He should be sure he has a home that is satisfactory to him and soundly financed."

The magazine interviewer then asked 'What if he rents an apartment?"

The investment counselor replied, "One of his first investment objectives should be to own his own home. Then, in effect, he is doing what I so strongly advocated —he is putting away some capital each month. The amortized mortgage forces him to put capital away and built up an equity for the future."

The advice of this investment counsel is sound and should be followed. For decades, financial advisors and successful businessmen have urged young couples to start down the road to financial independence by BUYING A HOME.

Your first investment objective should be a home of your own. Since this is an important undertaking, feel free to consult us — anytime — about finding the right home for your family and budget.

NEWS OF THE FARM

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

If you're short of corn storage space for this fall's crop, a forced air drying system might solve your problem without putting up another building, reports Lenawee county District Marketing agent George Dike.

He states that according to Bob Maddex, agricultural engineer at Michigan State University, a farmer could use the center drive of a drive-through crib to store corn if he had a simple unheated air drying system.

Maddex advises building the dryer flue in the center of the drive and removing the slatting from the inside of the two cribs. This will give you a one large storage area for cob corn and the dryer will prevent spoilage.

You can tell how much fan power you will need by the amount of corn you plan to dry. According to Maddex you can take care of 500 bushel or 1,000 baskets of corn for every horse-power on the fan.

This type of unheated air drying isn't usually fast enough if you plan to sell corn to the elevator in the winter or put it under loan. But it is inexpensive and will work out fine for corn you plan to feed or hold into next summer. The total cost of drying will run about 3 to 5 cents a bushel, says Maddex.

Fall weather is not always warm and dry enough to finish drying corn from 30 down to 20 per cent moisture. But you can take out enough moisture to be sure it won't mold during the winter and then run the fan in spring to finish the job.

SPEED DEPENDS ON THE COW

Much emphasis is given these days as to how many cows are milked in an hour. This seems to be the measure of success for a particular system of milking. A statement was recently made that perhaps a combine could go twice as fast but your question would be—are we harvesting all the grain. The same is true in milking cows. With speed of milking being given so much emphasis, are we harvesting all the milk.

Research workers at Nebraska University measured the time required to produce 5 pounds of milk. Data was used only from cows that produced in excess of 15 pounds of milk at each observation. The average rate of milk flow on 99 cows was 6.8 pounds per minute with a range from 2.6 pounds per minute to 13.6 pounds. The slowest milking one-fourth of the cows milked at the rate of 6.0 pounds per minute or less; whereas, the fastest milking one-fourth milked at a rate of 8.5 pounds per minute, or more. Heifers in their first lactation milked at a significantly faster rate as the lactation progressed. The change in rate of flow during the lactation of cows in their second or later lactations was not significant.

Comment: In every herd there will be a similar milk flow variation as in this trial.

Farm Photos Identified, Series Ends

The final two in a series of 52 Herald aerial photos of farms in the Tecumseh area have been identified.

After appearing for a second week, Mystery Farm No. 51 was identified by Roland W. Wittrup, 35, of 212 N. Union, as belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaPointe at Carson and Shepherd roads in Adrian township.

Mr. Wittrup, business manager of Herrick Memorial Hospital, said he had been at the farm several times. Other members of his family are wife, Annie, and two daughters, Heather, 5, and Pamela, 2, and son, Gregory, 3.

The LaPointe family purchased the 96-acre farm three years ago from C. A. (Lonnie) Dibble who now lives at Devils Lake. Dibble had occupied the farm about 40 years and purchased it from the Savages who LaPointe understands secured it on a land grant when Andrew Jackson was president.

LaPointe raises corn, wheat, oats and soybeans and is employed by Tecumseh Products Co. His wife's name is Geraldine. They have one son, Robert, 4.

County Gets New Government Fund For Soil Erosion

The U. S. Government, whose soil conservation program for Lenawee county already had exhausted its original budget of $120,000 for 1957, announced this week that it has obtained additional limited funds and reopened its program Sept. 3 for farmers on a "first-come-first-serve basis."

Application may be made at the offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, 118 W. Church st., Adrian.

The program encourages liming planting trees and shrubs, establishing sod waterways, field diversions, structures for erosion control, tile drainage and Winter cover crops.

Arthur Capper, chairman of the Lenawee ASC committee, states that farmers may obtain up to a maximum of $1,500 or 30 per cent of the cost of each individual project.

The applications are forwarded to Department officials, assigned to this county, who investigated them and if they merit assistance will work with the farmers in carrying out the programs.

These funds are intended by Congress to be spent in the interest of additional conservation practices.

Soil Bank Checks For Wheat Mailed

Wheat payments totaling $130,000 are being mailed out now to Lenawee county farmers under the government's soil bank program, Paul Roekle, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee in Adrian, announces.

Checks will be sent to 209 farmers who signed up last Fall under this year's program and amount to $27 per acre not planted.

Corn payments to 677 farmers amounting to a half million dollars based on $54 per acre will be mailed later this Fall when government agents have had time to see that every contract was complied with.

Roekle also announced that Oct. 4 is the deadline for signing up for wheat under next year's soil bank program.

People who can easily pay any price say:

"Pay more...what for? Ford's the buy!"

Why? Because this 1957 Ford gives you the advanced features, the solid ride, the effortless handling that you once expected to find only in expensive cars. And when it comes to looks, where can you find fresher styling than in the sculptured-in-steel lines of this new Ford?

Ford's superiority is evident in many places. In the vital rear axle, the pinion gear that turns the rear wheels is straddle-mounted . . . supported between two anti-friction bearings instead of being "overhung" from a single bearing. This makes operation quieter, smoother and longer-lasting. It's a feature that Ford shares with only one other car maker in the world—Rolls Royce.

Or consider Ford's famous V-8 engine. No other manufacturer in the industry today electronically balances every V-8 engine, while operating under its own power, the way that Ford does. This means you get a smoother-running engine—the finest V-8 in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership.

These are only a few of the important hidden values that are yours in Ford. But they indicate why so many people who can pay almost any price for a car—people who have driven expensive cars for years—are buying Ford today. Action Test this great performing car at your Ford Dealer's just once and you, too, will ask, "Pay more . . . what for?"

Gas Station Gets New Facelifting

The four building permits issued last week by the City Manager included one for rebuilding the front of the Socony Mobil Oil station on the southeast corner of Pearl and W. Chicago Boulevard.

The contractor, Howard Truesdale, of 210 S. Evans st., estimates the facelifting job that will include a seven by nine foot addition in the rear will cost approximately $7,000.

It is known as Easton's Friendly Service.

Other permits were issued to Charles Spillman, 100 Outer Drive, to build a concrete block garage, 16 by 22, at his residence; Frank Verrier, to put a new roof on his house at 121 N. Ottawa and Fay Whelan, 214 W. Kilbuck st., to construct a metal covered storage shed, 26 by 180, for new and used farm machinery at his place of business, Hoyt E. Whelan Co. at Monroe and Occidental road.

New Bathtub Fits In Smaller Space

A new bathtub, six inches shorter outside and full-size inside, has just been introduced by Briggs Manufacturing Co., Detroit.

Designed to meet an increasing demand for a bathtub requiring only limited space and budget, the new recess model with right or left outlets fits in just 4½ feet, yet the interior is full-sized.

A straight front and non-slope back give full-size bottom surface. The tubs are available in five decorator colors in addition to white.

Sponges Used To Decorate Rooms

Decorative idea: A sponge mosaic.

Bowie's work has won wide acceptance in art circles, and his mosaics are sold extensively throughout the nation, being part of modern art collections in several leading museums.

Although exact details of Bowie's method of making these mosaics are a secret, the kitchen sponges are available in any dime store and the process, generally, is as follows:

The sponges are cut into rectangles and other shapes at random by means of a knife and razor blade, Bowie's only criterion being that the size and shape of the pieces should fit the overall size and shape of the mosaics.

Then the pieces are dyed with texile dyes. Dyed sponges are then dried in an oven. Bowie then chooses his color schemes, mostly by intuition, from the variously dyed pieces.

The chosen pieces are glued to a Masonite panel and allowed to dry. Bowie later picks a frame to suit the completed mosaic. He never uses sketches because he feels it is impossible to have preconceived ideas about color and design.

Louver Doors Help Air Circulate Easier

Louver doors, between rooms and on closets, make home air-conditioning systems work more efficiently. They also add interest to any decorating scheme with their "textured" appearance.

The tilted slats in louver doors of ponderosa pine permit cooled air to circulate more readily from room to room while still maintaining privacy.

On closets, the air moving through the slats prevents musty odors and deters moths.

Open New Home In Sunset Meadows

Planned for modern living, the comfortable large Sunbrook, an all-new National home, will be shown by Tecumseh Homes, Inc., in the Sunset Meadows subdivision on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9.

It is located at 1004 W. Pottawatamie st., at the end of the street.

This spacious three-bedroom National home was professionally planned for the utmost in style and livability by one of the country's finest architects.

The Sunbrook is a wonderful home value, with all the space that today's families need for the fullest enjoyment of their lives.

Among the many features of the Sunbrook, one of National Homes' most popular models, is a large panorama window in the full-size living room. Because of its size, this room is ideal for pleasant and comfortable entertaining and for family fun. Large parties can be handled easily, yet the room arrangement lends itself beautifully to the right-size conversational areas. Extremely flexible furniture arangement is possible, and everyone can suit their own taste.

In the pleasant dining area, there is ample room to seat guests at even the largest of holiday gatherings.

Designed as an efficient work area, the big kitchen in the Sunbrook is a housewife's dream—a place where she can quickly and easily prepare and serve meals that can be eaten in a comfortable and relaxed atmosphere. The dining space in the kitchen will easily accommodate a family of five. There is an abundance of work space and cabinet storage, carefully planned for step-saving convenience.

To make the housewife's chores easier, a large inside storage area is located adjacent to the kitchen. There is ample room for all the household necessities that she uses from day to day. Space for a home laundry is located in the hall, convenient to the bedrooms and the bath.

The three bedrooms and the bath are connected by a center hall, and all the bedrooms have large floor-to-ceiling closets, with sturdy metal shelves and hangars. Bedroom windows are located so as to permit the maximum use of wall space for furniture placement and to permit healthful cross-ventilation.

The bathroom is completely finished with modern fixtures, ceramic tile and an attractive medicine chest that has mirrored, sliding doors.

Only the finest brand-name materials, produced by the country's leading manufacturers, are used in this National home to give it outstanding quality.

Top-grade, No. 1 kiln-dried lumber from leading West Coast producers is used for all structural framing. All exterior walls are insulated with Fiberglas, and there is double insulation in the attic.

This marks the fourth such "open house" for the Tecumseh Homes, who have built 26 homes in past 18 months in this area.

Protect Canvas

Give your awnings, umbrellas and chair sets a new lease on life by coating them every few years with special water-proof canvas paints which are available at most piant and hardware stores. Fabrics will last longer if they are never folded when damp.

Built-Ins Gain

Some 52,000 more built-in gas ranges were sold during the first four months of this year than during the same period of 1956, an 11.7 per cent gain for built-ins, says Practical Builder. Freestanding gas ranges showed a sales decline of 11.1 per cent in the same period.

New Surfacing Is Flexible Plastic

A new kind of plastic countertop which can be formed to curve from the counter up the wall in one piece has recently been put on the market. This plastic is also easily formed to create the "waterfall" effect over the counter edges.

It is a flexible vinyl plastic sheet material, available in rolls 30 inches and 42 inches wide. There are eight colors, including pink, yellow, blue, red, white, green, gray and beige.

The plastic surfacing is said to resist stains from soaps, alkalis and other chemicals normally found in homes. It is unharmed by moisture and is resilient enough to quiet the clatter of dishes.

The material is also being used for table tops, bathroom walls and tub enclosures.

Pry Lids Carefully

Buying A Lot Involves Planning, Investigation

There's a lot more to buying a lot than just finding an attractive site. Experts will tell that it involves planning, investigation and, most of all, common sense.

Don't buy a lot merely because you like its trees, or because its price is low or because it offers a pretty view.

It is true these are important factors. However, there are many others to consider.

The first step in buying a lot is to determine how much you have to spend for both house and lot. This will give you a rough idea of how much money is available for the lot.

Then determine your preference as to location of the lot and what size it should be.

Next, it's important to get the advice of a competent person such as a builder or real estate man. He can steer you clear of areas that once were peat bogs, areas where wells are expensive, areas where cesspools frequently are problems and areas that are declining in value.

However, it's important to remember that there's virtually no such thing as a perfect lot. There's bound to be one or more drawbacks.

It is important, however, to be aware of the drawbacks before you buy the lot—not later, when it's too late.

Pay around 15 to 20 per cent of your total housing outlay when you buy a site. Don't go below 10 per cent and, as a rule, don't go too far above 20 per cent either.

Remember, a cheap site will detract from the value of the house.

Taxes vary among communities. Investigate the tax rate to determine whether it's more than you want to pay.

The size of the house you are planning will determine the size of the lot. Another factor is fitting the size of the lot to a family's garden and other outdoor activities. Remember a large lot requires more work and money to maintain.

Is the lot suitably located for schools, churches, shopping facilities, transportation and your place of work? Is it located so that you won't be bothered by noise, dirt and danger from highways and streets with heavy traffic?

Is the neighborhood well maintained and are the other houses in type and price range with the one you plan to build?

Find out whether the community you plan to move into has zoning ordinances which will keep the neighborhood from being overrun with commercial and industrial enterprises.

Be cautious about areas zoned "open development," because parts of these areas may later be rezoned industrial.

Also find out whether the deed to the lot contains restrictions as to size and type of house you can build.

Notice whether the general style of architecture in the neighborhood is similar to what you plan to build. A neighborhood of clashing styles can affect the value of your house.

Make sure the lot has a clear title. Hire a competent attorney to make a title search or purchase title insurance.

Has the property been improved with paved streets, curbs, sidewalks, storm and sanitary sewers and are utilities already in and paid for? If not, they will be assessed against the property at some future date.

The lot should be well drained. Otherwise, wet or flooded basements may result.

A level lot reduces costs and erosion problems, while a sharply sloping lot is often more expensive to build on.

Be cautious about buying a lot on filled land because such lots can boost construction costs and cause problems later.

Trees make a lot more valuable. If it has no trees, there will be the expense of adding some.

Protect Lumber From Moisture

Dry rot, as a term, is "a lot of rot" in plain conversational terms. Actually there is no such thing as dry rot. A piece of lumber may be dry and rotting when you see it, but it never would have decayed if it had not been moist.

Experts say that no wood will decay if its moisture content is kept below 20 per cent.

An old rule for handling hardwood flooring, is to have it delivered on a dry day and to store it indoors, protected from the weather. Even pine boards to be used for indoor paneling deserve as much respect.

The Western Pine Association urges all home remodelers to store such lumber as knotty pine in the room where it is to be used for four or five days before installation.

What's New — A threaded nail that drives easier, costs less and has 50 to 200% greater holding power than the ordinary one.

Save Space By Hanging Tools

Tool storage is a problem to many gardeners if they don't plan carefully. The first rule is to hang all the tools you can, says Better Homes & Gardens magazine. Then reserve floor space near doors for wheeled equipment and bulky supplies.

Provide dry storage for plant food. Keep the sacks off concrete, or the chemicals may absorb moisture and won't flow evenly through a spreader.

Build shelves and cabinets for tools you can't hang up, but don't build shelves until you have collected the items and know exactly what space you need. Have a special place for pesticides and any other chemicals that may be dangerous to children. Locked storage is best; out of reach storage is second choice.

Farm Photos Identified, Series Ends

Mystery Farm No. 52, because of the unusual roof on the barn, was easily identified. However, the Herald awards free two-year subscriptions to two parties as follows: Miss Helen Jewell, 23, also an employee at Herrick Memorial Hospital, was the first to telephone that the farm belonged to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. (Jack Brown, 7230 Milwaukee at Hendershot. Mrs. Herman F. Dick, Jr., 1328 Robbins, Route 1, Tecumseh, and the farm belonged to Jack's brother, William K. and Anna Brown.

Technically they were both right. Two years ago, Jack Brown, president of Dundee Products Co. in Dundee, purchased the buildings and 22 acres from his brother, William, manager of Kitty-Curtis Farms, which includes the remaining 102 acres as part of a 1,000 acre tract in that area.

This specific farm was purchased from the Ford Motor Co. about 10 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. and Anna Brown live on Smith road near Ford and have four children, Karen, 7, Lorrie, 5, Kenny, 3, and Curt, 1.

Jack Brown's wife is Barbara. They have two children, Catherine and Marc.

Mr. Jewell is an employee of Tecumseh Products Co.

Mrs. Herman Dick, Jr.'s first name is Marietta. They have two children, Eric, 5, and Heidi Sue, 1. Mr. Dick works three farms totaling 260 acres in partnership with his father.

The Jack Browns and the Robert LaPointe families may pick up photos of their farm buildings at Hayden Mills, Inc., sponsors of ads.

Each will receive free two-year subscriptions of the Herald.

Miss Jewell, Mrs. Herman F. Dick, Jr. and Roland W. Wittrup, who identified the farms wil lalso receive free two-year subscriptions.

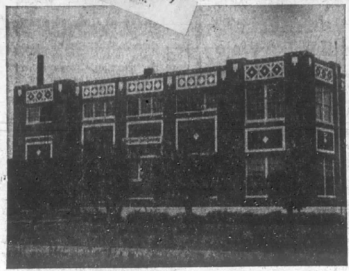
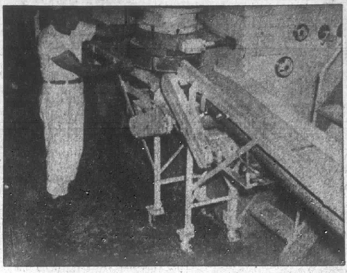
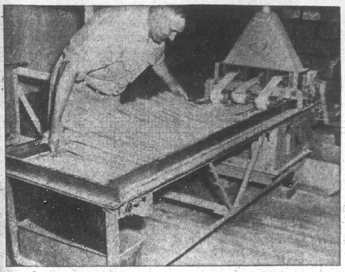
Quaker Oats Mix 5,000,000 Lbs. Of Dough Yearly



The Smiling Quaker Man is represented in Tecumseh by the local plant, which is the only Quaker Oats Company in the U. S. producing macaroni, spaghetti, and noodles.



Orville Dewey runs the presses which mix the basic ingredients of flour and water into dough. The mixture is then forced out through a die, forming the product.



Spaghetti is cut from 24-inch long strips into 8-inch lengths to be packaged. Raymond Seagert of Britton readies the spaghetti strips for the "sawing" process.

Tecumseh Herald Photos

All of the packaging of the three products is done in the local plant. Mable Nichols (left) and Edna Kent supervise on the production line as the macaroni is being boxed.

The smiling Quaker Man, well-known symbol of all Quaker Oats products, may be found in the Quaker Mill on South Evans st. in Tecumseh. The local plant is the only Quaker factory in the United States that produces spaghetti, noodles, and macaroni.

At the present time, about five million pounds of Quaker products are made here annually. There are four machines each with a 600-pound per hour capacity, or a total output of 2,400 hourly.

All three of the products are made from the same basic mixture. The main ingredients, flour and water, are first mixed into dough. This is then propelled into a power-driven auger which forces it out through a die and forms the product.

The only difference in the three products is in their form. Macaroni is a tubular product with holes of large diameter. Spaghetti is a smaller, solid variation, while noodles are made in a flat ribbon style.

The local plant was built in 1910 by Uncle Sam's Macaroni Company and purchased by Quaker Oats in 1917. An average of 35 persons are employed there, ¼ of them being women. They work a five-day week with two shifts in operation during the main part of the year and one employed in the summer. The day workers are on the job from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with a half hour lunch break. Shifts operate in eight hour periods beginning at 6 a.m., 2 p.m., and 10 p.m.

Tours through the plant may be made upon request when it is operating. Several groups of adults and children usually go through each year. Press dinners to promote good relations with area newspapers and radio stations are given often.

According to Donald T. Nixon, manager of the Tecumseh plant, macaroni production is a very com-

Editor's Corner . . .

BY RALPH BIDWELL

Early on the morning of Feb. 4, 1953, detectives in stocking feet stole through the corridor of a small Detroit hotel. They stopped before a fourth floor door while one silently fitted a key in the lock.

He threw the door open and three of the detectives, pistols drawn, leaped inside. The other two stopped in the doorway.

In the room a half-dressed man whirled around, seized a revolver from the bed and tried to raise it. One detective hit him high and another hit him low. The third detective leaped into the pile of fighting men and grabbed the man's gun and handcuffed him.

The man under arrest was Adelore Gannon, a bandit with a prison record going back to 1922. His partner was arrested when he arrived at the room a few hours later.

Chief credit for the arrests was given to Detective- Lieutenant Dudley Arnold o fthe Detroit Police Department Hold-Up Bureau, who worked for three weeks on the case.

This is the Dudley Arnold who was reared and educated in Tecumseh and who returns here unnoticed twice a week to care for his ailing mother and father, Frank and Nina Arnold, of 405 W. Patterson st.

Lieut. Arnold started his investigation when two other bandits were arrested for the holdup of a bar. He thought that all of a series of recent bar holdups would be solved through these arrests but more than half of the victims failed to identify these two suspects.

Convinced that another gang also was at work, Arnold searched police records and found Gannon's picture. Gannon, who had served three terms in the Jackson State Prison and one in the Marquette State Prison, all for robbery armed, had just been freed.

About the same time the plumbing in a small Woodward avenue hotel became jammed and plumbers found the cause was a wallet which had been thrown into a drain.

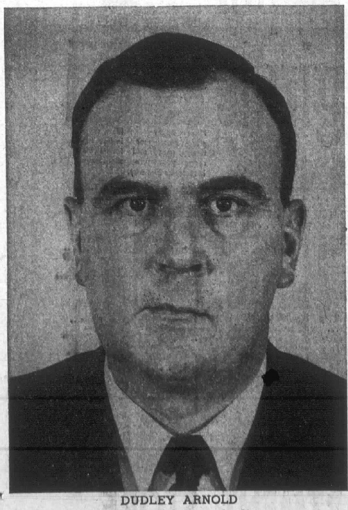
Arnold took the photograph of Gannon to the hotel where it was identified as that of a man who had lived there for several days. A victim also identified it.

Arnold discovered that Gannon had made several telephone calls to an accomplish in River Rouge. On a telephone book in Gannon's room, he also discovered the name of another accomplice and the name of the hotel where he was staying.

Lieut. Arnold led a squad of detectives who arrested the two.



DUDLEY ARNOLD

Gannon, who had used several aliases, was traced through Detroit and Toledo by his handwriting. Arnold spent several sleepless nights as he went from hotel to hotel, com-

The West front entrance is for out patients only. The rear entrance is for ambulances and other emergencies.

Siren No Joke To Burglar, Fireman

As a result of his ingenuity, a burglar who broke into his office early last Thursday apparently got the scare of his life and a neighbor, Richard Vallie, got up earlier than usual, in fact, his clock said 4:30 a.m.

Britton and State Police are seeking the burglar, believed to be an itinerant tomato picker, who entered the agency on M-50 by breaking a pane of glass and unlocking the side office window. He ransacked the office and proceeded to turn the key that Keeling left in the cash drawer. As he did, a siren that Keeling had wired to the register began to blast. The burglar didn't lose any time in escaping for the money in the drawer was undisturbed.

Vallie, who is a Britton volunteer fireman, heard the siren, got up and dressed and was about to report to the fire hall when the siren stopped. Figuring the fire was a false alarm he went back to bed.

Keeling, who discovered the burglary when he opened at his usual time, said the siren wires got "hot" and the relay switch clicked off stopping the siren.

Pheasant's Dive Fatal

When Paul Wolf opened his appliance store at 810 Adrian st. Monday morning he found a plate glass window, nine by 10 feet square, broken and glass strewn all about his displayed merchandise.

He immediately called Police Chief George Kilbourn but before the chief arrived, Paul discovered a dead cock pheasant about 25 feet inside the store. Pieces of glass were scattered for an additional 25 feet.

They were amazed that a pheasant could fly with such force as to break the heavy glass, particularly so close to the frame. Center of the hole was about 18 inches from the top.

Fund Board Elects Two New Trustees

The Board of the Tecumseh Community Fund held a public meeting in the City Council rooms Monday night with George Green, Jr., presiding.

Besides the transaction of routine business an election of trustees was held with the following elected: John R. Thompson, for three years; Vern Manwaring, three years; Kenneth Hall, three years, and Frank Rice, one year.

Manwaring and Hall are elected to their first terms on the Board.

The Board then elected its own officers for one year as follows: Owen Partridge, president; Frank Rice, vice-president; Merlyn Downing, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. H. H. Hanna, corresponding secretary.

Vern Manwaring, new trustee and chairman of the 1957 Fund Drive, announced that a Community Fund drive of short but intensive duration is being planned and will begin Oct. 15 with a kick-off breakfast for the workers, place and time to be announced later, and end at midnight on Oct. 31.

People who expect to be out of town during those dates are asked to make their checks payable to the Tecumseh Community Fund and either mail to or leave with the Board treasurer, Merlyn Downing, at the United Savings Bank or at his home.

Steve Hriska of Adrian who is working closely with Howard White of Deerfield on the development of a Lenawee County Community Chest that would, if put into effect, incorporate the various city and village drives throughout the county, was a guest and conducted an informal discussion on the merits of such a plan.

Spotlight Child Needs In State

The Tecumseh Community Chest Board wishes to announce that the Governor has proclaimed this week Michigan Children's Aid Week.

This is a participating agency in the Michigan United Fund, Inc., toward which Tecumseh's share for 1957 will be $3,717.

Mrs. Truman Rentschler, who has served on a United Fund panel investigating the Children's Aid Society's need, states that 20 persons in Lenawee county received direct aid or contact in 1956 from this agency.

Property Major Issue Discussed By School Board

Purchase and sale of property were the major issues discussed by the Board of Education Monday night.

Rev. Robert Bergman, pastor of Tecumseh's newest congregation, the Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheron Church, accompanied by three church, restated their offer of $15,000 for the Brownville school property at Mill and Brown streets, hoping to as Rev. Bergman stated "get our roots established in the community as soon as possible.

The offer included a stipulation that the school building be used for that purpose until end of the 1958 school year.

The Board, presided over by Aden Mead, vice-president, postponed a decision on the matter until the board president Jens Touberg, is present and an appraisal by a local realtor is furnished the board at its next meetiny.

The church members were incosting approximately $600, mu beheld authorizing such sale before a deal could be consumated.

The Board authorized the superintendent to contact the farmer relative to amount of land he would sell and if agreeable, the cost of it. The Board recommended that at least an acre and possibly more be sought.

Hold Late Classes To Avoid Crowding

With 972 pupils enrolled, our building built for approximately 600 is bulging at the seams. Rooms designed to accommodate 35 or less pupils in a class, which is a requirement of the North Central Association, cannot hold the 40 or more students registered per class, he said. Thus, it has become necessary to schedule additional classes from 3 until 4 p.m., since all available class rooms are used every other hour of the day.

City pupils were assigned to these late afternoon classes because bus pupils must leave school at 3 p.m. in order for the busses to return by 4 p.m. to transport the elementary pupils.

Council Convenes To Issue Bonds

A special meeting of the City Council was held Tuesday night to pass a resolution authorizing the City to raise $30,000 for its share of building the new Raisin River bridge on M-52 by means of a bond issue, redeemable in six years.

City Attorney James C. Beardsley and City Manager E. J. Nelson called the special session so that there would be no delay on the city's part.

The bonds will be paid primarily from revenues from the State weight and gas taxes returned to the City.

Non-Delivery Of Two New Busses Impedes Schools

Tecumseh Schools are handicapped at present in bus service due to non-delivery of two new buses, Supt. James McDowell reports.

Every effort has been made to provide service to all those who are eligible but there are still a few children who may be entitled to service who are not getting it, he said.

Another factor has been the lack of facilities at the new Patterson School due to non-completion of the building by opening date. Some of these children have been housed at the Baptist Church and Central School, putting them over the mile limit from their homes.

Parents have in general been very helpful and have been transporting their own children to school, he said.

However, a few have refused to cooperate, he said, and it is hoped that other parents will help out until the new buses arrive by taking neighbor children with their own.

Bus service was voted by the people in July of 1952 and recorded in the minutes of the Board of Education as follows:

"Shall School District No. 7, Tecumseh Township, Tecumseh Public Schools, Lenawee County, Michigan, furnish transportation by bus of pupils to public schools in this district who live more than one mile from the schoolhouse" was passed by a vote of 63 to 6, total votes cast 69.

Finds Giant Puffballs In Woods

While hunting for mushrooms with his father last Sunday, Danny Dermyer, 22, of 510 E. Chicago Boulevard, found these giant puffballs which he shows here in the trunk of his car. The largest one weighed 15½ pounds and the other five pounds less. "I could have filled the trunk of my car with them, there were so many big ones," he said.

He said they were found in a wooded area along Centennial road, about one mile east of the Centennial School in Raisin township.

"They can be eaten but I don't care for them," Danny said.

Betty Barton, Charles Hyatt Wed In Candlelight Ceremony

The First Presbyterian Church of Tecumseh was beautifully decorated Saturday evening, Sept. 6, for the impressive candle light wedding ceremony of Betty Jane Barton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Barton of 515 W. Pottawatamie st. and Charles Russell Hyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyatt of Mill Highway.

The chancel was banked with arrangements of white gladioli, white Fuji mums and white pompoms. The traditional aisle runner was used and the pews were marked with large white satin bows.

The Rev. George E. Walworth, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Fred C. Dickinson played selections of the brides choice on the organ and accompanied Miss Betty Day who sang "Always," "Because" and "The Lords Prayer" preceding the ceremony.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white silk mist taffeta fashioned with long pointed sleeves and basque waist featuring a princess panel from waist to hemline with a side crushed cummerbund shaping into a bow at the hips and ending in a chapel train. The scoop neckline was circled with re-embroidered alencon lace. An orange blossom and pearl pillbox held her finger-tip imported silk illusion veil in place and she wore a string of pearls at her throat. She carried an heirloom silk handkerchief and a cascade bouquet of white Butterfly roses and white Frenched mums enhanced with a white fuji mum and tufts of white nylon tulle accented with ivy in a graceful, sweeping line.

Mrs. Alroy Vanderpool attended the bride as matron of honor wearing a ballerina length gown of gold taffeta with full bouffant skirt princess styled with cowl neckline in front, V in back with a large bow at the V. She wore matching mitts and a headband of velvet leaves of gold. She carried a reed parasol interlaced with velvet ribbons and honey gold sweetheart roses, purple astors and gypsophilia.

MRS. CHARLES HYATT

The bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Bashore and Miss Lurlene Averitt of Livonia who was a roommate of the bride at Eastern Michigan College last year. They wore gowns styled the same as the matron of honor in neptune green with matching headbands and they carried bronze fuji mums and gold pompoms in their reed parasols which were decorated with velvet ribbons.

Mr. Alroy Vanderpool attended the groom as best man and the ushers were Jerry Barton, brother of the bride, and Tom Hamilton, Jr. Richard Hyatt, brother of the groom, and Tom Barton, brother of the bride, were junior ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Barton wore a sheath dress of white lace over pink taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of red rosette sweetheart roses. Mrs. Hyatt wore a princess styled dress of lilac eyelet over taffeta with lilac accessories and a pink sweetheart rose corsage.

A reception for 225 guests was held in Fellowship Center of the Church with Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Dickinson and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Packard serving as hosts.

Miss Clara Waldron decorated the Center with bouquets of garden flowers and candles and gorgeous tuberous begonias in hues of yellow, red and orange circled the five-tiered square all white wedding cake. Garlands of myrtle decorated the front of the white cloth and the punch bowl also was circled with the beautiful begonias.

Miss Sylvia Helzerman and Miss Lucile Bishop cut and served the cake while Mrs. Marvin Higgins and Mrs. Ray Covell served punch and Miss Merene Boltz poured coffee. Ann Kempf and John Barton took charge of the gifts and Mrs. Jerry Barton registered the guests. Others assisting at the reception were friends of the bride's parents: Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Holdridge, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mukensturm and Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman.

The wedding and reception were graced by the presence of the bride's two great grandmothers, Mrs. Nellie Glenn and Mrs. Mary Wright of Stockbridge.

For traveling the bride wore a charcoal colored suit with red accessories when they left to spend a few days in Northern Michigan. Upon their return they will live in a new home on Mill Highway.

The couple both are graduates of Tecumseh High School, the groom in 1954 and the bride in 1956. She attended the Eastern Michigan College at Ypsilanti for one year.

Guests attending the wedding came from Stockbridge, Trenton, Oxford, Dearborn, Fowlerville, Pinkney, Reading, Detroit and Leslie as well as the local area.

Ousterhout - Dresch Wedding

The glow of myriad candles lighted the First Presbyterian church Saturday evening for the marriage of Barbara Jane Ousterhout and Harold Stephen Dresch. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ousterhout of Tecumseh while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Dresch of Manchester.

Candles in tall, flower trimmed holders lined each of the three aisles and in candelabra candles were massed with palms and with hampers and vases of white flowers to decorate the Chancel. White gladioli and chrysanthemums were used throughout, clusters with candles being placed in each window of the sanctuary and baskets beautifying the church Narthex where the bridal party formed a receiving line after the ceremony.

Prenuptial music was played by Mrs. Herbert Dillon as the guests were seated by the ushers, David Ousterhout, brother of the bride, Frank Randall of Manchester, Gale Sturdevandt of Playo Del Ray, Calif. and Ronald Finkbinder of Saline. Armond Dresch of Manchester was his brother's best man.

Immediately before the Rev. George Walworth, pastor of the church, spoke the impressive lines of the double ring marriage service, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwartz, standing in the rear balcony, sang "I Believe" and "Because" and later as the bridal couple knelt at the altar, Mr. Schwartz sang "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was preceded down the aisle by her maid of honor, Jane Smith, of Tecumseh and four bridesmaids, Joan Barry of Indianapolis, Ind., Gladys Badowski of Dayton, Ohio, Linda Sisson of Tecumseh and Sandra Simmons of Tipton. Miss Barry and Miss Badowski are Barbara's sorority sisters. Also in the wedding party were two tiny flower girls, five-year-old Pamela Czarnecki of Manchester and Ginnie Sue Ousterhout, two and a half years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ousterhout. Four-year-old Timmy Harrison of Detroit carried the wedding rings on a heart shaped lace pillow.

Traditional white satin formed the bride's beautiful gown. It was styled with a closely fitted bodice of pearl and sequin embroidered lace and had a scalloped portrait neckline edged with similarly embroidered lace. The full skirt flowed into a sweeping cathedral train and was inset with beaded gadroons of lace. A slender coronet of seed pearls, entwined with veiling held her elbow length veil of double illusion and she carried a dainty cascade arrangement of white Phaelanopsis orchids and stephanotis edged with strands of ivy. Her only jewelry was a tiny cross of white gold, a gift from the groom.

Each of the five attendants wore floor length gowns made in identical style of delft blue tulle and velvet with matching pillbox hats. The dresses had pleated bodices with wide attached cowl collars of velvet and the very bouffant tulle skirts had back panels and bows of the velvet. Their flowers were cascades of rubrum lilies, combined with tulle and ivy and tied with blue velvet tubing which extended below the flowers. Little Pamela's dress of pale blue taffeta was floor length with a lace edged cowl and velvet sash. Ginnie Sue's diminutive, bouffant dress was of the same material and each carried a tiny formal bouquet of pink rosebuds. The youthful ringbearer wore a white evening jacket, a small replica of those worn by all the men of the wedding party.

The bridal gown and those of the attendants were all designed and made by Maude Bell.

Mrs. Ousterhout chose a semi-formal dress of nutmeg brown lace over champagne taffeta for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were also champagne and she wore a corsage of pale yellow orchids. Mrs. Dresch's sheath dress was of powder-blue silk faille, her accessories were navy blue and her corsage of pink Cymbidium orchids.

A reception for the four hundred guests was held later at the Tecumseh Country Club where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ringman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Manchester and registered in the guest book by the Misses Greta and Brenda Porter. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Colgrove were hosts at the church.

Pink and white gladioli, pink roses and Fugji chrysanthemums with pink candles were used profusely throughout the club rooms, one especially effective arrangement decorating the mantel in the lounge. The cake table, flounced with white organdy over pink taffeta and festooned with smilax stood directly in front of the fireplace and held the beautiful, six-tiered, square wedding cake which was topped by a colonial bouquet and surrounded by a wreath of gardenias and pink roses. This was flanked by the two similarly draped punch tables which were presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Corley of Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright of Manchester, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rathbun of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kohn of Inkster.

MRS. HAROLD S. DRESCH

The cake was cut by Miss Dianne Woodward and Miss Denise Scully of Dexter and Mrs. Vincent Haight, Mrs. Harold Kelso and Mrs. Willis Porter were the serving hostesses.

Coffee was poured from silver services by Mr. Clark Rathbun of Fowlerville, Mrs. Gaylon T. Ford of Basking Ridge, N.J. (both aunts of the bride), Mrs. Eliza Moore of Fowlerville and Mrs. James Bishop, the bride's cousin, of Tecumseh.

The gifts were accepted by Miss Lettie Ringman and Larry Dresch, the groom's brother. Music during the evening was furnished by the Cal Damon Trio.

When the newly wedded couple left for a week's honeymoon on Cape Cod, the bride was wearing a jacket dress of blue tweed with tangerine accessories and a white orchid shoulder corsage.

Mrs. Dresch graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1955 and attended Purdue University where she was a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority. She is now an engineering aide for Commonwealth Associates in Jackson. Mr. Dresch, a graduate of Manchester High School in 1955, is employed in Ann Arbor.

They will reside in a newly furnished apartment in Chelsea, Mich.

Mrs. Floyd Bryan of Britton and Mrs. Florence Bateman of Eaton Rapids poured the coffee. Miss Nellie Wilson of Tecumseh was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Allison received 86 callers, many cards, letters and telephone calls, one from her son in Elmhurst, Ill., who was unable to be present. # Lenora Jordan Weds Eugene Rathbun In Macon Church

MRS. EUGENE RATHBUN

The Macon Methodist Church was the scene of a beautiful candlelight marriage ceremony Saturday evening, Sept. 7, when Lenora Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman A. Jordan of Route 1, Saline, and Eugene Rathbun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rathbun of 2440 Shawnee Trail, Okemos, Mich. spoke their vows.

The altar vases were filled with white gladioli and beauty vases of white glads with blue delphinium accented with ivy further decorated the church for the wedding. The Rev. Donald Bates, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Hilson of Lansing, performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

The bride given in marriage by her father was lovely in a gown of chantilly lace over taffeta, styled with a Queen Anne collar, below elbow sleeves, fitted bodice and a full, ballerina length skirt. A lace crown accented with seed pearls and sequins held her three-tierd illusion veil in place. She wore lace mitts and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid and accented with ivy. She was attended by Jenette McPherson of Lowell, Mich., a college roommate, as maid of honor and by two bridesmaids, Gail Hoover, a cousin from Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Marian Nelson of Lansing, Mich. The attendants wore satin gowns of like design with a scoop neckline and straight skirt. A full back was caught with a bow to the hemline. They wore head bands and shoes to match the colors of their dresses and carried crescent bouquets of cherry red and white carnations with mums accented with ivy. Miss McPerson's dress was cherry red in color, Miss Hoover's was light blue and Miss Nelson's was royal blue.

The groom was attended by Norman Nevins of Lansing, Mich., as best man, Truman Jordan, brother of the bride and James Rathbun and Jack Rathbun, brothers of the groom, seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Jordan wore gold with black accesories and the groom's mother wore navy and light blue with navy accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

A reception was held at the church immediately following the ceremony for 150 guests. A beautiful five-tiered cake topped with an open Bible and the lettering "Lenora and Gene" with the date centered the serving table. It was flanked by silver and candelabra filled with blue candles and blue and white flowers further carried out the blue and white theme.

Miss Pat Clancy of Rives Junction, Mich., was the hostess while Mrs. Janet Gorton of Britton registered the guests. Mrs. Robert Green, aunt of the bride, of Frazer, Mich., and Mrs. Jack Rathbun, sister-in-law of the groom, of Lansing, cut the cake while punch was poured by Mrs. Karen Miller of Ridgeway, tea by Mrs. Sue Colucci of East Lansing and coffee by Miss Joan Grant of Detroit.

The new Mrs. Rathbun wore a brown suit with brown and beige accessories for traveling. She is a graduate of Clinton High School in 1954 and a senior at the Michigan State University. Mr. Rathbun graduated from Okemos High School in 1954 and is now employed at the Okemos Hardware store. They will reside at 580 Sparton Ave. in East Lansing.

Editors Corner . . . . .

paring samples of Gannon's writing, obtained from prison records, with the hotel registers.

Finally, he found Gannon registered in another small hotel under the name of Robert Tandy. He tried the door but found Gannon was absent.

He called his boss and the other detectives and for hours they waited across the street, watching Gannon's room window with binoculars.

Shortly after 4 a.m. Gannon walked into his room. Five minutes later the detectives overpowered him.

Then Arnold, after a pat on the back from his boss, went home to make up some of the sleep he had lost in his big investigation.

This is but one example of thousands of such cases that Lieut. Arnold has worked on in his twenty years on the Detroit Police Department, 17 as a detective and 11 years as a member of the Hold-Up Bureau.

We have known Lieut. Arnold for the past 15 years and have written many times before about his crack investigative work. He has received 42 citations for his outstanding accomplishments in dealing with the most dangerous type of criminal, the armed robber. His record is seldom equalled.

And fortunately he has done all this without shooting anyone or being shot himself.

Two of the citations, classified as Departmental Citations, were for work more heroic and more outstanding than the case previously cited.

In one, in 1954, he was credited with solving a $31,000 bank holdup, arresting two defendants in Detroit and supplying information to the FBI which led to three other arrests in Chicago.

In the other, he help bring about arrest of gang that had been hijacking Kroger store delivery truck drivers in 1950.

We could go on enumerating case after case that this former Tecumsehite helped solve but space wouldn't permit.

Lieut Arnold is the first person we ever knew from Tecumseh and we feel he deservs his place along with the many fine persons who have left this city and made good.

Dudley Arnold was born in Owosso and accompanied his parents to Tecumseh when he was two years old. He completed his elementary and secondary education at Central School, graduating in 1927. He spent the next four years at Western Michigan and Michigan State, majoring in the sciences, namely, chemistry and physics.

The depression came along about that time and jobs were scarce. He worked at Ford Motor Co. and in 1935 he put his application in for a steady job on the police department. Two years later he donned a uniform and walked a beat in the area around present Briggs Stadium. In three years he was promoted to a detective and he has been a plainclothed investigator ever since.

Lieut. Arnold, his wife, Doris, and one son, John, 18, a freshman at Wayne State University, live at 9130 Mendota in Detroit.

Two years ago they moved to their present home and in that time he has transformed a barren rear yard into a veritable garden of eden.

When he retires in five years Lieut. Arnold and his wife plan to return to Tecumseh to live.

RESOLUTION

Special Meeting of the Common Council of the City of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, and State of Michigan, held on the 10th day of September 1957 at 7:30 p.m.

Present: Mayor Hanna, Councilmen Purkey, Kelso, Schlegel and Freckelton.

Absent: Councilmen Hamilton and Brazee.

The following preamble and resolution was offered by Councilman Kelso and supported by Councilman Schlegel.

WHEREAS the replacement of the bridge spanning the River Raisin on North Evans Street, said bridge being otherwise known as the Red Pond Bridge and being designated by the Michigan State Highway Department as Project B 2 OF 46-21-5 C-2, is now pending; and

WHEREAS the estimated cost of said project is $196,000.00 of which amount the sum of $30,000.00 is the aliquot portion which the City of Tecumseh must pay; and

WHEREAS it is necessary that monies be raised and set aside for the payment of said share of the City in said project.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT:

1. Pursuant to the provisions of Act 175, Public Acts of Michigan of 1952 (MSA 5.3190 et seq.), the City raise said $30,000.00 by means of a Bond Issue, said Bonds to bear interest at no greater amount than 4 per cent per annum, to be redeemed at the rate of $5,000.00 per year.

2. Said Bonds shall be Serial Bonds with annual maturities, the aggregate of which shall not exceed Six Years from the end of the calendar year of issue, the first of which shall fall due not more than two years from the date of issuance, and no maturity after two years from date of issuance shall be less than one-third of the amount of any subsequent maturity; and said Bonds shall be redeemable upon any interest due date with interest paid from date of issuance to said due date, all as is more particularly set forth in the attached Exhibit A, said Exhibit being the substantial form of the completed Bond and which is incorporated within this Resolution by reference.

3. Said Bonds shall be payable primarily from the proceeds of revenues derived from State collected taxes returned to said City for road purposes pursuant to law; and said revenues are irrevocably appropriated for the payment of the principal and interest upon said Bonds; but if, for any reason, said revenues are insufficient to retire the principal and interest of said Bonds, the full faith and credit of the City is pledged for such payment and the City shall be obligated to pay said Bonds and interest to the same extent as other general obligations of the City, and shall be reimbursed from subsequent revenues received from State collected taxes returned to the City for road purposes pursuant to law.

4. The City Clerk is requested to publish a copy of the Resolution in The Tecumseh Herald on September 12, September 19 and September 26.

AYES: Unanimous.
NAYS: None.

By Leo Bishop

This will be the last golf report from Tecumseh Country Club as the new winners in the Sixth Annual Husband and Wife Tournament are posted.

None of our past champions placed in any of the first three positions. There were 26 teams in all that played during the sunny afternoon. A steak roast at the shelter followed the event.

Results for the leading teams were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rohweder, 71; Mr. and Mrs. William Macbeth, 72; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Porter, 73; Mr. and Mrs. Cal Roll, 74; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell, 76; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Russell, 76, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hanna, 78.

Special prizes were awarded Mrs. Leo Bishop for the woman golfer closest to the pin on No. 6 hole, 21 feet eight inches; Cal Roll, closest to the pin on No. 4 hole among men golfers, 10 feet eight inches; Paul Callahan and Miss M. Hardy for the lowest mixed two-some score, 74.

We still have approximately five weeks of fine golfing weather so let's sharpen up our game for next year.

Merchant Must Raise Funds

cial meeting Sept. 24 and hope to have the public hearing on Oct. 8 in order to speed up the program.

W. A. Wright, local druggist, speaking in behalf of the merchants present, said, "this sort of planning is our only salvation" and complimented the Commission on their fine survey.

The other merchants, Harold Green, George French, J. E. Cameron and Ralph Hodges voiced similar statements.

Mayor Hanna and City Manager Nelson said the City is in no financial position to carry out the program but agreed that monies derived from the meters once in operation could be earmarked for repayment to the merchants who financed it.

It was recommended that the merchants form a non-profit holding company to sell shares of stock to finance the purchase of various properties, meters, etc.

The Planning Comission, once the "Master Plan" was adopted, would act only in an advisory capacity.

Quaker Oats Mix Dough

petitive business. There are 900 million pounds of macaroni produced and consumed in the United States each year. On a weight basis, this breaks down into: 45% conventional elbow macaroni, 30% long spaghetti, 15% noodles, and 10% all other specialties.

The Tecumseh branch of the Quaker Oats Company supplys ½ to ¾ of 1% of the total amount consumed nationally. There are about 250 macaroni plants in the country, with the biggest producers located in New York City and New Jersey. The largest single producer makes 15% of the total consumed; the five or six largest companies produce 25% of the total. The remainder is made in various smaller amounts in plants, such as the local one, that are scattered around the United States.

The biggest area serviced by Quaker Oats is the Chattanooga Valley and the surrounding states, particularly Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, the Carolinas, and Florida. The company has begun a new program in which they are setting up stock points around the country to distribute macaroni products.

The Quaker Oats name and trade-mark date back to the incorporation of the Quaker Mill Company in 1877. The partners in the Ravenna, Ohio, venture, impressed with the strength and character of the Quakers, chose "the figure of the man in Quaker garb" as their trade-mark. Initially applied to oatmeal, cracked corn, cracked wheat, pearled barley, and farina, the Quaker Oats name was adopted by succeeding companies and popularized through widespread advertising.

Although oatmeal is Quaker's traditional "first product," their list of other table foods is wide and varied. They make a complete line of ready-to-eat cereals, including Quaker Puffed Wheat and Quaker Puffed Rice, famous around the world as the original "shot from guns" cereals.

Aunt Jemima Ready Mix for pancakes goes back nearly 75 years. Still synonymous with pancakes, the label today is also applied to flour, corn meal and grits. Convenience foods include Flako Pie Crust Mix, Flakorn Corn Muffin Mix, and such specialty items as Masa Harina, a ready mix for tortillas.

While some Quaker Oats brands are marketed sectionally, many of these leading brand names may be found in many parts of the country. In addition to those goods produced for human consumption, the Quaker name is also applied to Ken-L-Products dog food, Puss 'n Boots cat food, Ful-O-Pep livestock and poultry feeds, and Q. O. Chemicals.

The Quaker Oats Company has 28 plants in the United States, employing about 6,500 people. Their central office is located in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Flour which is used in the products is milled there and shipped in carlots to various other plants around the country.

Today the company also manufactures its products at fifteen plants in eight foreign countries. Mills are found in Argentina, Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Denmark, England, Germany, and The Netherlands. In addition, products of The Quaker Oats Company are made by licensee companies in two other countries—Mexico and South Africa. About 2,700 people are employed outside of the United States.

Non-Delivery Of New Buses

At that time the Board purchased one bus as none of the 17 rural districts which have since annexed were involved. The bus was intended for use primarily in Tecumseh Acres as that subdivision was over the mile limit to school. The Board set the boundaries for pick-up by bus within the corporate limits at 1 mile and over for both elementary and secondary children.

In the interest of safety, a few children were picked up under these limits if they lived in the city and there were no sidewalks. With the annexation of new rural districts, the transportation of children outside the corporate limits of the city was changed to meet the State Department of Public Instruction requirements so as to receive funds from State Aid for transportation purposes.

At that time, all elementary children outside the corporation limits who lived a half mile or more and all secondary children living a mile or more were picked up unless they lived within these limits of the bus routes. Elementary and secondary children living where sidewalks were available inside the city limits and less than a mile from school were not allowed on the buses. All city kindergarten children were picked up if they lived 1/2 mile or more from the school.

These regulations have been followed since then and are still in effect even though the State now refuses to pay State Aid for transportation of any pupils living less than 1½ miles from school, as the Board believes that the transportation of children to school should not be cut regardless of State Aid reductions.

O.E.S. Meets, Improvements On Temple Listed

The first fall meeting of the Order of Eastern Star was held in the Masonic Temple Sept. 5 with Mrs. Ralph Westgate, worthy matron, presiding.

The charter was draped in memory of Robert Moore who passed away while the chapter was recessed for two months during the summer. Mrs. Westgate read a poem in tribute.

The chapter's Improvement Committee reported that the drapes in the dining room and temple were cleaned, new dishes purchased by the Masons and O.E.S. have arrived, cupboards in the kitchen have been remodeled and the bath, kitchen and dining rooms were repainted.

Proficiency cards were presented to Mrs. Essie Bonnell, Mrs. Omar Greenman nad Mrs. Eleanor Wiley.

An announcement was made that the Lenawee-Monroe Association will meet in Dundee on Sept. 26. All who wish dinner reservations are urged to call Mrs. Westgate or Mrs. Agnes Harris before Sept. 20.

An invitation was read for all members to attend a tea given in honor of Mrs. Mabel Shaw, grand Ruth of the Chapter of Michigan, at the home of Mrs. Katherine Hunt Sunday, Sept. 15, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Musch and the committee. A card party followed under the arrangements of Mrs. Lois Reinhart.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Eleanor Wiley and Mrs. Melvin Smith.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for Oct. 3 at which time an annual election of officers will be held.

Two-Story House Called Best Buy

Provided they are big enough, two-story houses can be built for less money than single-story dwellings, according to a study in House & Home, national professional magazine of the homebuilding industry.

In an article to show builders how a switch from ranch-style to two-story models migh help them increase their sales, and give home buyers more space for less money, the magazine contrasts two roughly comparable houses erected by Rochester (N.Y.) home builder Frank Schantz.

His ranch model priced at $16,851 provides 1,100 square feet of living space, costing $15.50 a square foot. His two-story model for $16,394 provides 1,400 square feet of space, costing only $11.66 a square foot.

Many buyers prefer two-story houses, says House & Home, because bedrooms are private, more separated from living area; upstairs is out of sight of visitors, does not have to be kept "front-parlor" clean and neat.

Four bedrooms, each with two exposures, are easy to obtain; there is space for a separate dining room; the two-story house looks big and important; it is easier and cheaper to heat.

New Rectory Roof Covers Sidewalk

Tecumseh Herald Photos

The new, completely modern 11-room St. Elizabeth's Rectory is now nearly finished. The rectory is the last of four parish buildings completed on seven acres of land on North Union st.

The rectory, in brick with turquoise trim, includes eleven rooms and a two-car garage attached. It was built by Haeussler Company at a bid estimate of $36,000; however, Father Collins says that it has been completed at a considerably lower price. The entire building comprises 2,700 square feet of floor space.

The front entranceway is done in natural slate. To the right as you walk in is the waiting room and offices for the priest and assistant. A door at the end of the hall allows direct passage into the garage.

Directly to the left of the front door is the housekeeper's apartment, including bedroom, bath and living room. A long hallway leads to bedrooms for the priest, assistant, and a guest, plus a large bath.

Father Collin's spacious living room faces the back of the lot and opens onto a small porch. Two walls are done in dark green with the others each composed of four large glass panes. Full-length drapes in a neutral color with narrow black and gold stripes running through may be pulled completely across. The carpet is Nutria, a sort of gray-rose shade.

The all-modern kitchen is decorated with turquoise walls. Efficiency is at its peak with the built-in oven, stove, refrigerator, dishwasher, and disposal unit, and the large natural birch cabinets.

Special features include a four-foot overhanging roof which covers the sidewalks in front and natural birch woodwork and doors throughout the rectory. The building is heated by gas and air conditioned.

Also included are oak floors in the bedrooms, vinyl tile floors in the offices. Both bathrooms have terrazzo floors and tile walls. Most of the furniture is from the former rectory, but as much new as available funds would purchase was added.

The building was begun on May 20 and was ready to occupy 13 weeks later. It represents pledges of 72 of the 325 families in the parish. Father Collins took a pre-fab house plan and adapted it to suit a rectory, thus saving a large architect's fee. The preparation of the ground for landscaping was all done by parishoners.

Two rooms were also added to the convent this summer at a cost of $2,500. This will accommodate one new sister. The convent was originally a nine-room building, taking care of four sisters and including four bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, parlor, and chapel.

The seven acres on which the four buildings stand was bought about ten years ago at an approximate cost of $6,500, according to Father Collins. A recent appraisal by a fire insurance company estimated the buildings at a $340,000 replacement value.

St. Elizabeth's grade school now has an enrollment of almost 300 pupils. The school bus makes a 40-mile trip twice daily, picking up children from Macon, Britton, Ridgeway, Holloway, and other rural areas. The Irish Hills bus, owned and operated by parishioners, provides transportation for about 50 children.

Automatic Heat in 18,600,000 Homes

Those of you who are already thinking about the winter heating problem will be interested to know that more than 28 million homes in the nation have central heating systems and 18,600,000 of them operate automatically.

A report by Minneapolis-Honeywell, manufacturer of heat controls, indicate a tdemendous changeover to automatic heating in the past 10 years. In 1946 there were only 7,135,000 automatically operated systems.

Confusion In Bathroom Eased By Large Mirror

To solve the problem of heavy rush hour traffic in the bathroom, taek a tip from modern designers and install a vanity lavatory with a wall-to-wall plate glass mirror or a large medicine cabinet with sizeable mirror area.

Today's larger families not only require more bathroom facilities and space but more elbow room and less confusion. They are achieving this effectively with large areas of plate glass mirrors and the larger storage and working space afforded by the mirror-vanity set-up.

Sharing the bathroom is often made possible this way, with a twin basin vanity and plenty of storage space for medicines, cosmetics, shaving gear and beauty equipment.

Large mirror areas not only modernize appearance and visually push back the walls, but add effiicently in the bathroom.

Greater mirror areas end the necessity of peering over shoulders when the bathroom is being shared, and contribute to good grooming.

Paint Can Make Windows Stick

When painting window sash, never paint the groove in the frame in which the sash moves up and down. If you do, the chances are you'll end up with a sticking window.

Green Wood Best In Concrete Work

Green lumber is better than seasoned lumber in making forms for concrete work. Well-dried lumber draws in moisture from the concrete and will be subject to warping.

If well-seasoned lumber is the only kind available, be sure to give it a coat of oil before the concrete mixture is put inside the forms.

JOB FOR PIONEERS NOT POLITICIANS

"Private industry is betting several million dollars that the hydrogen bomb can be tamed," writes Charles Carroll in the New York Herald Tribune.

His article has to do with a $10 million experimental project now being undertaken by a group of taxpaying, business-managed utility companies and leading research organizations. The problems that lie in the way of successful "taming of the hydrogen bomb" are enormous. Some scientists feel that they may actually be insoluble. To cite just one example, a container capable of holding an element heated to at least 100 million degrees Centigrade will have to be devised, and no one yet knows how or if it can be done.

At the best, this is an extremely long-range undertaking. Mr. Carroll quotes one scientist involved in fusion power experiments as presenting this timetable: "Five years of research to make a realistic appraisal of the fusion process; ten years before technical feasibility emerges; and five years before a power plant can be developed."

Here, certainly, is the answer to the political charge that self-supporting private enterprise cannot be trusted to take the long nuclear energy gambles, and that the only thing to do is to undertake a great government crash program at an unknown cost to the taxpayers. The utility companies cited are just a few of the many which are experimenting with nuclear power production in various ways—by fission and fusion both. The risks are great; the problems and the unknown factors are staggering. But this, to private enterprise, is a challenge—not a deterrent—which calls for pioneering of the highest order and in the best American tradition.

POWER OF THE PRESS

An 81-year-old country newspaperman, Chet Lampson, editor of the weekly Jefferson, Ohio, Gazette, has provided the country with a dramatic example of the power of the press. Mr. Lampson's paper is small, and its power was exerted against one of the biggest organizations in existence—the U. S. Treasury Department. But David slew Goliath!

Here's what happened: Mr. Lampson received a notice from the Internal Revenue Service demanding payment of an alleged income tax indebtedness of $9. The notice sent his blood pressure soaring. First of all, he didn't believe he owed the money. But that was a minor consideration. What really angered him was the insulting wording of the notice, and its threats of attachment of income and seizure of property unless the claim was paid at once.

Mr. Lampson didn't confine his views to the columns of his own paper. He wrote the President of the United States and various other officials, including members of Congress. He stated that, "No agency of Government should be allowed to insult any citizen, or deny him his constitutional rights or inflict cruel and unusual punishments on a mere assumption that the taxpayer is a willful violator of the income tax law." To make a long story short, Mr. Lampson got results. The International Reveuue Service is changing the wording of its form, and you can bet that the new version will be couched in much more courteous language.

So a small-town newspaperman took up the cudgel against a branch of a great government—and won a battle that affects the rights and dignity of all our citizens. Honor to him!

Realty Views

"I've got to make good on a courtship promise," said a young man recently. "When I was courting my wife, I painted her a picture of a cottage for two. We've only been married a week, but she won't let me forget it."

"That's right," said his pretty young bride. "We want a home of our own."

I showed them a neat 2 bedroom home which they could afford, but they delayed a decision.

A couple of days later, they came in again.

"We've been looking around to try to find a home which suits us better," he said.

"Any luck?"

"No," he said, "I'm getting more convinced we should buy the one you showed us. However, it was a new venture and we hated to buy the first one we saw."

"I understand," I replied, "and luckily, that home is still available. It's only $8,500.00. Like I mentioned before, you could find a larger one at a bigger price, but this one is as much as you need and all you should attempt to buy."

They bought it subject to a loan. The loan company approved his application but the manager told him it was about the maximum loan which they could approve for him, based on his earnings.

"We want to thank you for guiding us into the right kind of a home," he said to me.

May we put our years of EXPERIENCE to work helping YOU as well?

School Enrolls Less Than 1956

Unusual in these days of continued increases in school enrollment is the Britton-Macon public schools who report a decrease of about 25 students.

Superintendent Rudolph Koczman reports the enrollment this year is 530, which is subject to a slight change, as a few children have yet to enter school. Figures for 1956 showed 555 students attended classes.

There is a slight increase in the high school but an offsetting decrease in the elementary grades Kindergarten with 48 registered is about the same as last year.

NEWS OF THE FARM

Lenawee Co. Agricultural Agent's Column - - - - -

An elevator has some advantages over a blower for filling silo reports Louis G. Hall, county agricultural agent for Lenawee County. So if you're in the market for silo filling equipment it would be wise to give it some thought.

According to B. F. Cargill, agricultural engineer at Michigan State University, the most important advantage of an elevator is that you can get by with one less tractor. Normally, he says, you'd need a 30 to 40 horse power tractor on the blower plus a tractor on the chopper and one on the wagons. With a well designed elevator you can replace the blower-tractor with a 2 to 3 horse electric motor and unload just as fast as with a blower.

The cost of the elevator will be about the same as a blower. But, Cargill says, you can use it for a number of other jobs around the farm such as elevating straw, hay, grain, bags, shell corn, cob corn, etc.

An elevator will also eliminate the plugging problems you sometimes have with a blower, but it may be more troublesome on windy days, Cargill says.

For a 40 foot silo you'll need a 48 and 54 foot elevator depending on the width of the silo. Some short, heavy duty, elevators can be equipped with an extension for filling silo, he adds.

Freeze Out Rats

You can put the "freeze" on rats in your corn next winter if you have been using a forced air dryer, reports Bob Maddex, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State University. He says some farmers around Michigan have found that running the dryer off and on during the winter makes it so uncomfortable for rats and other rodents they do little damage to the corn.

2 Clover Youths Raise Sty Of Pigs

This is a success story about two boys in the Lucky Clover 4-H Club who started out with rabbits and after a minor disaster took a gilt pig and turned their efforts into a sty of swine that would make any farmer proud.

And they did it on three acres of land and with boughten feed.

They are Raymond and Nelson Sweet, 14 and 12, respectively, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Sweet, who live on a seven-acre plot of land on Ives road near Occidental road in Raisin township.

The brothers started out with rabbits in 1954 but their cages were destroyed by fire. The father, a Tecumseh Products Co. worker, then purchased a gilt pig for them and in 1955 they went to the Lenawee County Fair with a litter of six, but because they were too fat they failed to win first prize ribbons.

However, the Adrian elevator recognized their efforts and award them with another registered duroc jersey sow and from these two sows they now have a total of 19 pigs, including three sows and three boars, that they will show at the Lenawee County Fair starting next Monday.

In addition, two weeks ago they sold six fat hogs, born in May and averaging 192 pounds each, for a net total of $233.63 and this week they are selling six more to a livestock exchange in Dundee.

In 1956 they won 11 ribbons with their pigs at the county fair.

Raymond is in the eighth grade and Nelson in the sixth in the Tecumseh public schools.

Radioactive Fertilizer Aids Research

Radioactive fertilizer doesn't sound like the kind of thing a farmer would like to fool with. But it is helping Kirk Lawton, soil scientist at Michigan State University, find how farmers can make the best use of ordinary fertilizer.

Lawton is testing to find the best methods of applying phosphorus fertilizer and the best form to use for crop production. So far his results show liquid and solid forms are about equally effective when they are applied in the same way.

His work shows placement of fertilizer below and to the side of the seed gives the best results when starter fertilizer is applied in the row. Band application produced the highest return of phosphorus from the fertilizer applied.

To find these results, Lawton applied radioactive phosphorus called P32, to corn for two years using several forms and different methods of application.

The radioactivity of the P32 allowed him to measure the amount of phosphorus taken into the plants. This reflected which method of application and which form of fertilizer was most efficient. Lawton says the technique of using radioactive material is "10,000 times as accurate" as any chemical method of measuring the phosphorus.

The radioactive phosphorus is produced at Oak Ridge, Tenn. It then goes to Beltsville, Md., where the U. S. Department of Agriculture incorporates it into fertilizers and it is sent out to some 36 agricultural experiment stations that have started using the P32 since 1949-50 when it first became available.

The proportion of phosphorus the plant takes from the fertilizer can be calculated with the radioactive P32. The total phosphorus is removed from the plant and the per cent of radioactivity is calculated. This enables the researchers to tell what per cent of the phosphorus applied to the soil as fertilizer was used by the plant and how much remained in the soil.

P32 has been put to work by Michigan State research men in many experiments. It has been used to test the different phosphate fertiizers, to measure the effect of soil pH on availability of phosphorus, to find its relationship with nitrogen, to find from what segment of zone of the soil the plant roots are drawing their nutrients and many other studies.

The work of improving the efficiency of phosphorus fertilizer is important because the per cent of phosphorus put on the soil that is taken up by the plant is very low in comparison with nitrogen and potassium.

Local Farmer Promotes Rodeo Sunday

Cowhand Calvin Thilo, who works for Robert Spence, is practicing up for next Sunday's rodeo. Soon after this photo was snapped the Brahma steer and Calvin parted. Spence says Brahmas, sacred cows in their native India, make good rodeo stock because they are tough, easy to keep and harder to ride than Hereford or other American type steers because they have the knack of jumping and twisting at the same time.

Works 3 Years On His Farm To Realize Ambition

The lifelong ambition of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spence to put on their own rodeo will be realized next Sunday at 2 p.m.

For years they have promoted rodeos for organizations and different people throughout the United States, but have never had one of their very own.

Three years ago they purchased a 160-acre farm at Billmyer and Pennington roads and then their dream started to unforld.

They chose a hickory grove a few hundred yards off Pennington for the rodeo site and began the long job of building a corral an da maze of chutes to divide and direct bronc horses and steers to the six chutes from which the cowboys start their back wrenching rides into the arena.

Red, white and blue posters have been circulated for miles around and everything is predetermined except the weather. They have their fingers crossed, hoping for a nice day and a large crowd.

Approximately 50 cowboys are expected to test their skill at riding 25 bronco horses and 10 Brahma steers. There will also be calf roping, trick riding, just about everything you see at a western rodeo.

In addition "Sagebrush" Shorty, Detroit TV personality, will be present with his ventriloquist dummies for the benefit of the kiddies.

A Detroit policeman with his 'Safety Girl," a doberman pinscher dog, will have a message in safety for the children and a Boy Scout Troop from Livonia will put on an Indian war dance.

Christian Science Sunday Service

The rewards of active gratitude to God will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Reading from the King James Version of the Bible will include the following (I Timothy 6:17): "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (79:31-32): "Giving does not impoverish us in the service of our Maker, neither does withholding enrich us."

The Golden Text is from Hosea (12:6): "Turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually."

Bounty Hunts Are Still Profitable

State bounty payments to hunters and trappers totaled $9390 during July for foxes, coyotes and bobcats.

By species, 1278 foxes accounted for $6390 of the total, while $2745 was paid for 160 coyotes and $225 for 51 bobcats.

All of the bobcats and all but nine of the coyotes were taken in the upper peninsula. Foxes are bountied generally throughout the state.

During the first seven months of the year, state bounty payments have totaled more than $123,000. These payments are financed by the Game and Fish Protection Fund, created by revenue from hunting and fishing licenses.

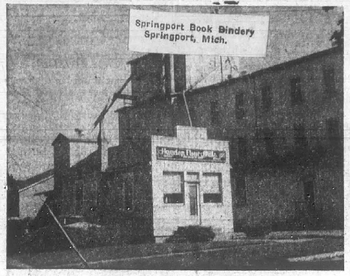
Hayden Mills Sold 4,600 Tons Of Flour In 1956

Springport Book Bindery
Springport, Mich.



Long a landmark in Tecumseh, the Hayden Flour Mills continues its long tradition of milling fine flour.

Tecumseh Herald Photos

Much of the wheat is supplied by local farmers. Here William Prong and Horace Phillips (on the dock) watch unloading.

Hayden Mills, located at 314 S. Pearl st., not only manufactures a fine grade of flour which is used in cakes and pastries, but offers complete services to farmers in the surrounding area. The company, now under the direction of general manager H. C. Weghorst, has been in business since 1835.

Twenty-seven persons are employed in the company. Besides the office staff, there are three main divisions — the flour mill, feed production, and elevator.

Here the farmer's wheat is ground and a blended flour is produced for use in his home if he desires. The feed mill makes animal pellets for his poultry, swine, dairy, rabbits or chinchillas. And the elevator, which takes care of the grain when it first comes in, also has charge of the sale of animal supplements, fattners, plant food, fertilizers, medicines, antibiotics, seed, and sprays.

The mill, under the direction of superintendent, E. T. Drake, produces 100 per cent wheat flour to be used in cakes and pastry. Most of the business is done with bakeries and is shipped to the Eastern market.

When the wheat is brought into the mill by the farmer, the grain is sent over a receiving separator which takes out all the rough particles. It is next sent through three cleaning

Editor's Corner . . .

BY RALPH BIDWELL

Our guess is the City Council hasn't heard the last of their close 4-3 decision in refusing property owners in Herrick Park the right to change E. Brown and S. Outer Drive to Herrick Park road.

Had the petitioners realized the outcome, undoubtedly the Council chambers would have been jammed much in same manner as they were for the historic "drag" race hearing.

*****

Another observation we have made after a month in this fine city is that certain public officials operate on the theory that what the taxpayer doesn't know won't hurt him.

On the contrary, we have always believed that what the taxpayer is paying for is public business and a newspaper as a quasi-public institution has the right and duty to print it.

For example, a certain member of the City Planning Commission—and there may have been more—objected to our first story about the proposed downtown parking plan.

Rx For Sick Lawns

Turf Reports

BY LEO BISHOP

There is nothing mysterious about maintaining a really good lawn. It's simply a matter of doing the right things at the right time with special emphasis on aerating, feeding and mowing.

There will be too many hundreds of pounds of lawn seed scattered, dumped, scratched into the ground and otherwise shoved around this late summer and early fall in an attempt to revive the remains of the brave young lawns of last spring and not enough lawn food used.

In most cases the timing will be more or less right but in how many cases the technique will be right is anyone's guess. Whenever the technique isn't right, not very much will be gained. So let's talk about re-doing the lawn in the right way at the right time—now.

If you live in the Tecumseh area and your grass lawn has that tired worn-out, "I've-had-it" look, you had better know how it got that way in the first place. In all probability, starvation was the

David And Goliath Are Teammates

Local Physicians Starting To Get New Flu Vaccine

Tecumseh physicians are receiving small amounts of the new vaccine to combat the expected epidemic of Asiatic influenza but most of them are waiting for more before starting to innoculate those on their long waiting lists.

However, the doctors wish to emphasize there is no reason to be alarmed because they have been assured there will be plenty of vaccine for every one. The local MDs have set a uniform price of $3.00 per shot.

The Lenawee County Health Commissioner, Dr. John S. Wiseley, who attended a State Health Officers Conference in Boyne Mountain a week ago, stated this week that "there have been no cases of this type of influenza reported in Lenawee County "but added that "there is a very distinct possibility that an epidemic will strike Michigan before Christmas if not averted by these innoculations."

"Of course, no one knows definitely," he said.

Public health authorities believe there may be two waves similar to the epidemic that hit the nation in 1918, with a mild wave at first

Gunderson Triplets Now Live Here

The first and only triplets born in Herrick Memorial Hospital nearly a year ago are now residing with their parents and sister in Tecumseh.

All three have blue eyes and light brown curly hair and now weigh over 20 pounds each. In fact, Sally Ann, born first at 7:07 a.m., Oct. 14, 1956, has grown from three pounds 15 ounces at birth to 21 pounds four ounces; Mary Ann, born at 7:14 a.m., four pounds 10 ounces to 22 pounds eight ounces, and Betty Ann, born last, at 7:24 a.m. was the heaviest at birth at five pounds even but now weighs the least, 20 pounds four ounces.

Their mother, Wava, 30, said the triplets, who were born seven weeks prematurely, have been very healthy. The only sickness they have had was last winter when Sally and Mary had bronchitis.

Biggest difficulty the parents have is in buying clothes of the same size and color for them.

"I make most of them myself," the mother said.

"When they were small it used to take me an hour and a half to feed them. Now I can do it in 20 minutes.

All three of their beds are alike, they ride around in a double-decked three seater stroller (two sit below and one up) and eat in a three-seated table arrangement as shown above.

The Gundersons have a fourth daughter, Sue, whose middle name is also Ann. She will be two years old on Oct. 2.

When the triplets were born, the Gundersons lived in Adrian but later moved to Wayne.

The father, 31, works part time for Dixon's Studio and is on the afternoon shift at Ford's Rawsonville plant.

Law Don't Apply Council Informed

The Offstreet Parking Committee that the City Planning Commission proposed was not appointed by the City Council Monday.

On advice of the City Attorney, the Council referred the proposal back to the Commission. The State Enabling Act that the Commission assumed would give the proposed committee authority to carry out the parking project applies only to County governments, the Council was informed.

The Council decision was reached after considerable controversy. One group felt they should give Chicago Boulevard merchants a mandamus to proceed on the offstreet parking project and the other faction argued they would be creating a duplicate parking commission.

Curb And Gutter Work Completed

In his report to the City Councilcil Monday, the City Manager stated that his crews have completed the 15,043 feet of curb and gutter that the City intended to install this year.

We have several blocks to seal coat and are trying to get these streets prepared and graded for sealing in the next couple of weeks, he said.

Rumor Is Untrue

Another of many rumors that is often attached to the operations of the Tecumseh Products Co. was denied Wednesday.

"It is not true," Melbourne Wilson, personnel manager, said when asked about the report that the company had rehired 700 employes.

Learn Of Mexico

Herb Dillon reported on the Halloween activities for this year in connection with other service clubs and said the usual theater party would be held for the children.

George Green, Jr., had charge of the program and presented Mr. Ted McConnell who showed interesting pictures of a trip to Mexico accompanied by a talk.

OK Payment On New City Hall

The City Council approved the first payment of $10,125.90 to the Elliott Construction Co. and Krieghoff Lenawee Co. for work done on the City Hall upon the presentation of a bond endorsed by both parties insuring that the project will be completed at the contracted price.

Recently when Max Elliott was unable to secure a bond for the project, he went into partnership with the Adrian company thereby accounting for the bond signing delay.

Masons are now laying the two courses, slabs inside and limestone outside, and the external appearance of the building is gradually taking shape.

Herrick Park Petition KO'ed By Council, 4-3

In their most controversial mood in months, the City Council Monday night turned down a request from 143 home owners in Herrick Park to change the name of E. Brown street and its continuation into the subdivision as S. Outer Drive to Herrick Park road.

The vote was 4 to 3.

The home owners' petition was accepted a month ago and Monday night was set as a public hearing date in case anyone wished to object to the change. No one was present for either side.

The City Planning Commission some time ago had approved the change and sent it to the Council for adoption.

The property owners wanted the change made because strangers had difficulty in finding there way to and in the subdivision; because mail and other deliveries is often mixed up; because Herrick Park road is an appropriate name for the street adjacent to the new school being built of the same name; because their area is known as Herrick Park.

Mayor H. H. Hanna, who voted in favor of the name change, stated "we should approve the change since no one is present to opposing it."

Councilman James Freckelton said "I doubt if those people realize the changes they would have to make in their legal documents if we approved their petition."

Councilman Donald Purkey remarked that "strangers have just as much trouble finding their way into and around Tecumseh Acres."

After considerable wrangling in which all participated, Councilman Harold Kelso made the motion that the name be changed and Councilman Ray Schlegel seconded it.

The vote was deadlocked as Mayor Hanna and Councilmen Kelso and Schlegel voted "yes" and Councilmen Donald Brazee, Freckelton and Purkey voted "no."

The issue was tabled until Councilman John Hamilton, who was late arriving at the session, could cast his vote.

After several other issues were discussed, Hamilton arrived and before the session terminated, the street change issue was rehashed and another poll of the Councilmen taken.

Councilman Hamilton, on assumption that "strangers have to ask directions when they arrive in the City," voted "no."

"Put an arrow sign up at Mill and Brown pointing toward Herrick Park," he said.

Nothing more was said.

Health Survey Into 2nd Half

A status report on the Tecumseh Community Health Study as of last Monday shows that all 209 blocks or rural segments have been assigned for interviewing and 128 have been completely canvassed.

A total of 2,476 households have been interviewed (this count includes vacant homes and vacant apartments).

According to John Napier, field supervisor, 1059 completed Chronic Conditions and Impairments forms have been received.

He urges those who have not done so to complete the forms and mail them in as soon as possible.

The importance of current recording of all illnesses and injuries on the Monthly Record of Illness, Injury and Disability cannot be overemphasized, he said.

The first of these monthly reports are to be mailed in as soon as possible after Oct. 1, even though no one in the household was sick.

Winter May Be Damper

May Postpone Bridge, Sewer Project

The nearness of winter will apparently put a damper on two major projects in the City.

One is the new bridge M-52 Raisin River bridge. Preliminary work, such as stake setting, disconnecting of water lines was completed a week ago. State engineers were even in town looking for rooms to stay in while the project was to be carried on.

Last week City Manager E. J. Nelson was in Lansing and deposited $5,000, the City's first year share of its total cost of $30,000 and the official contract has been signed.

Now State Highway engineers doubt the advisability of starting the project and having it tied up in cold weather by non-delivery of steel before February.

In the other project, the Council after discussions at several recent meetings agreed the City should act on a petition of 42

Ruth Titley Weds Birmingham Man After 2-Year Courtship

A double date about two years ago was the beginning of a courtship which ended in marriage Saturday evening, Sept. 14, for Miss Ruth Elaine Titley of Route 1, Tecumseh, and Stewart L. Peck of Birmingham. The two met when Miss Titley was attending the Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing from which she graduated Aug. 31 of this year.

MRS. STEWART PECK

They were married by the Rev. David Holly at the Tipton Community Church at 7:30 p.m. The bride was radiant in her gown of bridal satin and point Venice lace. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Titley and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Peck of Birmingham.

The church was beautifully decorated, the altar banked with lighted candlebra, hampers of white gladioli and palms. The center aisle was lined with candlebra and pews were marked with white satin bows centered with white gladioli.

Mrs. Harold Every played nuptial music preceding the ceremony at the organ and accompanied the bride's aunt, Mrs. Glenn Titley, as she sang "Because" and "Through the Years"; also Mrs. Ann VanDuesen who sang "The Lords Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bridal gown was fashinoed with long sleeves ending at points on the hands and a fitted bodice, lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls which formed the sabrina neckline. Medallions of lace trimmed the floor length skirt which fell into a chapel train. She wore white pearl earrings and her lace edged finger tip veil was attached to a lace and pearl pill box hat. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and strands of ivy.

Miss Carol Peck of Birmingham the sister of the groom, was the maid of honor wearing a gown of emerald green satin faced crystalette with a full waltz length skirt, a fitted bodice with rounded neckline and short sleeves. A contrasting color formed the summerbund which ended in panels in back, finished at the waistline with a tailored bow. She wore matching shoes, matching petaled headband and carried a flat wicker basket with an arrangement of mums in contrasting colors.

The Misses Kathleen Thomas of Royal Oak and Janet Wait of Jackson, both former classmates of the bride, were the bridemaids wearing gowns fashioned in the same design as the matron of honor in gold and tangerine colors. They also carried wicker baskets of mums. The gowns of the bride and her attendants as well as the headpieces were all made by Maude Bell of Tecumseh.

Dr. James H. Stegeman of Birmingham was the best man and the ushers were Dale E. Titley of Tecumseh, Robert E. Basham of Pittsburgh, Penn., Lt. Daniel F. Robins, U.S.A.F. of St. Louis, Mich. and Lawrence D. Peck of Birmingham.
